SPACE REPAIR STARTS

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two Skylab 3 astronauts floated out of the giant space station today and began an ambitious Thanksgiving Day spacewalk to repair an antenna and load fresh film in their solar observatory.

Edward Gibson and William Pogue opened the hatch at 9:43 a.m. PST, an hour and 33 minutes behind schedule, to start the planned walk that could easily last eight hours.

PHILIP

ON THE CHEAP

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Philip caused some red faces among dignitaries attending the opening of a London sports centre Wednesday.

He arrived at the site in a Vauxhall while other officials drove up in Rolls Royces.

A palace spokesman said today Philip left his Rolls, which does eight miles to the gallon, in the garage and took the Vauxhall, which does 34 miles, as a personal gesture in the fuel crisis.

Prince Charles followed his father's example when he flew to Spain aboard a scheduled airliner Tuesday instead of using the Queen's private plane, which had been laid on for him, the spokesman said.

News of the young prince's mode of transport came as a political controversy flared over a company executive jet being flown empty to Italy to pick up a British businessman and bring him home.

Macdonald To Seek Crisis Power

Times News Services

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald will ask Parliament on Monday for emergency powers to deal with the possibility of a fuel shortage in Canada this winter, according to a Toronto report today.

Quoting Parliamentary sources, the Globe and Mail said these powers would give Ottawa tighter control on the supply of gasoline, home heating oils and other petroleum fuels.

The powers Macdonald will ask for are said to be along the lines of those being proposed in the United States and would enable the federal government to act immediately in a crisis, even though they would not necessarily mean Ottawa will move immediately to curtail the distribution and sale of petroleum products.

Prime Minister Trudeau, meanwhile, plans a nationwide address at 6:30 PST tonight on energy policy, an issue which could cost the government the crucial support of the New Democratic Party.

Asked why he selected tonight as the time for the report, since Energy Minister Macdonald will be discussing the issue with his provincial counterparts Friday, the prime minister said that "it is as good a time as any."

He was also asked by reporters whether new government policies would be announced.

"A situational report is a good way of describing it," he replied.

In Montreal, Tory leader Stanfield said today home heating oil product prices should be controlled throughout Canada for the duration of the winter.

"This controlled price should take effect immediately and should be maintained throughout the winter while industry and the government negotiate a voluntary price freeze on Canadian crude oil," he said.

Stanfield said the lifting of the government's price freeze on Feb. 1 would create two types of Canadians, those in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces paying higher prices, and those in the rest of Canada," he said.

Once the freeze was listed, he said, the government should adopt a policy permitting only gradual increases, in consultation with provincial governments.

In another energy crisis development U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger may meet with West European foreign ministers early next month to discuss united action that can be taken on the Middle East stiuation and the oil shortage.

There has been no evidence what action he and the ministers might take in response to production cuts and embargos by Arab oil countries, but the subject of economic sanctions has been raised.

In the next three to four weeks the Arab boycott against the Netherlands and its huge oil terminals is expected to be cutting deep into Western Europe's oil supplies.

Kissinger is due in Brussels Dec. 10 to join foreign ministers from 14 allied countries at the annual meeting of the

Food Chain Fined

Times News Services

TORONTO — Dominion Stores Ltd., an eastern food store chain, was fined $10,000 in provincial court today for false advertising in connection with a newspaper advertisement last Aug. 4.

The advertisement, which appeared in a Toronto newspaper and was signed by company President Thomas Bolton, promised Dominion would not raise their price of goods already on the shelves.

But two witnesses testified during a three-day trial that they saw store employees repricing shelf goods on the day the advertisement appeared. Other witnesses said they saw the same practice being carried out by employees of other stores Aug. 6 and 7.

Meanwhile Consumer Affairs Minister Herb Gray told the Commons Wednesday that further charges are expected to be laid over the next few weeks as a result of food prices review board criticism of grocery stores for devious selling practices.

Answering questions about the board's report, made public earlier in the day, Gray told James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) that some charges were laid last week and more can be expected.

Russia Sends Superjet

Times News Services

CAIRO — The Soviet Union has delivered a new, advanced model of the MiG-21 fighter-bomber to Egypt as part of a continuing flow of sophisticated weapons that leaves Egypt more heavily-armed than before the October war with Israel, reliable Western informants reported Wednesday.

Thirty-five to 40 of the new "Super-MiGs" arrived in Egypt in the past week, these sources said. They declined to give specifications of the new plane.

There is also a report here — which western sources stress is still unconfirmed — that the Russians have turned over one or two squadrons of MiG-23 fighters, modified for combat at lower altitudes, to Egyptian pilots within the past three weeks.

The Russians reportedly had one or two squadrons of MiG-23s in Egypt on reconnaisance duty before President Anwar Sadat ousted 15,000 to 20,000 Russian military advisers in July, 1972.

Perhaps more significant for the prospects of resumption of warfare in the Middle East — a fear expressed by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir Wednesday — is the rebuilding of Egypt's ground forces that has taken place since the Oct. ceasefire went into effect.

Egyptian and foreign sources report that the Egyptians have reformed two armored divisions with the 600 or more new tanks delivered by the Russians since the ceasefire.

Most of this armor has gone to the regrouped Egyptian Third Army on the West Bank of the Suez Canal, which has taken up positions in front of the Israeli line stretching between the towns of Ismailia and Suez, military experts here say.

Court Lifts Project Ban

MONTREAL (CP) — The Court of Appeal suspended today a Quebec Superior Court injunction granted last week which halted work on the $6-billion James Bay hydro-electric project in northwestern Quebec.

In a unanimous decision, a panel of three Court of Appeal justices ruled that the bill setting up the James Bay Development Corp. (JBDC) was constitutional until ruled unconstitutional or repealed.

The court ruled that the legislation was passed in the general and public interest of Quebec and that this public interest outweighs the interest of what the courts said were 2,000 native peoples in the James Bay region.

In the judgment read by Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay of the Court of Appeal, the court said the temporary injunction should remain suspended until the appeal is decided or until the court orders otherwise.

A lawyer for the native peoples said they will take the decision to the Supreme Court of Canada immediately.

James O'Reilly said they could go before the Supreme Court to ask leave to appeal as early as next week.

Mr. O'Reilly, who appeared downcast as he spoke to reporters after the ruling, said that if the Supreme Court grants leave to appeal, all proceedings in Quebec courts would be suspended. Today's ruling, he said, would be suspended and the injunction issued a week ago by Mr. Justice Albert Malouf of Quebec Superior Court would go back into effect.

Indian leaders attending the court hearing also expressed disappointment.

Chief Andrew Delisle, president of the Indians of Quebec Association, said "we feel the evidence we presented was not looked into completely."

He also said there have been some preliminary contacts with the provincial government and negotiations on

Tearful Tribute For WAC

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

VANCOUVER — Party officials struggled to hold back an already-frantic Bill Bennett campaign band this morning as it marched its way through the halls of the Hotel Vancouver less than an hour after the opening of the Social Credit convention.

In that short time, delegates were already worked up to something just short of a fever pitch as they began their rally with a farewell to "the old chief," W. A. C. Bennett.

It was the women's auxiliary of the Social Credit Party which actually opened the three-day convention today and more than 200 women and a scattering of men, averaging somewhere over 50 years of age, gathered under the massive chandeliers of the hotel's Pacific Ballroom to pay a tearful homage to Bennett.

More than 1,500 Social Crediters from around the province have registered for the convention so far.

Girls in white blouses and green felt skirts ushered the party faithful into the ballroom where they waited patiently, entertained by a woman in a black pillbox hat who played vaguely familiar tunes on a piano.

Bennett finally appeared with a small entourage and was bagpiped into the room.

While outside campaign workers for the leadership candidates scurried about organizing razzle-dazzle displays of power, the old party members inside the ballroom sang O Canada, recited the Social Credit creed and the Social Credit prayer.

Agnes Kripps, former MLA and now women's auxiliary president, began the proceedings with a warning that the party must not make a mistake when choosing a new leader Saturday.

She and other platform speakers carefully avoided discussing the six candidates vying for the office and only the slightest hint of tension flowed through the seated delegates as she mentioned the race which will be the focal point of the convention.

Mrs. Kripps moved quickly to the favorite topic of growing Socred memberships.

"Organize, organize, organize," she said, beseeching the delegates to join with her in a chant: "We can do it, we must do it, we will do it."

Bennett himself, dried the tears from his eyes as he took the podium after listening to a multitude of tributes from MLA Pat Jordan, who said the old premier would be remembered in history "as the single most successful politician in Canada."

"And perhaps as the most successful social reformer in Canada," she added.

During his 20 years in office, Mrs. Jordan said the Socred leader had made B.C. "an example to the whole free world."

"We love him," she said.

In between standing ovations, Bennett was every bit his old self as he called for a "holy crusade" of non-socialists in B.C. to defeat the NDP government.

Garnishees Revived

OTTAWA (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission has re-implemented under new guides the use of garnishees to collect unemployment insurance overpayments after the practice was stopped in mid-July.

Boycott Talks Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senator Ed Lawson, Teamsters Union international vice-president and president of Joint Council 36 in British Columbia, said Wednesday he will meet the B.C. Premier Dave Barrett and Health Minister Dennis Cocke in Victoria next Tuesday to discuss Lawson's allegation that Cocke "knowingly deceived" him about a California grapes boycott at provincially-operated health facilities.

Decision Upheld

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba court of appeal Wednesday declined to reverse a lower court decision allowing the transfer of $4 million and assets of Churchill Forest Industries to a newly created provincial crown corporation.

Torture Alleged

LAHORE (AP) — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto is "mounting a campaign of terror" against his political opponents, says the leader of one of Pakistan's major opposition parties. Asgar Khan, head of the Tehrik-I-Istiklal party, said Wednesday in an interview there have been widespread arrests and torture of opposition party workers.

OUR MAN IN CAIRO RECALLED

OTTAWA (CP) — A foreign service officer who committed a "grave breach of discipline" by writing a letter to a newspaper criticizing Canadian Middle East policy is being recalled.

A spokesman for the immigration department said Pierre Brisson, third secretary of the Canadian embassy in Cairo, will not be punished but will undergo further training.

He said Brisson, an employee of the foreign service of the immigration department, committed a "grave breach of discipline" when he wrote the letter to the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir.

The letter, appearing in the Nov. 10 edition, said Canada is prejudiced toward Israel.

Among other things, the letter asks why Canada supports the existence of Israel and closes its eyes to the occupation of Arab lands by Israel.

"Could the real reason for the 'incoherence' of the 'politicians' be that it pays to support Israel at election time?

"This would be to admit that Jewish capital controls Canadian external policy and evidently makes it qualify as racist, or Nazi."

The immigration spokesman said the letter was a clear infraction of regulations forbidding foreign service officers from involving themselves in political discussions.

Meanwhile, the external affairs department said Canadian Ambassador Andrew Ross in Chile is not being recalled, despite demands from New Democratic Party MPs last week.

Ross has been a centre of controversy since letters he sent to the external affairs department were leaked.

Germ Threat Made

BONN (Reuter) — The spectre of a mad scientist or sinister organization holding the country to ransom with phials of deadly bacteria hangs over West Germany.

The mass-circulation newspaper Bild says threats to spread the bacteria of anthrax and botulism through the mail or plant them in factories, hotels, shopping centres or the public water supplies of several large cities were contained in four letters sent to Chancellor Willy Brandt's office.

The letters demanded a $8.7-million ransom to stop the threats, which also included bomb attacks on public buildings and the kinapping of government members, the newspaper says.

Bild says authorities responded by placing a brief "We accept" message in the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel.

Police, security officials and a government spokesman in Bonn all declined to comment on the extortion story or on the cryptic message in Der Spiegel.

HE WAS RICH . . . FOR A FEW BLOCKS

VANCOUVER (CP)—William Wood doesn't remember it very well but once was rich for a few minutes Oct. 17.

The 62-year-old man was sentenced to six months Tuesday after he was convicted of robbing a branch of the Royal Bank of $1,588.

Judge A. J. Carmichael said Wood had "sufficient liquor in him to make a lot of people pass out."

Wood had a blood alcohol reading of .19 shortly after his arrest. Legal driving impairment is .08 per cent blood alcohol.

"I remember coming out of the bank," Wood told the court, "but I don't recall being in there.

"I'm a born loser, but at least I was rich for a few blocks."

AUTO PLANT MANAGER KILLED IN ARGENTINE

CORDOBA (AP) — Terrorists early today shot and killed the American manager of an automobile plant, killed one of his bodyguards and wounded two others in a machine-gun attack, Argentine police said.

The American was identified as John Albert Swint. He headed Transax, an automobile parts factory which is a subsidiary of the Ford auto company.

Police said Swint was on his way to his office when his chauffeur-driven car slowed for a large truck parked across the road. As the car eased around the truck, shooting broke out from all sides.

Police said the attackers apparently were members of the Marxist-led People's Revolutionary Army, known as the ERP.

Bank Profit Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Bank of British Columbia had a profit increase of 35.9 per cent for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1973, compared with the previous year.

Assets rose 30.2 per cent to $317,866,195 from $244,175,618. Deposits rose 33.3 per cent to $295,304,818 from $221,616,341 and loans outstanding at the year end were up 31 per cent at $235,066,995 from $179,451,571.

Securities held by the bank were valued at $16,242,237, down 25.1 per cent from $21,684,657 at the previous year end.

The bank's balance of revenue was up 63.3 per cent at $1,313,808 compared with $804,545.

Balance of profits was $413,808, up 35.9 per cent from $304,545 in the previous year.

Dividends of 50 cents a share were paid in fiscal 1973 compared with 20 cents in fiscal 1972.

The bank has 23 branches, all in B.C.

Tot's Welfare Comes First

OTTAWA (CP) — A child's welfare has been placed above the rights of natural parents in custody cases in a trend-reversing decision today by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court agreed with an August Ontario Court of Appeal decision that four-year-old Lisa Moores of Toronto, also known as Carrie Feldstein, should remain with the people who have raised her rather than return to her natural mother.

Three high court judges have dismissed a motion to appeal the Ontario court decision made earlier this week by lawyers for Carrie's natural mother.

In the past, other major cases have tended to favor natural parents as the proper ones to decide the destiny of a child.

But the Ontario court followed a British precedent and ruled that paramount consideration in custody cases should be the welfare of the child.

Carrie was born July 1, 1969, to Jane Louise Moores but began living with Carl and Mary Feldstein 10 days later.

Mrs. Moores then asked the Supreme Court for permission to review the Ontario decision, and three judges — Mr. Justices Roland Ritchie, Wilfred Judson and Wishart Spence considered the request in a small courtroom earlier this week.

During the hearing, the lawyer for Mrs. Moores, Joseph Lewis, argued that the Ontario court had not followed legal principles on custody outlined in a number of recent Supreme Court decisions. The Ontario court had wrongly applied the British case, he said.

New Ulster Peace Plan Has Role for Catholics

Times News Services

LONDON — A Northern Ireland power-sharing agreement gives the mainly Protestant Unionists six seats on a governing executive, the largely Roman Catholic Social Democrats four, the non-sectarian Alliance one, and leaves one seat vacant, sources said today.

In addition, informants said three non-voting advisory positions will be given to the Social Democrats and the Alliance in exchange for their agreeing to a minority share of the Northern Irish cabinet.

The compromise reached in Belfast Wednesday was formally outlined to Parliament today by William Whitelaw, the British ambassador of Northern Ireland.

Whitelaw said the Unionists will be responsible for finance, environment, education, agriculture and information. The SDLP will be concerned with commerce, health and social security, housing, and local government and planning.

Whitelaw said the government now will plan for a progressive release of all detainees held without trial as suspected guerrillas under emergency laws "if the security situation permits."

The new executive will give Northern Ireland's Catholics a major say in the running of the province and represents the biggest step forward for them in the 50-year history of Northern Ireland.

Extremists on both sides criticized and threatened moderate Protestant and Roman Catholic politicians today for agreeing to the coalition.

The provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) branded Social Democratic and Labor Party leader Gerry Fitt and his colleagues in the Major Roman Catholic party "arch collaborators."

The Ulster Freedom Fighters, a Protestant extremist group, threatened to assassinate Brian Faulkner, head of the Unionist party, and other Protestant leaders who voted for the power-sharing agreement.

William Beattie, deputy leader of Rev. Ian Paisley's militant Protestant Democratic Unionists, said the accord was "a gross act of betrayal."

CHESS EVENT OPENS FRIDAY

Competition starts Friday at 7 p.m. at Gordon Head recreation centre in a 32-player Vancouver Island invitational chess tournament that has attracted Canada's top-rated player.

Among the contestants is Vancouver's Duncan Suttles, 28, who will soon be taking part in a grandmasters' event in England.

Play will continue Saturday and Sunday with spectators invited (without charge) to watch the contestants, who also include Jonathan Berry, a talented 19-year-old from Vancouver.

THE LAST BROTHER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a gray November dawn, Sen. Edward Kennedy knelt at the grave of his brother John, the president of the United States, assassinated in Dallas 10 years ago today.

Kennedy, accompanied by his sister Pat and his sister-in-law, Ethel, and a number of the Kennedy children, went to Arlington National Cemetery shortly after 7 a.m. EST before the tall iron gates were opened for the public.

They knelt in prayer before the flickering eternal flame above the granite stones marking the grave of the slain president, and then moved a few steps down the hill to pray by the simple cross above the grave of Sen. Robert Kennedy who was assassinated in 1968.

Among the tributes on the late president's grave was a silver rose in a dark red velvet case, placed there by the Italian embassy.

Flowers put on Robert's grave by his widow Ethel and their children two days ago on the 48th anniversary of his birth were still fresh and there were other sprays from the public on both graves.

In Dallas, city officials called for a large turnout Wednesday to commemorate the slaying at ceremonies near the assassination spot, but only about 300 turned out.

Socred Session Opens

Conservatives to join the Social Credit Party, Bennett told his attentive audience "we must always keep the light open for the reformers in the NDP who are not really socialists."

He blamed the defeat of his administration on an over-confidence that the party would be re-elected and he urged the party to not forget, as he had done, that party memberships are of utmost importance.

He asked every constituency association in B.C. to bring in 50 new Social Credit members each month and delegates shouted their eager commitment.

He said the Socreds are going through a "necessary period of renewal" and will emerge "more vibrant and dynamic" ready to take office for 30 years next election.

The former premier was presented with a plaque by Mrs. Kripps and made the first-ever honorary life member of the Social Credit women's auxiliary.

Mrs. Kripps called it a "throat-choking moment" and Bennett marched off the stage to the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

As he left, the sound of his son's campaign band could be heard as it marched around the hotel urging delegates to keep up the family tradition and elect Bill Bennett the new leader.

The official opening of the main convention was to begin this afternoon.

White House Linked To Loan Corruption

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — A U.S. House subcommittee has evidence that may link the White House to alleged corrupt loan activity in the Small Business Administration.

United Press International says the information, obtained by House investigators, is to be presented at hearings of the House small business subcommittee, which begin Tuesday.

The sources said investigators have found "documented evidence" of "direct links" between SBA loan irreularities and the White House.

They said hints of White House involvement first surfaced when the house banking and currency committee started looking into charges of widespread corruption in SBA about one month ago. More information was obtained "very recently," sources said.

Next week's subcommittee hearings follow several days of testimony behind closed doors. Subcommittee members recently voted unanimously to delay action on additional loan authority for the SBA until the investigation is completed.

SBA officials say that without the additional authority, the agency will reach its debt limit by Dec. 1 and will be able to make new loans only as old ones are repaid.

Meanwhile, dismayed at the report of another missing conversation on President Nixon's Watergate tapes, Judge John Sirica Wednesday gave the president until Monday to submit all existing recordings that former special prosecutor Archibald Cox subpoenaed for safekeping at the U.S. courthouse.

If Nixon is unwilling to do that voluntarily, Sirica said he would ask Watergate prosecutors to issue a fresh subpoena for the full reels of tape containing the disputed conversations.

The new tape mystery concerns 18 minutes of conversation blotted out by a tone on one of the tapes.

The tone obliterates part of a conversation between President Nixon and his former chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman, on June 20, 1972, three days after the break-in at Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office building.

J. Fred Buzhardt, one of the president's lawyers, said he and another lawyer discovered the gap in the conversation on Nov. 14 while preparing an index and analysis of the tape.

It "contained a tone and no conversation," Buzhardt told the court. "The phenomena occurs in the course of the conversation in question. That is, not at the beginning or end."

It was the fourth instance of problems with the materials subpoenaed by the Watergate special prosecutor since the White House gave up its three-month fight over making any of the tapes available to Sirica.

North Atlantic Council. These meetings normally deal with the military situation in the Mediterranean.

Meanwhile Japan, which Wednesday formally called upon Israel to withdraw from all Arab territory it has occupied since the start of the 1967 war, also declared that it may have to reconsider its policy toward Israel "on the basis of future developments."

Chief Cabinet Secretary Susumu Nikaido declined to say what that might mean in concrete terms, declaring that everything depends on the future.

It is rare, if not unprecedented, for Japan to make a formal request for any other nation to take an action it is not disposed to take.

The request and accompanying statement was made only under strong and increasing pressure of petroleum reductions by Arab producers.

Rich Jewelry Sale

GENEVA (AP) — The biggest jewelry sale ever held by Christie's of London fetched a record 29,977,000 francs — about $9.5 million — at a Geneva auction Wednesday. The top price, nearly $1.6 million, was paid for a pair of pear-shaped diamonds of 45 and 42.4 carats. They went to an unnamed Geneva dealer.

Project Gears Up Again

the Indians' claims but added that "I can't comment."

Chief Delisle also expressed surprise that the Court of Appeal ruling only mentioned 2,000 Indians in the area.

He said there are more than 2,000 Indians in the James Bay area "and this affects all Indian people."

The development corporation and its subcontractors appealed the Superior Court ruling and requested the suspension of the injunction on the grounds that halting the work would mean a serious and costly delay in harnessing the hydroelectric potential of La Grande River, 600 miles north of Montreal.

Lawyers for the Indians, who appeared before the court for almost five hours Wednesday, argued that the purpose of the temporary injunction was to maintain the status quo in the region until a final settlement of the rights issue is reached in the courts.

To allow the work to continue, the lawyers argued, would do more irreparable damage to the territory and to the Indians' way of life.

Mr. Justice Malouf had ruled that the native peoples of the James Bay region had rights to the territory, and although he did not define those rights, said the province must negotiate surrender of these rights before developing the region.

The development corporation's appeal of Mr. Justice Malouf's ruling is expected to be heard by the Court of Appeal in early January.

COST $500,000 DAILY

JBDC officials said the injunction, which stopped the work of 3,000 men at various sites, was costing the corporation about $500,000 daily.

An affidavit filed by the developers said if the work halt lasted into the first part of December it would mean a one year delay in bringing the project into production.

The injunction was granted after six months of hearings and five months of deliberations.

Since the James Bay project began two years ago, a 450-mile road, several airstrips and permanent work camps have been built in the 135,000-square-mile area called the Municipality of James Bay.

$2M Offered For Coach Line

The provincial government has made an offer to buy Vancouver Island Coach Lines for just over $2 million and company president Jack Thomas says he will urge shareholders to accept the offer.

Sales to B.C. Hydro would give the provincial government direction over the main north-south bus transportation service on Vancouver Island.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines has a fleet of 50 buses and employs 115 people, the third largest bus company operating in B.C., after B.C. Hydro (including Pacific Stage Lines) and Greyhound.

The municipal affairs department has offered $6 per share for about 341,000 shares, for a total bid of $2,0461000.

"I think that price is fair to both sides," Thomas said. "The board of directors has unanimously voted to recommend acceptance of the offer."

Shareholders will meet Tuesday night at the Travelodge in Nanaimo for the formal vote.

The company was formed by bus drivers three years ago when a Philadelphia company, International Utilities Corp., sold its Victoria-Vancouver run to the provincial government through Pacific Stages Lines.

The remaining employees who were without work formed Vancouver Island Transportation Ltd. and kept the north-south Vancouver Island service going as a successful venture.

"The government has agreed to fully protect all employees as to jobs and pension benefits as part of the offer," Thomas said.

In Vancouver, Victor Parker, head of the provincial department of transport, confirmed the offer had been made.

Parker said the department waited for Vancouver Island Coach Lines to offer to sell before the government made the counter offer.

"This is not a takeover, this is a voluntary action by the bus company to sell to us."

Word that the provincial government would buy up all bus companies on the Island that wished to sell was first announced on May 29, this year.

On June 6, London Omnibus Tours Ltd. offered its company to the government and the sale was made. The company has 5 doubledecker buses, which became government property. B.C. Hydro also had a fleet of its own doubledecker buses through Blue Lines.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines would also put B.C. Hydro more broadly into the tourist business with its own doubledecker buses and its franchises for international bus tours.

The company also operates the airport bus service.

Two remaining local bus companies that continue to be under private ownership are Pacific Commuter and Tweed Line Tours.

Ironically, purchase of Vancouver Island Coach Lines would give the provincial government access to the present depot, which is on property owned by the Empress Hotel and the depot building is owned by Canadian Pacific Railway.

The lease, which would revert to the provincial government, has about seven years to run.

(A year ago Ian Sinclair, president of the CPR, said he would never go into partnership with the provincial government because "I will never willingly go to bed with someone who does not love me.")

Assuming a government purchase of the bus company, the department of transit may move across the street to a new depot on the site of the old Crystal Garden. The government would own the rest of the property on the block, currently held by Vancouver Island Coach Lines as a garage.

Both the province and the City of Victoria have been looking at the site as a good possibility for a super depot, taking up the whole block.

It would fit the major criteria of the municipal affairs department that a new depot should be constructed for B.C. Hydro buses, Pacific Stage Lines and now, the up-Island service, and the location should be near the legislature and the downtown core of the city.

A Tame Goose Chase

100 MILE HOUSE (CP) — A B.C. farm wife is anxiously scanning the skies, hopeful that she will yet see the return of her 14 tame geese which answered the call of the wild Nov. 4 and headed south with a flock of wild geese.

Mildred Jervis, who lives about 15 miles from here, says her geese were contentedly paddling about in a pond near her house when the flock of wild Canada Geese came in.

The birds began fraternizing and so next day she went out and tried to scare off the wild birds. Instead they all left, tame and wild birds together, and she hasn't seen them since.

Fred Sharp, Alberta manager of Ducks Unlimited (Canada), says such an event is rare but not unheard of. Tame geese can fly if they aren't fed enough, he says.

But they have no migratory instinct and have nowhere near the endurance of wild geese.

Teachers Ask Extra $48M

The B.C. Teachers' Federation has proposed a way to inject an extra $48 million into provincial school budgets next year.

The proposal, contained in a brief to the provincial government, asks that 3,100 new instructional units be added to the provincial school system.

The instructional unit is the unit the government uses to determine how much money it grants each school district each year.

One instructional unit now consists of either 20 high school students or 25 elementary students.

The BCTF brief asks that more instructional units be created by saying that the first six units in any school need contain only 15 students each.

This would add 3,100 new units, says the CBTF. Since each school district's grant is based on the number of instructional units it has, all school districts would get higher grants.

The extra money "is needed to remedy past inadequacies and to compensate for a lengthy period of neglect", says the brief.

The brief asks that the value of money granted for each instructional unit should be increased each year to reflect the drop in the purchasing power of the dollar.

The provincial government is now in the process of determining this unit value, having received provisional 1974 budgets from all school boards.

Lang to Probe Abortion Issue

LANG

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang has ordered a study designed to show whether, despite strict provisions in the Criminal Code, there could be abortion on demand in Canada. (See also Page 5.)

The study, announced in the Commons this week by Lang, results from the acquittal of a Montreal doctor charged with illegally inducing an abortion.

The doctor, Henry Morgentaler, 50, testified during his trial he had induced 6,000 to 7,000 abortions during the last two years.

Dr. Morgentaler's lawyers had invoked Section 45 of the Criminal Code in his defence.

This provides immunity from prosecution for a doctor who performs an operation out of medical necessity.

What Lang wants to know is whether the Supreme Court should be asked to decide if this Criminal Code provision overrides Section 251 which restricts abortions.

Section 251 says abortions can only be permitted when a hospital committee determines that continuation of the pregnancy "would or would be likely to endanger her, the mother's life or her health."

Hefty Price for Old Facts

It has taken the Food Prices Review Board more than six months to confirm many a Canadian housewife's suspicion that food stores are not sufficently competitive, nor do they give a hoot about the consumer. Eighty investigators, plus Chairman Beryl Plumptre at a $40,000 annual salary, are a heavy price to pay for conventional wisdom.

But taxpayers will willingly pay the shot if the board's conclusions result in government prosecutions and stiffer legislation. The fact that the board has little power and can only make recommendations to cabinet gave rise to original doubts about its effectiveness. Mrs. Plumptre did not help matters when she said earlier that Canadian food prices were not rocketing out of control. Statistics Canada was less poetic. The 1973 consumer price index is up 17 per cent over last year.

Since the government gave birth to the board only under parliamentary opposition pressure, the suspicion remained that the board would grow up to be a sensitive political animal. But Mrs. Plumptre has been as good as her word. She has named names, and is recommending tighter inspection at the retail level and stricter enforcement of misleading-advertisment legislation. More than 150 instances of possible retail lawbreaking have been turned over to the Consumer Affairs Department for action.

Even more important for the future, the board has asked the government to explore legislation to improve competition among retailers. Reading between the lines the board is saying the Canadian food industry is a small happy family with little independent competition. And that raises the question of where the Combines Investigation branch has been while this "family" developed and proliferated?

Now that the board has tossed the bag of "tricks" it found in the food industry to the government it will be interesting to see what action is taken on the survey. No Liberal government likes to tamper with the market place, and the current minority government has shown a marked aversion to strong consumer legislation. Former Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford was shifted to another portfolio when he became uncomfortably keen on the job.

In view of the still rising food costs the government should act quickly and decisively on the board's findings. Otherwise, it will be an expensive dance in the dark through the nation's supermarkets, and as transparent as the cellophane window on a pound of bacon, which coincidentally doesn't tell the consumer much about the product inside.

For Future Successes

The success of the United Way campaign in collecting enough money to meet its commitments for the coming year marks a happy change from the brinkmanship of many previous years when the ability of some agencies to continue in adequate operation was sometimes in doubt. It must be recognized, however, that the reduced roster of the Community Chest membership had much to do with the favorable outcome of this year's appeal.

The large item for the Family and Children's Service was removed from the books a year ago, and this year four other agencies have likewise been promised provincial government financial assistance. The latter assurance — to be carried out starting in April — will remove the Victorian Order of Nurses entirely from United Way dependence, and will also provide for a large share of the financial needs of the Canadian Mental Health Association's Victoria branch. In addition, the Community Council has disbanded, as planned, and its work will be incorporated into Capital Regional District operations. And the Victoria Girls' Hostel is expected to be supported by a provincial grant.

While every contributor was happy to know the campaign achieved sufficient funds to support the remaining agencies, and even to show a surplus, there has been some comment on the fact that, until it was over, many who gave were not aware of the changed requirements of the drive, or of the names of the agencies which would be receiving lessened amounts — or even none — of the money contributed.

It is essential that the annual campaign retain the full confidence of the public, and that every donor know at the earliest opportunity if one or more of the agencies appealing for support are to be removed from the list. No doubt there will be other agencies which in time will be granted provincial government funding. The public should never be in the position of not being sure what agencies will be receiving the donated money.

There may be exceptions to this, of course. The Community Chest will be devoting more of its funds — as recommended by studies of ways in which volunteer dollars and effort may be best expended — to the aid of new charitable enterprises seeking to fill a need in the community. To this extent, the exact identity of a new agency which is helped during the year may not be known at campaign time. That information can be made clear when the new agency, properly investigated, is added to the list.

But complete liaison with the public is necessary, particularly as we go into a period when apparently more and more undertakings will come under full or partial provincial government sponsorship. It will be essential to differentiate the agencies as quickly as their status changes, and so maintain the excellent local support which has been shown this year for the many hundreds of good citizens who put their full efforts into the campaign.

Limits on Chinese Education

PEKING — The advocates of China in highly specialized fields such as nuclear physics, missile engineering and medicine—including ingenious and effective new uses of acupuncture and herbal cures — demonstrate that learning in this ancient seat of wisdom has not been stifled by the superficially static code of Mao Tse-tung thought, or addled by the whirling experimentation of revolutionary practice.

On the contrary, demonstrable successes in such varied fields as wiping out extensive venerreal disease, creation of original birth control pills, and astonishing triumphs in anesthesia or surgery for the graft of completely severed limbs, amply confirm that inventiveness is very much alive here.

Decided Change

Nevertheless, there has been a decided change in basic education since the Cultural Revolution shook China in 1966. This event seems to have begun in the mind of Chairman Mao but showed its first violent manifestations in the principal university centres.

It is now clear that the essential goal of the ensuing shake-up, which seemed for a time to threaten chaos and which caused many changes among party leaders and cadres, was to do away with any recrudescence of the old Chinese habit of establishing a privileged learned class or mandarinate. There is an ancient, ingrained tradition that the educated civil servant need not dirty his hands with physical labor and tended to be isolated from what Maoism calls popular reality.

In this respect the upheaval in educational methods resulting from the Cultural Revolution is obviously related to the new attack on Confucianism since the latter had long been fixed doctrinal ideology for China's successive dynasties and the excuse for a man well versed in its tenets to claim a good job.

The sage's most famous pupil, Mencius, indeed wrote: "Gentlemen are there to rule the people, the people to feed the gentlemen." And any reversion to the habit of an entrenched new class, even if Marxist, was and is regarded as dangerous and stultifying by Mao.

One now sees a kind of accelerated and shortened teaching system which, at the end of secondary school, projects every student into a factory or communal farm before he or she can be considered qualified for university. Even then, the student must be recommended by the masses for higher studies.

. . . accelerated teaching

This means there are vast numbers of people here with limited education and whose learning stops there. But they have a place in society — for example, the "barefoot doctors" or (in Inner Mongolia) "horseback doctors" who give primitive first aid to local patients.

Moreover, there are opportunities to improve one's knowledge through the equivalent of correspondence courses. For example, Peking Radio gives regular English lessons and Shanghai Radio offers courses in French, or Japanese.

The actual university curriculum has also been shortened and, because of the interval in farms or factories, students arrive at an older age than before, generally from 20 to 26. Fewer courses are offered because those considered "superfluous" have been dropped except for post-graduates.

This system seems to have truly begun in 1971 with regular college curriculums cut from five to three years and continual emphasis on integrating students "into our existing society," as explained to me by the head of a university in Huhehot.

Even faculty members are forced to spend some time teaching in rural areas or working in factories, some of them small enough to be run by the universities themselves. This is designed to spread instruction among the people and prompt the professors to keep in touch with the masses, learning from their needs and experience.

Understandable Logic

It is too early to measure the ultimate value of this novel educational approach to Chinese society as a whole. But the logic behind it is understandable, especially in a land which has such a very long tradition of divisions between a white collar class that disdained to associate with the blue collar proletariat once it had attained privilege — either by inheritance or by benefit of college degree and successful civil service examinations.

There can be no doubt that the new educational system furthers egalitarian aims of the People's Republic and also continues to churn its evolving society so as to minimize the possibility that a bureaucratic new class could emerge at the top.

The question remaining to be answered is whether the price for this experiment might not come in mass production of that danger Alexander Pope discerned in "a little learning."

". . . Dr. Haroldson is giving you a reduced rate since you were fighting to uphold the sacred right of doctors to determine their own income . . ."

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Synchronize

In these days, when oil conservation is a matter of national concern, an effective measure in this direction might be considered locally, in the synchronization of traffic lights. The lack of any attempt at synchronization, particularly along the two main city centre thoroughfares, Douglas and Blanshard, is notorious, resulting, as it does, in the loss of time and an excessive consumption of gasoline. — W. M. Pecover, 707-360 Douglas St.

Various Guises

As the ancient adage hath it, "What fools we mortals be"; that is unless we check on the various aspects of inflation, as it affects merchandising.

Most people accept reasonable markups as the accustomed thing even though, quite often, unjustified.

But inflation rears its ugly head in a couple of other unsuspected ways: 1: less weight in smaller packages and 2: inferior quality. So, watch it!

While on the subject of inflation, I have wondered how some rapacious landlords defend the exorbitant rent increases, now, rampant. Owners of new buildings naturally impose high rents in an effort to recoup a profitable return on their outlay, but why proprietors of old construction exact increases of the same magnitude I ascribe only to greed!

Another thing — and this is pretty general with all landlords — when a vacancy occurs (even though there have been no repairs or renovations) the incoming tenant invariably is stuck with an increase in rent.

For "oldies" such as myself, living on a small fixed income, an economic depression would be a boon, because the present whole sanguinary mess would be regulated, allowing us to indulge in meat and other present luxuries!—Cecil B. Carter.

Slippery When Wet

Something should be done about those glass "stones" embedded in the sidewalk on Fort Street. They are dangerously slippery when wet. I have slipped on them, and occasionally fallen, over the past year. I only sustained a bruised body and a bruised pride.

However, my husband was walking down Fort Street recently, slipped on these glass stones, and broke his wrist. He called City Hall with the sole purpose of informing them of his accident, of how dangerous they are when it has been raining or snowing, and to tell them that these stones should be removed before someone really hurts themselves.

The gentleman from City Hall must have assumed that my husband was some irate citizen about to sue or something, because he got excited and asked for details. My husband informed this gentleman that he had been walking down Fort Street and had stopped for a second when he heard his name being called. He was about to turn to see who had called him when his foot stepped on one of these slippery stones, slipped and he ended up sitting on his hand. The gentleman from City Hall then said that if he was standing still, they could do nothing about it. If he had been walking, that would have been another matter! And the gentleman from City Hall then unceremoniously hung up.

Another law suit averted (a law suit only in his own mind). However, these stones are still there, and are still as slippery and dangerous as ever. Every time someone slips on them and hurts themselves, is City Hall going to hang up? Surely, these glass blocks are dangerous enough to warrant their removal. —(Mrs.) P. Tait, 415 Michigan St.

The Masters

David Barrett, speaking ludicrously and dangerously, very recently in Toronto expressed his notion that "several governments in Canada should have been thrown out long ago"! Does he mean against the wishes of those people in Canada, who, through the process of our still free election system, put them there?

This man represents the epitome of Socialist government control over our destinies at the provincial level, as does his federal counterpart, David Lewis, in Ottawa.

These two Davids strive, not to defeat but to become, the Goliaths of Canada. They, along with the rest of their Socialist comrades will accomplish this, if we permit them to do so, through their (not our) strict control over Socialist welfare programs, industry (such as Ocean Falls), transportation (B.C. Railway and Ferries), energy (B.C. Hydro) and their attempt to control communications (B.C. Telephone).

All these controls promote higher government debt, therefore higher taxes, followed by more and more inflation. These methods have been successful in other Socialist states such as Russia, China, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, etc., where the people, no doubt in good faith, handed to their governments complete control over their economic and social affairs and, therefore, their freedom. And Mr. Barrett's flirtation with Mr. Levesque's Parti Quebecois should provide a sound warning to us all as an indication how far this man is prepared to go to acheve his objectives.

We may still have time to reverse this trend, but we should get busy in this direction before the next provincial and federal elections and seek out candidates interested in government from the "grass roots" up, rather than in the opposite direction.—W. W. Baldwin, 250 Douglas St.

Success

On behalf of the Victoria Hand Weavers and Spinners Guild I would like to thank you for the excellent coverage we received for our Annual Exhibition and Sale in October.

This event was an outstanding success—initially the result of many hours of endeavor by many Guild members and, finally, the result of the excellent publicity we received from the media. We certainly appreciate the part the Times has played.—Marlene Maclaren, Publicity Chairman.

Relationships

In reference to those reports by Bruce Hutchison on the U.S.A. crisis:

I think it takes a person with special qualifications to go deep enough to find the common factor of a nation as Mr. Hutchison has. I am not pro-U.S.A. but lived in that country over five years, with a variety of experiences which make me believe the U.S.A. will not fall apart.

While future action is in the hands of destiny, we can only hope for their sake, as well as ours, it will be for the better.

Mr. Hutchison seemed quite concerned about our international associations, particularly when he compares the U.S.A. presidency and the British Crown (for Britain only).

When I wrote No. 10 Downing St., London, when Mr. W. A. C. Bennett cut off Canada at the Alberta-B.C. border, with his 1903 Colony Emblem, I received a reply through the British High Commissioner in Ottawa, stating that Britain had no control over any part of Canada.

Those few lines should put at rest those who believe the British Crown is a prevention for a Canadian Watergate. It is not, regardless of wishful or wistful thinking.—Len Skelton, 4068 Grange Road.

The Poverty Line

The poor as everyone knows make up the majority of the voters in any country. It follows, therefore, that the government is elected by the poor if the poor take the trouble to go out and vote on election day. Like most of you, I belong to the working class.

When the present government was electioneering, asking a mandate to govern this country, their avowed intention, loudly proclaimed on every occasion, was to help the working class and those still worse off who could not work because of old age or other handicap.

Many Canadians who had but small means and had bought older properties had been obliged to borrow money each time the house needed a big repair job. Almost as soon as the present Liberal Party took office the mortgage rates went up from five or six to 10, 12 or 15 per cent. Those unfortunate people had to regretfully sell their homes and that situation still exists today.

Another great help for the poor: when a raise is to be made in the Old Age Security pension it is announced several months ahead. By the time the cheques arrive all stores have had several months to raise their prices and they certainly do so there is no benefit to the poor at all.

When the prime minister and the members of Parliament are granted a raise it is effective at once, and remember each one of those gentlemen has additional income of various sorts which we do not.

There is some excuse for those elected to govern us, to help and guide us; it is easy to understand that the cabinet and the other members of Parliament are definitely not in the position of the under-privileged and never have been and, therefore, have no knowledge of their own of the heartaches, hardships, and fear-ridden lives of those who must subsist on very, very small means and who can make no provision for the future.

There is no such excuse for those societies and numerous individuals whose hearts are forever bleeding for the veterans and for the others, for the millions who have almost none of this world's goods. It seems that not one of them has noticed that each year the less wealthy are deprived of one monthly cheque — for example the cheque for the month of December is received on the 30th or 31st of the month and, therefore, good solely for the month of January of the following year and not for the year for which it was issued.—James Hogan, 1009 Monterey Ave.

Bloodbath

Hats off to Jack Scott for his powerful comments on the attitude of Canada's ambassador to Chile. (Our Men In the South — They're a Sorry Lot, Nov. 16.)

As a Canadian recently returned from two years working in Zambia, where fortunately Canada still has a relatively good image, I feel strongly about Canada's role in the poor nations.

Surely to sit idly by in the diplomatic chaise longue, and not object in any way to the bloodbath that is Chile today is as good as condoning it.

And surely we don't condone it; do we? — M. E. Haddon (Mrs.), 791 Pandora Ave.

From the Times of November 22, 1913

E. H. Cunningham Craig, the eminent geologist sent by the British government to discover if there was enough oil in Canada to supply the British navy with fuel oil has returned to the Old Country with a report which may give rise to one of the most phenomenal developments in Southern Alberta ever seen in any portion of the world. According to M. H. Murray, the well known Californian oil expert who spent the season in Alberta also, Mr. Craig will report that there is plenty of oil in Alberta for this purpose, and in fact, Alberta is one of the most wonderful oil fields in the world, the fruitful territory stretching 400 miles in length with a width of approximately 60 miles.

Finns Live With a Shrug

By WAYNE HARDING
Times Staff

HELSINKI — "When all else fails," says the American exchange teacher, explaining how he handles conversation in the difficult Finnish language, "I just say 'no niin' and everyone seems to understand."

Strictly translated, "no niin" means "that's the way it is." But its deeper meaning combines "c'est la vie" with a stoney Nordic fatalism. "No niin" is generally accompanied by a shrug.

The Finns have been saying "no niin" and shrugging for a long time: during 400 years of occupation by the Swedes, during 100 subsequent years of occupation by the Russians and for most of the 55 since they won independence.

It is probably the Finns were saying "no niin" and shrugging when they wandered out of central Asia 1,300 years ago and found themselves caught in a pinch between the Goths on the west and the Slavs on the east.

The pinch forced them to hole up on a rather unhappy piece of geography, a rocky, swampy plain left by retreating glaciers. They called the land Suomi and they loved it because there was nothing else to love.

About five million Finns still live there (another million have migrated to North America in the past century), they still love it and they still are caught in a pinch between the Goths and Slavs. But today, of course, the Goths appear in the guise of western industrial capitalists and the Slavs are Soviet-style Communists.

Neutrality is the tactic the Finns are currently using to handle the strain — a tactic forced on them by two disastrous wars with the Soviet Union that ended in 1944 with the loss of the eastern province of Karilia and thousands of young lives.

Because neutrality has been forced on the Finns, they don't wear it well — not like the Swiss or the Swedes. Articles in their newspapers (there are 87 dailies in the country) still brood over the outcome of the wars. Karilia is more than a place name. It is a nagging, unhappy memory that constantly pops out of the national conscience in plays and songs and even brand names.

Still neutrality has been good for the Finns. In 1944 theirs was a war-damaged, capital short, primary resource-based country. Today public monuments are the only physical evidence of the wars and a sophisticated industrial society has evolved. The per capita gross national product is about $2,200 a year — just behind that of the Netherlands and well ahead of that of the United Kingdom.

The peace has been used generously by the socialist-dominated governments that replaced the conservative regime which brought the tiny republic into its foolhardy confrontation with the Soviet Union. Consumer goods are plentiful and the quality of goods match any in western Europe. For every 1,000 inhabitants, there are 232 telephones, 13 automobiles and 210 television sets — as high a rating on the barometer of material possessions as any in western Europe.

More unusual — particularly to a Canadian — than the abundance of goods is the fact that everything seems to work. Unlike Canada, Finland has no place for shoddy craftsmanship, disinterested clerks, gum-chewing waitresses, dirty public washrooms, trains and ferries that run late or inoperative telephones. "If you're going to do it, do it well," is a favorite homily of the Finns from chamber maids to industrial designers.

Critics to the right of the government point out that the many material goods, the comprehensive health and welfare schemes and the general high standard of living are being bought on time—time that may be running out. Finding themselves short of capital, the Finns have simply borrowed and borrowed a lot, using a reputation for industriousness as collateral.

As a result, the international money-lenders have become cautious. They now require private borrowers to get government guarantees before they will extend further credit.

But as a Dutch banker who advises the city government of Helsinki on financial matters admits, "They'll sign anything in this country, even government guarantees."

The consultant from Amsterdam sighs over his drink in the plush bar of his plush hotel (during the winter it's a student dormitory) because he knows as well as the bureaucrats who willingly sign the guarantees that credit is what makes the delicate balance—in which ingenuity offsets lack of resources — of the Finnish economy work.

No less delicate a balance is working politically.

Isolated by their language and geography and with little social stratification, the Finns have a highly homogenous society. Perhaps significantly, they use only one word for the three English words, "nation", "people" and "folk."

But when it comes to their political persuasions they are all over the place.

The largest group in the 200-seat unicameral parliament is the Social Democratic Party with only about a quarter of the seats. They are followed closely by the Peoples Democratic League, at the top a Moscow-line Communist Party but with Maoist and Tryotskyite fraying at the edges.

There are five smaller parties in the parliament, including 10 members of the Swedish People's Party which represents the more conservative interests of the country's Swedish-speaking minority who make about seven per cent of the population and whose language rights are officially recognized.

Forming governments from this mixed bag in which no party has had a majority since the war has been no easy chore (although members of the cabinet need not be members of parliament). For this reason, more political power than probably was intended in the constitution has fallen upon the head of state, whose job it is to organize the various coalitions. Urho Kekkonen, a member of the rural-based Centre party, currently has that duty.

★ ★ ★

While it is difficult to find anyone in this country who is neither far to the right nor far to the left of Kekkonen, he has, for a peculiarly Finnish reason, recently been re-elected to a second six-year term.

That peculiar reason could be compared to the sense of design for which the Finns are quite famous. It is subtle. It depends on balance. It is derived from necessity.

In the rigas, the hand-hooked wall rugs with the brilliance and composition of Expressionist paintings that are sold in Helsinki's open-air market, a patch of color too much here or there could destroy the whole pattern.

Keeping the peace to the east and the west, to the right and the left, requires that kind of balance.

Kekkonen, for the time being, seems to have just the correct amount of color in the right places to maintain the pattern. Even the Finns who disagree with him admit it and say "no niin" and shrug.

An Ottawa Firing That Caused Shivers

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — The Rudnicki-Teron case is likely to fade out, without any long trial. It fascinates me. Federal officials are rarely fired, especially high-level ones making over $30,000.

Normally, a "failed" official is side-tracked into a lonesome slot or rolled upstairs out of the way.

Bill Teron, president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., fired Walter Rudnicki, the policy planning director of CMHC, on Oct.. 12 when Rudnicki (like Teron an ex-Manitoban and Canadian-Ukrainian) refused to resign. The reasons for dismissal were "indiscretion and lack of judgment."

Allegedly, Rudnicki had shown a "cabinet document" to members of the Native Council of Canada.

Why was Rudnicki's crime so heinous, bureaucratically-speaking?

This 48-year-old, 18-year veteran of federal work, including a period in the Privy Council Office, the mandarins' holy of holies, has a career in ruins. What, one ponders, were the real reasons for this unusual firing?

TERON
. . . corporate trail

RUDNICKI
. . . a ruined career

Worse Poverty

What is the Native Council of Canada? It is the organization of the Metis or half-breeds, not of the Indians and Eskimos of Canada. The council emerged in the last few years, largely aided by grants from the Secretary of State. In a genuine "cabinet document" leaked not long ago, Minister Chretien noted that thousands of Metis lived in worse poverty than most "official" Indians although they usually had as much claim in blood and way of life to the benefits which flow to the status Indians. The Native Council leads the fight for federal programs to improve the Metis' lot.

Who is Bill Teron? He's a model of Jaycee achievement and style.

A wealthy young developer who bootstrapped from a Prairie village to prominence as a "mod" builder in the capital. He was hired last summer by Ron Basford, the urban affairs and housing minister, to head CMHC. The announcement caused some uproar because Teron's Ottawa projects had not won universal praise and his corporate trail had been quite entwined with the colossus of Power Corporation.

Rudnicki? He came out of Winnipeg's "North - End." He is rough-edged, a bull for work, the father of five. He began as a social worker and also bootstrapped upwards, but within the bureaucracy as a progressive idea-man who, unlike most officials, knew a lot about the poor in Canada. In 1969, Andras, then the Hellyer-substitute in housing, parachuted Rudnicki into CMHC from the Privy Council Office.

Andras wanted a more responsive CMHC, one that sustained more than middle-and-upper income housing.

Some of us remembered that Rudnicki was Andras' adviser in 1968 when the Port Arthur MP was chewed out by Trudeau for impinging on Jean Chretien's prerogatives as minister for Indian affairs. Andras had been overly sympathetic and promising with the Indians in his consultation tours, preliminary to a new federal Indian policy.

Who is Ron Basford? We know him as a combative politician who may lack finesse but not ambition. He hungers for kudos as a doer and reformer and he's most anxious to do well in his portfolio in order to wipe out stigma put on him by business interests when he was minister of consumer and corporate affairs.

Who is Gordon Robertson? Clerk of the Privy Council Office (No. 1 civil servant?) soon to go to new fields, perhaps, an ambassadorship. Robertson (for whom Rudnicki used to work) has been terribly exercised over "leaks" of cabinet documents. He has said the search for culprits has narrowed down and that "leaking" is the most serious of wrongs an official can do.

Technically speaking, though thousands of federal pieces of paper are "confidential," only those signed by a minister and routed through PCO and PMO are "cabinet documents."

That's the cast. You see the charge against Rudnicki. Here's what I think happened (for I disbelieve, totally, the charge of showing a "cabinet document" to the council).

Basford and Teron wanted a quick program to meet Metis demands for immediate better housing and work this fall and winter. In Mid-September the two told the Metis they would get $2.3 million from CMHC in quarterly lumps for materials.

The money for the workers would be along later through LIP grants cleared through Andras' department. The minister told Teron and Rudnick to prepare a long-range housing policy for the Metis in consultation with the council. On Oct. 5 the council committee discussed one draft with Rudnicki and staff, who had prepared it.

Teron had seen it. The draft had been revised several times, and Rudnicki told the Metis it was not final till the minister okayed it. They had a close look at it without taking it away after the meeting. The council head, Tony Belcourt, was delighted with both program and consultation.

At the solicitation of Basford's aides he sent the minister a letter on Oct. 10 stating the Metis pleasure. The minister must have wanted this as armor in cabinet and for future status-building.

Sometime on Oct. 10 or 11, Basford and Teron found that Rudnicki's consultation had become "an indiscretion, a lack of judgment."

Teron demanded Rudnicki's resignation. The latter refused. Both Teron and Basford consulted the eminence, Robertson. Rudnicki was called in by Teron on Oct. 12, and fired.

The justification for such curt dismissal is so casually weak and so contrary to federal traditions, one searches for the true explanation.

A Short Fuse

This is probably it. Basford blew up — he has a short fuse — on Oct. 10 when he realized "consultation" had framed a program for the Metis that left him little elbow room with cabinet and small chance for either retreat or great public credit. He took it out on Teron. The latter, green, anxious to mollify the minister, determined to be seen as the real CMHC boss and bothered by the central role of Rudnicki's idea group in the corporation, decided to get rid of him.

When he wouldn't go quietly, Teron fired him. (After getting advice from Robertson that "consultatiion" shouldn't go so fas as to let those consulted see the drafts).

From Robertson's eyrie, the firing would be symbolic and salutary. Sending shivers down officials' spines about "leaks," it also got rid of a man who had created awkward situations for the government in the past.

ABORTION LAW GETS NEEDED CHANGE

The GLOBE and MAIL
An Editorial

Five years of muddling through; of battling therapeutic abortion committees over the meaning of the magic phrase "pregnancy likely to endanger the life or health of the mother"; of women desperately seeking abortions in the United States; of hospital committees subjected to barely tolerable administrative strains; of demonstrations and effigies; of questions in Parliament; of anger and of anguish.

And now to discover that it all may have been completely unnecessary! All because of an ingenious legal argument in the trial of Dr. Henry Morgentaler of Montreal. It's a bitter-sweet thought. A hope for the future. A lament for the past.

Dr. Morgentaler admitted that during the past five years he had performed between 5,000 and 6,000 abortions, including the abortion for which he was charged under the Criminal Code for proceeding without the consent of a hospital therapeutic abortion committe.

His lawyers argued that he shouldn't be convicted because there was another section in the Criminal Code that protected him. It says that, "Everyone is protected from criminal responsibility for performing a surgical operation upon any person for the benefit of that person if (a) the operation is performed with reasonable care and skill and (b) it is reasonable to perform the operation, having regard to the state of health of the person at the time the operation is performed and to all the circumstances of the case."

Mr. Justice James Hugessen ruled that this section could be used by the defence and a jury of 11 men and one woman acquitted Dr. Morgentaler.

If the decision is upheld on appeal it will mean that doctors can ignore the need for permission from therapeutic abortion committees. Moreover, they will have a much more lenient test to pose before deciding whether to perform an abortion. Therapeutic committees require proof that the mother's life or health is endangered; under the Morgentaler section the doctor performing the abortion would have to decide only that it was reasonable to do it having regard to the mother's health.

It will mean that decisions on abortions will be placed where they belong, with the parents and their doctor, and removed from the formal committee rooms where they have been a constant source of irritation to patients, doctors, administrators and public alike. It is a case of the public, in the persons of a Court of Queen's Bench judge and 12 jurors, recognizing the needs of the times far ahead of the politicians.

MORGENTALER
. . . hosannahs

Almost from the day Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau brought in the present abortion rules he has been under attack for not liberalizing them further. He has kept doggedly to his stand that the government would not consider further reforms so soon after the 1969 changes. The existing system works and there is no need for further relaxing the rules, he says.

He's wrong. The present system works but it works badly. Therapeutic committees are cumbersome. Some hospitals will not establish committees. Others interpret the abortion section of the Criminal Code so strictly that whole communities are denied the right to abortions. Hospitals vary so widely in their approach to abortion that it's true to say the law on abortion varies from community to community, which is an intolerable situation.

It needs correction and Dr. Morgentaler may have found the key. For that he deserves a hosannah or two—or three.

Where Wild Oats Wither

By MICHAEL HORNSBY
The Times of London

The correspondence columns of Indian newspapers, and social commentators in general, have been much exercised of late by a phenomenon known as "Eve-teasing." This term — a coinage apparently peculiar to Indian English — is used to describe any form of molesting of girls by young men. The offences complained of range from whistling and obscene language to attempts to snatch away items of clothing and even rape.

A court case in which several leading members of the Delhi University Students' Union face charges of abducting and raping a girl student has recently attracted much attention. To judge from the letters from alarmed Delhi mothers to the editors of the public prints no respectable Indian girl dare walk the streets of the capital unchaperoned.

•

Groups of mothers and daughters have marched with placards to protest against the alleged failure of the police to protect their honor. The local women's lib lobby which in general finds little enthusiasm for the cause among Indian womanhood, has gratefully seized on the Eve-teaser as a tangible manifestation of male chauvinsim.

It is hard to drum up much of a case for male tyranny, however, in a country governed by the formidable Mrs. Indira Gandhi.

Predictably, some commentators have sought to ascribe the prevalence of Eve-teasing to the influence of decadent western culture. It has been convincingly shown, however, that the practice has a long tradition as a legitimate sport in Indian folklore and mythology. Every Indian schoolchild knows the story of how Krishna, who is by far the most popular of the Hindu deities, stole the clothes of the milkmaids while they were bathing, climbed up a tree and remained there until the naked damsels came to him to recover them.

The numberless amours of Krishna's youth are also minutely related in legends familiar to every Indian. The diety, who is regarded as the eighth avatar (incarnation) of Vishnu, the second god of the Hindu triad, is credited with having had 16,000 wives and 180,000 sons.

Yet in spite of this tradition and all those erotic sculptures at Khajuraho, life in Delhi today (whatever may be happening in the villages) is stiflingly prudish and straitlaced. Eve-teasing — if it is as prevalent as is claimed — may be a reaction to this atmosphere of restraint.

Few Indian boys and girls in Delhi, or other big towns, enjoy before marriage the sort of freedom taken for granted by their counterparts in Western countries.

•

The matrimonial columns of the newspapers are used by parents to advertise the marriageable properties of their offspring. A typical entry in The Times of India last week invited offers from "well-placed, highly qualified boys for smart, convent-educated, graduate Maratha girl, 26 years, Maratha boys preferred."

This marriage market approach presumably has its merits, for the proportion of happily married middle-class couples in India is certainly no smaller and is probably somewhat larger than in most Western countries. For emancipated youth, however, the system undoubtedly has it frustrations. Delhi is no place to sow one's wild oats.

Welfare Mum Used Knife

DETROIT (UPI) — An angry welfare mother who was worried about feeding her family of 16 a Thanksgiving dinner stabbed a social services investigator with a hunting knife Wednesday.

Joyce Davis, had been informed that her semi-monthly welfare cheque of $158.50 was being withheld pending an investigation of the theft of another of her cheques.

When Patrick J. J. O'Dowd, 37, the investigator, promised Mrs. Davis he would try to obtain food for her holiday dinner, she grabbed him by the necktie and stabbed him in the abdomen three times.

Top Sooke Pollers

Newcomer Noel Haas and incumbent Bill Stephenson were declared winners Wednesday in last Saturday's Sooke school board election.

An examination of ballots showed Haas topped the polls in Belmont area with 544 votes, and Stephenson ran first in Milne's Landing area with 629 votes.

Returning officer Hermon Williams also declared newcomer Pauline Chamberlain a winner in Milne's Landing over incumbent Ron Fitton, but only one vote separates them and a judicial recount of ballots may be asked.

"There are two ballots which were rejected by me which are controversial," said Williams.

Chamberlain got 482 votes, Fitton 481.

An examination of ballots to determine the second Belmont trustee was being held today.

The contest is between Brian Killip, who has 433 vote according to the initial count, and Keith Jackson who is 11 votes behind him.

STRIKE END SEEN

VANCOUVER — A three-month strike at Aqua Transport Limited, which operates the rail barges Grey Yorke and Doris Yorke, may end tonight.

Members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, who struck Aug. 18 for a new contract, were voting on a new contract, No details were disclosed.

Earlier, seamen, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, reached agreement with Aqua, a subsidiary of Seaspan International.

A CBRT spokesman said the major issue, "excessive overtime" with men working 16 hours a day, was resolved with an increase in the manning clause, the settlement also included a raise of $230 a month over 33 months.

The strike halted movement of Canadian National rail barges to Vancouver Island for a time until an alternative barge system was arranged.

New M-B Plant Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. said Wednesday it will establish a $500,000 specialty lumber remanufacturing plant at Port Alberni. The new plant will create 15 new jobs and will have a capacity of 30 million board feet a year.

Pricking The Drug Culture

Saanich School District will seek provincial government funding for a new drug education program.

The program was prepared by a committee of four school counsellors, three students and a parent, headed by counsellor Betty Clazie.

Idea of the proposed program is prevention of drug abuse by concentration on underlying problems that make students turn to drugs, Clazie said Wednesday.

It would involve having a training session for a group of classroom teachers one afternoon a week for several months.

In these sessions the teachers would improve their communication skills so they can better lead student discussions about drugs, social values, self-concept and decision-making.

Estimated cost of the program, which involves bringing in resource people for the training sessions, is $12,000.

Saanich school board has already approved the program.

Clazie said she hopes to submit a brief on the program to the Drug, Alcohol and Tobacco Foundation in December. If a grant is approved the program could start in February.

Judge Steers Clear Of a Merit Ruling

Mr. Justice H. C. McKay said Wednesday he's only interested in the legality of the land-use contract between North Cowichan municipality and Kingsview Properties Ltd.

He said he isn't interested in whether the housing project is a "good deal or a bad deal."

"It would be a sad day when the judiciary is telling councils how to deal with their affairs."

The judge made the remark in B.C. Supreme Court when North Cowichan's lawyer David Williams described the merits of the contract, which if upheld by the court will allow Kingsview to develop 1,250 housing lots on Mount Tzouhalem at Maple Bay.

Williams said the council did not — as J. J. Gow representing 96 Maple Bay residents argued at the Tuesday session — have to tell the public why it favored the development.

The public hearings, Williams explained, were held so the council could gain information from the public.

"This is what was done," he said.

The contract requires Kingsview to provide land for schools, parks and open space, but if the bylaw is quashed, Williams said, the company could develop 1,000 lots without providing any land for public purposes.

McKay reserved judgment.

Ostler Queries 3-Day Detention

The right to keep a person in jail for three days while the Crown seeks information about him must be "judiciously exercised," Judge William Ostler said in Victoria provincial court Wednesday.

Under the Criminal Code the crown may ask for up to a three-day adjournment to give the prosecutor time to gather information on why a judicial interim release should not be granted.

"However," said Ostler, "the crown should not ask for such an adjournment to go on a fishing expedition to see if they can dig something up . . . that's not the purpose of the law."

Ostler said the court "must place a measure of confidence in the prosecutor especially in situations where a person or persons have been very recently arrested and where there are no means immediately at hand to learn about their antecedents, where they live, etc."

The prosecutor is expected to act responsibly as an officer of the court, said Ostler, and base any application upon "reasonable grounds."

If there is any doubt in an application it must be resolved in favor of the accused, he said.

But that doesn't preclude the Crown's right to have reasonable time to develop its case, Ostler added.

Ostler made his comments in a case involving two youths charged with breaking, entering and theft who were arrested by police early Wednesday morning.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett asked that they be remanded in custody until Friday so he could investigate the youth's backgrounds and determine their addresses.

Ostler granted the request, but the matter came before the court again in the afternoon session.

Birkett then said he had received sufficient information and "could see no reason to keep them in custody any longer."

Ostler released one youth, Steven Knight, 17, of 1738 Newton, on an undertaking to appear in court in a week's time; and set bail at $500 for the second youth, Roger Gerald Lessard, 18, of 1147 Quadra.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

It's great to see a young man with the ambition to get ahead and get the things he wants but not at the expense of others, Judge William Ostler said in Victoria provincial court Wednesday.

His remarks were directed at 19-year-old Kenneth Arnold Harper of Vancouver, who pleaded guilty to three counts of fraud and five counts of false pretence committed while on vacation in Victoria between Nov. 8 and 20.

"You can't expect to get everything at once . . . generally you have to do things slowly," the judge said.

The youth had been charged with obtaining room and meals at the Royal Olympic, Dominion and Executive House hotels and with buying $351 worth of clothing and toiletry from Eaton's, all with worthless cheques.

Fraud squad detective Sgt. Joseph Barlow said the youth, who came here from Vancouver on a two-week holiday, was "over his head in debt," having to pay among other things $100 a month for car insurance and $250 a month for car payment.

Ostler said he wanted to encourage Harper to make his own way and added he was "disposed" to keep him out of jail so he could return to his job in Vancouver.

The judge postponed sentencing to Dec. 5 for a pre-sentence report and released the accused on his own undertaking to appear in court at that time.

A charge of assaulting a police officer was reduced to the lesser offence of common assault when Randel Mathewes, 22, of 1505 Bay, changed his plea to guilty and was fined $50.

The charge stemmed from an incident Oct. 11 when police were attending the last of three complaints about a disturbance early that morning at 617 Manchester.

Police said they wer breaking up a noisy party after arresting the host on an outstanding warrant when the accused assaulted Const. Bruce Halstead as the officer was leading him and 15 others out of a suite.

Halstead said he had been told Mathewes had "a strong hostility" towards police officers because he had once been beaten. Mathewes denied this.

Defence council pointed out there was nothing in the accused's background alluding to violence or assault of any kind.

"These sort of things get so easily out of hand," Ostler said.

"I can understand hostility in anyone who has received brutality . . . but on the whole the vast majority of our police are hard-working, fair and dedicated people."

A 20-minute telephone call to Linwood, California, ended up costing a 29-year-old Victoria man $200.

That was the fine Ostler imposed on Donald Frank Casey, 1244 Balmoral, when he pleaded guilty to making the call Nov. 13 and charging it to a non-existent credit number.

"Unfortunately there is a great deal of this going on," said Ostler. "All it does is add to the cost of telephone calls for honest people."

Seventeen-year-old James Lloyd Davies, 3954 Happy Valley Road, received a suspended sentence and was placed on six months probation after he pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana.

Police said they stopped a car Nov. 5 on Jacklin Road in Colwood and found a quarter ounce of marijuana in the youth's shirt pocket and a warm pipe hidden under the seat.

Michael Patrick Callan, 22, of No. 6, 1250 Fairfield, was placed on one year's probation when he pleaded guilty to being in control of a vehicle while impaired. The charge was laid May 3 following an accident at the intersection of Margate and St. Louis.

In other traffic cases before Judge Harold Alder, a 54-year-old Duncan man, Ernest Joseph Anderson, was fined $350 when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving on the Trans-Canada Highway near Colwood on Oct. 13.

Two men who pleaded guilty to driving while their blood alcohol exceeded .08 were each fined $500. They were William Chester Pierre, 31, of Chemainus, stopped Oct. 18 on the Malathat, and Jerry Patrick Douglas Jones, 18, of 2944 Carol Ann Place, stopped on the Old Island Highway on Sunday.

In addition Pierre was placed on one year's probation and refused permission to apply for a driver's licence until he has paid his fine.

An 18-year-old student, Grant Victor Pilon, 1044 Oliver, was fined $200 when he appeared before Judge Harold Alder and pleaded guilty to driving while impaired early Tuesday morning on Estevan Avenue in Oak Bay.

ESP can actually tell when a part of your car needs attention.

Here's how it works:

You're coming home on a busy highway at night; it's late, the kids are asleep in the back seat. The red warning light on the roof-mounted Electro Sensor Panel flashes to get your attention. A quick check of the panel tells you there's been a brakelight malfunction. As you near your turnoff, you give the driver behind you plenty of warning by hand-signal, and ease out of the traffic stream safely, making a mental note to have the bulbs checked.

What has just happened is something quite unique in the automotive world.

Your car has informed you of a problem and has warned you of a potentially dangerous situation.

It's a nice, comfortable feeling.

Behind it all is some electronic wizardry that adds up to one of the most sophisticated electronic systems ever put into an automobile.

Electronic sensors at 11 different locations throughout the car relay messages to a central computer. The computer then feeds the information to the panel.

The sensors can not only keep you out of trouble, they can keep you out of the repair shop too.

Because ESP will also tell you when you need to add oil.

Or when your battery water is getting low.

It'll report that your windshield washer fluid is running low before it runs out.

And wouldn't it be nice if someone told you your brakelinings were getting thin before they got too thin?

ESP will. And all without you, or a mechanic, having to check.

A concept of 'Total Security'.

ESP is standard equipment on two of our five completely new Coronas: the sporty SR and the Hardtop. And it's just one small part of what resulted when our engineers undertook a completely new design theme for the Corona.

Steering clear of the 'thrill and frill' school of design, they settled down to build the kind of automobile we feel more and more drivers are looking for today: a moderately priced, functionally engineered, solidly built family car that handles well, is comfortable, and above all, safe.

Re-engineered, re-designed re-styled from the ground up.

Our engineers applied the concept of 'Total Security' to every single design process throughout the entire car. Here, from tire-tread to roofline, are some of the fruits of their labours:

- Radial ply tires for superb handling.*
- Enlarged power front disc brakes for sure stops.
- New, bandless, 3-speed automatic transmission.†
- Specially contoured reclining bucket seats.
- Electric rear window defroster.
- New energy absorbing body design for added safety.
- Reinforced roof and door rails.

*All models except 2-door sedan. †Optional.

ESP monitors 11 vital functions.

And keeping in mind that driving should still be fun and not a chore, our Corona SR comes with a 5-speed transmission and an electronic tach as standard equipment.

All models are equipped with a proven 2 litre 97 (net) HP overhead cam engine that can burn up miles without burning up a lot of gas.

A whole new automobile category?

By inventing a whole new Toyota Corona, our engineers may have invented a whole new automobile category. Because with the advent of ESP, a new era opens up: where cars, through the aid of technology, begin to take more responsibility for themselves mechanically.

And that leaves drivers free to concentrate on one thing: driving.

Because the all-new Toyota Corona is a car that can do something no other car can do:

While you watch out for the other guy, it watches out for you.

INTRODUCING THE TOYOTA CORONA WITH ESP.

We wouldn't give it a superior brain without a body to match.

Not forgetting that an automobile should be pleasing to the eye as well as the rest of you, our designers spent months refining the shape you see here. There are 5 models in all: 2 door hardtop SR, 2 door hardtop, 4 door sedan, 2 door sedan and 4 door wagon.

Swift New Exchange Figures Show Heaviest Traders Short

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

Two of the heaviest traders on the Vancouver Stock Exchange — Cutlass Exploration and Gold River Mines — have the largest short positions, according to statistics released by the exchange.

The information was contained in the daily bulletin of the exchange for the first time and includes sales up to Nov. 16. Starting this week the short position will be published daily by the exchange, instead of twice a month.

The report shows 189,500 shares of Cutlass sold short while the Gold River total is 76,300.

Cutlass was the top trader on the VSE Wednesday, rising 4 cents to $1.42 on 76,900 shares. Gold River was third, trading 36,450 shares and rising 3 cents to $2.30.

Second-heaviest trader, Cop-Ex, also was among the top five in short positions. A total of 69,000 shares traded Wednesday and Cop-Ex rose 1 cent to 43 cents. It ranks fifth on the short list at 33,000 shares.

A high short position is an indication of pessimism about the future prospects of a stock. Professional traders sell short when they believe they will be able to buy the stock back at lower prices later in the year.

Cardwell Resources has a short position of 49,000 shares while Rio Plata Silver Mines has a total of 35,500.

Other VSE stocks with a short position of 10,000 or higher are: Barrier Reef 27,600, Challenger Exploration 12,000, Dankoe Mines 12,600, Gunn Mines 24,600, Laguna Resources 18,200, Leemac 10,000, Pacific Resources 15,300, Seneca Developments 20,900 and Silver Standard 21,200.

For the first time, the exchange is feeding information on short sales into its main computer system on a daily basis so investors will have a more up-to-date picture of professional trading.

Now the reports will always be less than a week old instead of up to three weeks out of date as they were under the old system of the bi-monthly collection of short trading data.

Printing of the short report on a daily basis is one of three reforms made by the securities industry in the past month. The exchange also toughened its rules regarding covering on short sales and the British Columbia Securities Commission has started a report on insider trading on a monthly basis.

In other VSE moves, Princess Ventures Ltd. was promoted to the mining section of the board Wednesday from the interim list. Capitalization is 3 million shares of which 1.6 million are issued. Ticker symbol is PRV.

Dankoe Mines and Amber Resources have moved out of primary distribution.

Tapin Copper Mines Ltd. has had 300,000 shares underwritten by Canarim Investment Corporation at 15 cents a share.

Bison Petroleum and Minerals Ltd. has been reinstated for trading.

Canadian Hidrogas Resources has agreed to purchase an interest in Tulcan Explorations Ltd. producing oil and gas properties in Lloydminster, Alberta, for $1.7 million and 200,000 shares. The company has also agreed to purchase petroleum and natural gas properties in Alberta from Nir Oil Ltd. for $563,750. Canadian Hidrogas president E. W. G. Bedrug must sell 340,000 personally owned shares of his company to Nir Oil by July 1, 1979, at 65 cents per share as part of the agreement.

Bow River Resources Ltd. has agreed to acquire 58 mineral claims from T. H. Cross and Magnus Bratlien for $12,000 and 40,000 treasury shares.

Bow River has optioned 126 claims to Pechiney Development and has granted an option to Brascan Resources Ltd. to acquire a 70 per cent interest in 36 other claims.

Twin River Resources shares will be offered to the public in an agency agreement with Donaldson Securities Ltd., Crumb, Beamer and Company and Davidson and Company. Up to 300,000 shares will be offered at a minimum price of 25 cents per share until Dec. 17.

HIGH INTEREST 'FLOP'

The federal government should abandon the policy of raising interest rates to fight inflation, Gordon Elliott, president of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia, said here Wednesday.

He said high interest rates no longer were effective in cooling off the economy and other methods should be considered, including curtailing bank profits, restricting the money supply or shortening repayment periods.

Elliott was addressing a seminar on the new provincial Companies Act, sponsored by the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce at the Wilson Inn.

About 70 Victoria area merchants and chartered accountants attended the one-day session.

Elliott said the present artificially-regulated high interest rates have contributed to inflation instead of combatting it.

He said the time had come for Ottawa and the central banks to roll back interest rates because businesses had continued to expand despite the high cost of money.

"Business and consumers have continued to borrow, interest rates have continued to climb, the banks have made significant profits, and the fires of inflation have raged unchecked," he said.

He said a radically-new approach is required to fight inflation. The cost of money should be reduced by increasing the productivity of goods and services.

"Maybe there should be a priority or rationing system for the available money, which, unfortunately, would be almost impossible to administer."

As an alternative, he said money for consumer borrowing and plant expansion should be restricted until pressures ease off, until people realize they don't need that summer cottage or red convertible.

The most effective weapon against inflation might be to shorten the allowable repayment period on consumer and other types of borrowings. The larger payments that would result should have a dampening effect on spending, Elliott said.

Two accountants conducted the seminar on the Companies Act. Speaking were R. H. Smith of Sullivan, Smith and Bigelow and Ken Ingo, a partner of the Vancouver firm of Clarkson, Gordon and Co.

Moderator was Brian Small, manager of the Victoria chamber.

Under the act, a newly-incorporated reporting company must hold its first annual meeting within 15 months of the incorporation date, instead of 18 months under the former legislation, the seminar was told.

Annual meetings must be held in each calendar year and not more than 13 months apart, instead of 15 months.

A non-reporting company, however, need not hold an annual meeting if all directors agree it is not necessary.

The seminar was told that non-reporting companies tend to have only three or four shareholders and it made little sense to have them gather to hear what they already knew.

New Offer Splits Directors

TORONTO (CP) — Shareholders of Markborough Properties Ltd. of Toronto will get no recommendation from the company's board on a revised offer from Campeau Corp. of Ottawa of $18.50 a share for all outstanding shares of the company.

The board previously rejected a Campeau offer of $16 a share.

Following the first Campeau offer, Hudson's Bay Co. offered $17.50 a share for all outstanding shares.

A statement issued Wednesday by Markborough president Brian Magee said that a number of Markborough directors intend to take up Campeau's latest offer.

However, because of division in the board no policy was issued to shareholders.

The Campeau offer is open until Dec. 17. However, the company is bound to take all shares deposited if at least 60 per cent of Markborough's shares have been turned in by Nov. 23.

Hudson's Bay officials met after the Marborough meeting but no comment on the company's intentions was available.

New Policy Rates 'Severe Shake-Up' To Errant Drivers

By BRIAN BUTTERS
Times Staff

B.C. drivers with numerous demerit points on their records should prepare for a financial shock when they buy their government car insurance later this winter.

The reason: insurance premium rates under the Insurance Corporation of B.C. will be tied directly to the individual driver's computerized record of driving offences.

In some ways, this relationship between car insurance rates and driving record becomes yet another good news-bad news joke.

The good news is that each driver will start out on government insurance with a clean slate as far as accidents are concerned, since the private insurance industry has not furnished the ICBC with the pertinent accident information.

The bad news is the "substantial increase" in premiums which will be felt by drivers with poor records.

Motor vehicles superintendent Ray Hadfield says the new insurance rates, which are expected to be revealed by the insurance corporation in a matter of days, "are going to shake some drivers quite severely."

Hadfield said drivers will face double jeopardy if they pile up a significant number of points from offences against the Motor Vehicle Act, its regulations and the Canadian Criminal Code.

HADFIELD
. . . double jeopardy

The first danger is a licence suspension, which can be imposed any time after a driver accumulates 10 or more demerit points. The second is the prospect of sky-high insurance rates because of a high point total.

Just how high the insurance rates will climb for bad drivers remains the exclusive knowledge of ICBC officials, who are tight-lipped. But indications from Transport Minister Robert Strachan are that the monetary penalty for poor driving will be severe.

With government insurance being split into separate policies — one for each car in the province and one for each individual driver — bad drivers will see their personal policies climb in direct relation to the number of points on their record.

However, it could be worse.

Hadfield said it appears the demerit point system, brought in by the provincial government as a pilot project in Victoria in 1968 and made province-wide in 1970, will be used in its present form as a basis for insurance rates under the government plan.

This means, he said, that only convictions within the last three years will count and offences committed more than three years ago, although they may show up in the five-year memory bank of the motor vehicle branch's computer, will not be counted.

The point system itself is simple enough. Each year three points are dropped from an individual's total, regardless of the number of offences.

Take for example the case of one anonymous driver.

The MVB computer reveals no less than seven separate convictions, but spread out reasonably far apart, over the last six years.

The total number of demerit points adds up to 22. But when the government insurance plan comes into effect on March 1, 1974, only one point will remain on the official record, thanks to the three points per year subtraction and the fact that only the most recent three years are used.

Gone are the 15 points accumulated more than three years ago. They are still on the computer's file, to be erased as the computer's five-year memory is revised from time to time.

Once a driver accumulates 10 points on his record, he must pay an assessment of $25.

Many drivers, according to motor vehicle branch spokesman John Furmston, think their slates are wiped clean when they pay their $25. This is not the case. The 10 points remain on the record and can only be eliminated in the routine manner, that is, at a maximum rate of three points per year.

The usual procedure for a person with 10 or more points is that the motor-vehicle branch gives him an opportunity to show cause why his licence should not be suspended. It may be suggested that the driver take a defensive driving course, with an option of a suspension ranging from 30 days to an indefinite period.

Each case is treated individually. There is no guarantee of a six-month suspension, for example, the instant a driver hits the 15-point level. Such factors as attitude and working conditions are taken into consideration.

Hadfield says there is no provision for a deduction of demerit points for drivers who complete a defensive driving course. But he said the government "may look hard" at the possibility of doing so in the future.

The motor-vehicle branch likens its demerit point system to a department store's charge account system. A driving offence, like a purchase, goes on the record.

However, for the B.C. car driver, a new kind of interest charge on his account is now only months away. The bigger the account — that is, the greater the demerit point total — the larger the interest charge in the form of insurance premium.

It could be a lean year for carelessness.

Pollen Promises Thaw Of Hearings Freeze

Deferred public hearings on Victoria's six-stage rezoning plan for James Bay will resume soon, Mayor Peter Pollen said Wednesday.

The city last month imposed a temporary "freeze" on all scheduled public hearings in hopes that uncertainties surrounding notification procedures would be cleared up by the provincial government.

But the fall session of the legislature ended without the situation being resolved, and Pollen said city council now feels the hearings should proceed — even at the risk of having rezoning decisions challenged on grounds of improper notification.

The city's doubts stemmed from legislation passed earlier this year, which required municipalities to inform all property owners and occupiers of zoning changes that potentially could affect their areas.

Victoria was concerned because the physical difficulty of keeping track of frequently-moving tenants, and ensuring mail notification, posed the possibility that any citizen could institute proceedings to quash a bylaw on grounds he had not been informed of a public hearing.

In the city's opinion, amendments to the Municipal Act passed at the recently-ended session only compounded the problem, by omitting the previous requirement to notify property owners and leaving "occupiers" as the only designated category.

Pollen said Wednesday, hoever, he is hopeful that in the event of a contested decision, the city's position would be upheld on grounds it had acted in good faith and made a sincere attempt to ensure the widest-possible notification of a public hearing.

He said he was not overly concerned that aggrieved James Bay residents might decide to make a test case of a particular rezoning decision.

City Women Cleared For Buses

A B.C. Hydro spokesman said today the transit system would accept applications from any woman who wants to drive a bus in the Victoria area.

There has never been a female Hydro driver in Victoria even though no regulation preventing one exists.

In Vancouver there have been three women driving Hydro buses for more than 25 years.

Hydro was contacted here after Helga Kaiser, 30, recently became the Vancouver system's fourth woman driver.

Hydro "assesses all applications on merit," said the spokesman, and starting pay for drivers is $4.98 hourly — for both males and females.

$1,000 TAKEN IN MOTEL THEFT

More than $1,000 was stolen from the Craigflower Motel early this morning, Esquimalt police said today.

A spokesman said $314 cash and $795 in cheques were taken from a desk drawer in the manager's office.

Police said there was no sign of forced entry, adding the thief or thieves may have entered through a rear door.

A metal box containing keys to washers, dryers and pop-machine coin boxes was also taken.

Ketch Overdue

A Canadian-registered 41-foot ketch, which left Yokohama, bound for Seattle Sept. 16 is overdue.

Freighters and other vessels using the Pacific shipping lanes have been asked to keep a lookout for the Pacific Mariner, recently completed in Taiwan.

A Pacific Rescue Centre spokesman said four men are believed to be aboard the Pacific Mariner. Names are not available but at least one man is known to be a Canadian.

He said storms may have delayed the Pacific Mariner, which hasn't been heard from since she left port.

Committee Enlarged In Hunt for President

The University of Victoria board of governors has approved a senate recommendation that an additional four faculty members should sit on a committee to find a new president.

President Dr. Hugh Farquhar has announced his intention to resign.

Additional faculty members on the committte are: Dr. D. J. Chabassol, Dr. J. L. Climenhaga, Dr. C. B. Daniels and Dr. Alfred Fischer.

The total committee membership stands at 14 and also includes officials and student representatives.

Sidney Rec Centre Facing Second Vote

By BRUCE OBEE
Times Staff

Sidney voters will likely be asked to vote again next year on a proposed $1.3 million recreation complex, Ald. Peter Malcolm said today.

Under amendments to the Municipal Act, effective Jan. 1, a referendum on the complex will need only 50 per cent to pass instead of the current 60 per cent.

Malcolm said the referendum's defeat Saturday indicated there was "obviously a segment of Sidney that didn't want it."

More than 57 per cent of Sidney's eligible voters turned out Saturday and the referendum, supported by 919 voters, fell 180 votes short of the required 60 per cent.

The provincial government had offered $333,333 toward the centre and the town would have needed to borrow $967,000, he said.

The provincial government's offer will likely stand in spite of the referendum's defeat, he added, and there is a further possibility of acquiring federal funds.

But a federal grant is not available until the plans are drawn and construction is about to begin, said Malcolm, so that money con't be promised to the voters before a referendum.

During council meetings before the referendum, the possibility of eliminating the curling rink was discussed. A pool and skating rink would cost $700,000, he said.

However, said Malcolm, it would be uneconomical to drop the curling rink because, generally curling rinks are the only money-makers in recreation complexes.

Outside Help Surveyed

Skating rinks normally break even and pools usually lose, he said.

Mayor Stan Dear had indicated earlier this week that another referendum could be held by next May, but Malcolm believes more time would be needed to explore the possibility of support from North Saanich and Central Saanich and a referendum could be held in the fall of 1974.

It would be senseless to approach Central Saanich at this point, he said, because a private company is in the midst of planning a complex in that municipality.

But "you've got a totally different outlook on that North Saanich council now," said Malcolm.

Central Saanich Mayor Archie Galbraith agrees his municipality's hands are tied until Western Recreational Resources Ltd., the company planning the privately-operated complex, decides whether to go ahead with the plan.

North Saanich mayor-elect Paul Grieve is doubtful North Saanich residents would offer support.

"I know that there're a lot of pro-recreation people have been elected,' said Grieve, "and I am worried about what the kids have to do out there."

But a number of older people in the municipality are trying to hang on to their homes by keeping their taxes down, he said, and North Saanich residents don't see the children congregating on the Sidney streets.

Isherwoods Fined $400

Former Saanich alderman and victoria lawyer Foster Isherwood and his three brothers were each fined $100 when they pleaded guilty in Victoria provincial court Wednesday to violating the conditions of a pollution control permit.

The four—Foster, John, Joseph and George Isherwood — co-owners of the Royal Oak Inn on Elk Lake Road in Saanich had been charged by the B.C. Pollution Control Board with allowing effluent to discharge on their property intermittently between Sept. 13 and Nov. 8.

In passing sentence Judge William Ostler said it was "an offence of strict liability."

However, he said, it was "of utmost importance that the conditions of a permit be exactly complied with."

A technician with the pollution control branch, Kenneth Austin, testified he saw treated domestic wastes being discharged from a lagoon" directly to the ground" on Sept. 13.

The discharge was a contravention of a pollution order which specified that between September and May the effluent must be discharged by spray irrigation.

Austin said the spray irrigation equipment was not in use at the time and added he had been told it was "non-operative" awaiting a spare part.

Joseph Isherwood testifed the effluent had escaped into a field after a maintenance man had inadvertently opened the valve to the bottom lagoon in the three lagoon oxidization treatment system. The wastes ran into a 12-acre field at the back of the property.

"Ordinarily it would have been contained in the boundaries of the field," he said. "But years ago a farmer installed underground tiles there which we didn't know existed. The effluent collected under the tiles and ran onto a neighbor's property."

He said when that happened he hired a backhoe to dig up the tiles.

Power Squadron Picks Islanders

Two local boatsmen have been elected to top posts in tre nation-wide Canadian Power Squadrons.

Jack Simpson of Sidney is the chief commander and Oliver Summers, of 3680 Cadboro Bay, is vice-commander and national training officer.

They were elected at the CPS's 25th national conference in Saint John, N.B.

Simpson had completed a two-year term as vice-commander and national executive officer.

Before that he held a number of positions in the Victoria Power Squadron, which he joined in 1961, and later commanded. He was district commander of the Vancouver Island District from 1964 to 1966.

Still active in teaching local students in boating knowledge, Simpson is now a member of the Saanich Peninsula Power Squadron, which he helped found five years ago.

This is the first time in CPS history that a westerner has headed the organization.

Summers made boating history in 1972 when he became the first skipper of a power cruiser to accompany yachts in the Victoria-Maui race in his boat — Summer Star.

He is also a former commander of the Victoria Power Squadron and Vancouver Island District and has been active in local training since 1966.

A non-profit organization, CPS is dedicated to promote safe boating through education. Its volunteer members teach safe boat handling, navigation and other advanced courses from October to March each year.

More than 30,000 students have graduated from the basic boating course.

There are more than 14,000 active and associate members in 122 squadrons, grouped in 13 districts across Canada.

Save-Shoreline Plan Drawn Up

A proposal for the preservation of shoreline on Vancouver Island and the mainland will be submitted to the provincial government next month by the island section of the B.C. Wildlife Federation.

The federation at its Dec. 8 general meeting in Parksville will submit to members a brief urging the government to set up a Provincial Coastal Zone Authority.

The major function would be to provide British Columbia with a comprehensive program for the conservation and restoration of shoreline along the seasore, lakes and rivers.

"I believe this is the first concrete grassroot proposal made to the government to put an end to a system which alienates the shoreline to the general public," said Ed Mankelow, president.

"A typical example of the lack of planning existing today is the Reid centre on Wharf Street," he said. "The capital region has about 200 miles of shoreline, but only about nine miles is usable public waterfront property."

The brief says extensive waterfront subdivisions in prime areas, ineffective patchwork defences against erosion and the disturbance of wildlife habitats around estuaries all point to the need for a provincial authority.

It notes that most of the present waterfront developments benefit only a minority of British Columbians.

"Jurisdictions concerning the government of our waterfront are so divided among local, municipal, regional, provincial and federal authorities that they frustrate any attempts at comprehensive coastal management," the brief states.

It notes that as migration into British Columbia coastal zone continues, more land will be required for housing at the sea's edge and in from the immediate shoreline.

"The piecemeal, unplanned, uncontrolled, unregulated system that has been used in many areas cannot continue," it states.

The brief said the function of a Provincial Coastal Zone Authority would be:

—Defining the coastal zone and dividing it into suitably homogenous regions.

—Setting up and supporting Regional Coastal Zone Authorities to interpret the provincial program in terms of local conditions.

—Creating coastal area preserves in exceptionally scenic or ecological fragile areas.

—Restricting and regulating strip development of the coastline.

—Locating and controlling public accesses.

—Researching and innovating ways of improving the uses of coastal zone as a complete natural system regardless of local political boundaries.

Football: 'Pressure's Only When You Feel It'

What's it like to be going into a national final? As Dave Cutler was saying: "There's only pressure when you feel there is pressure."

This was on the phone from Edmonton where the Eskimos were about to go through their final home workout before emplaning for Toronto and Sunday's Grey Cup final against the Ottawa Rough Riders.

And Victoria's most famous football player of the moment was almost certain he would be returning home a winner. Happy? You bet he was, and confident too.

One of the heroes of the playoff game against Saskatchewan Roughriders in that tense 25-23 triumph on a frozen field last Sunday, Cutler said he was eagerly looking forward to the final test.

"Sure, it's my first," he enthused, "and I think we'll do well, extremely well. Right now we are playing our best football of the season, and I think on Sunday you saw the two best football teams in Canada in action right here."

As for the general condition of the team: We're fine, in good shape, and yes, both quarterbacks (Bruce Lemmerman and Tom Wilkinson) are ready to go. They weren't as badly hurt as has been played up," he added, "and Lemmerman's bump (on his elbow) wasn't quite as big as an orange, even if it was sore."

As for himself — Dave had a record year of 32 field goals, won the Western Conference scoring title, and on Sunday equalled his own record by kicking six field goals and scoring 19 points, which also equalled his personal best, both against Saskatchewan.

"I think I've had a good year," he offered. "I know in my own mind I've played well, and I have been kicking better and more accurately than ever before."

Statistically, Cutler needed go no further than the record book. That epistle lists his field goal contribution to the Edmonton cause this year this way: 23 out of 27 from inside the 45-yard line; 28 of 35 from inside the 50; and four of 16 outside the 50. That latter figure works out to a percentage of 25 per cent. In the NFL the no-so-comparable percentage from outside the 50 is only four per cent.

The Snap and the Holder

Cutler gave full marks to his centre, Bob Howes, a former B.C. Lion, and his holder, another ex-lion, Tom Wilkinson, for his success. "They have to be the best in the CFL in that department," he said. "Not just because I play with them, but it means so much for a kicker to have a good snap and a good holder. Besides, I've settled down this season," he admitted.

Obviously engufled in the enthusiasm of the event, Cutler said he honestly felt the Eskimos were a better team than Ottawa. "They beat us in our only meeting this year," he recalled. "The score was 32-20; it was a terrible day, wet and cold; we didn't play well at all, and that game was in Ottawa. Now we are playing much better — and you can believe that we really worked to get here — and our offence, against Saskatchewan, was moving the ball better than at any other time in the season."

"Sure, I'm excited," Cutler added. "See you when I get back — a winner."

Back Where It All Began

So Victoria has a personal interest in this year's final, because Cutler played three years at Mount View before going on to the University of Victoria and Simon Fraser. And it was while at Simon Fraser he first became a football celebrity. He was selected to the NAIA District I All-Star team and was honorable mention Little All-America as a linebacker. He also held the honorary team inspiration award for two years.

And to think, but for an untied shoelace, he might not have continued to be an Eskimo. Cutler had been picked as Edmonton's No. 1 college draft pick in 1969, had a tryout with Green Bay Packers of the NFL and was one of two field goal kickers on the Edmonton roster in the pre-season schedule. Peter Kempf, an ex-B.C. Lion, was the other. Well, Cutler had missed one field goal try from a relatively short distance and when the next field-goal opportunity came along, the coach looked right past Cutler, his gaze settled on Kempf, and he said: "Get in there."

That's when fate entered the picture. Unfortunately for Kempf he didn't have his boot laced up, so Cutler got the nod, made good from 40 yards, and had won the reprieve. He hasn't been out of the Esk lineup since.

Sunday? "This has to be my biggest game. I think we'll do all right."

Cyclist Banned for Pilfering Biscuits

TORONTO (CP) — Jocelyn Lovell, 23, of Toronto has learned from the Canadian Cycling Association that his theft of a box of cookies during a July cycling training trip to France will keep him out of the Commonwealth Games in New Zealand this winter.

In announcing the six-month suspension of the cyclist, association president Guy Morin of Montreal said that Lovell also had been involved in a "not very serious fight" with another rider, Ed MacRae of Vancouver, during the Canadian team's three-week excursion to Spain and France.

A team manager had recommended a life ban be considered but the appeals committee handed down the lighter punishment, the president said.

Lovell won three medals at the 1970 Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh, including Canada's first gold medal in cycling in more than 30 years. The following summer, he captured another gold medal at the Pan-American Games in Colombia.

Lovell said in an interview that his hotel-room key in France also opened the door to a nearby storage room where he found the cookies. The complaint about the missing cookies was made by team captain Tom Morris of Victoria and not the hotel management, Lovell said.

(Morris is training in New Zealand for January's Commonwealth Games and could not be reached for comment.)

"At a sort of investigation afterwards, the team officials asked all the riders to turn in their keys," Lovell said.

"They discovered that mine was the only one that opened the storage room door. I was told to pack and go home. I paid $200 from my own pocket to get home."

Bruce Smith, Lovell's coach at the Internatinnal Bicycle Club in Toronto, said the other riders and officials are using the incident to carry out a personal vendetta against Lovell.

"When you're on top, it's amazing how many enemies you have," he said. "In Jocelyn's case, it's pure jealousy."

Smith said he is filing an appeal with the cycling association's board of directors in a final effort to have the suspension lifted.

Parker's Nerves Get Early Shock

By The Canadian Press

Parker MacDonald has had only one night on the job as coach of Minnesota North Stars, but they may be getting on his nerves already.

MacDonald watched his floundering team get to within four seconds of tying the tough Montreal Canadiens, then saw Pete Mahovlich score the goal that gave the Canadiens a 4-3 edge in their National Hockey League game.

In Wednesday's other games, New York Rangers blanked California Golden Seals 3-0, Atlanta Flames edged Buffalo Sabres 3-2, Pittsburgh Penguins shaded Vancouver Canucks 5-4 and Chicago Black Hawks defeated St. Louis Blues 4-1.

MacDonald, a former forward with five NHL teams, took over from Jack Gordon Tuesday after the North Stars had won only three of 17 starts.

Gordon said he'd decided to quit for health reasons—his nerves were bothering him.

MacDonald was the second coach to launch his NHL career on Bloomington, Minn., ice this year. Detroit Red Wings celebrated Alex Delvecchio's takeover with a 4-2 win over the Stars Nov. 10.

Pete Mahovlich swept a rebound past Minnesota goalie Cesar Maniago as the Canadiens tried one last desperation rush down the ice with Frank Mahovlich in the penalty box.

Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin tied a New York club record with his 47th career shutout in league and playoff games. The old mark belonged to Davey Kerr, who played from 1934 through 1941.

Giacomin, who had 24 saves, has 46 shutouts in regular-season play, more than any active goalie in the league.

"I didn't really have the feeling I was going to get a shutout," said Giacomin. "I didn't have the feeling until the final buzzer."

Jean Ratelle scored twice for the Rangers.

Ray Comeau fired in a 13-foot shot midway through the second period as the Flames snapped a six-game winless streak and sent the Sabres down to their third straight defeat.

Al McDonough scored twice for the Penguins, who snapped a three-game losing streak. McDonough took a pass from Lowell MacDonald in front of the net to score the winner midway in the third period.

The Penguins had scored just four goals in their last three games, all losses, causing owner Ted Potter last week to promise changes if the team didn't make a turnabout.

Chicago extended its unbeaten string to eight games to move within three points of Philadelphia Flyers, who lead the West Division.

Referee Ron Wicks called 54 minutes in penalties, including majors for fighting to Glen Sather and Larry Giroux of St. Louis and Darcy Rota of Chicago.

"A lot of teams in this league think they can push us around," said Black Hawk coach Billy Reay. "They never seem to be really able to do it."

Basketball Glory A Two-Step Away?

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

How does a coach mold a basketball team into a winner?

Would you believe yoga, self-hypnosis, lectures in behavioral psychology and creative dancing? John Kootnekoff does.

He not only believes it, he practises it. Kootnekoff is coach of Simon Fraser Clansmen and in September he had his basketball players practising it, too, during a three-day session at Long Beach on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

"It's a self-motivation kind of thing." Kootnekoff explained Wednesday night at the University of Victoria gymnasium after the Clansmen's 64-59 exhibition victory over UVic Vikings, their fourth win in a row this season.

"We talk about goal-setting, self-esteem and things like that," he continued. "And we even touch on yoga, self-hypnosis and creative dance."

Creative dance?

"We feel it relaxes a person and helps to develop rhythm, co-ordination and agility. Our big kids are very agile."

There's no way of knowing how much the creative dancing and self-hypnotism contributed to the Clan's win Wednesday. UVic coach Gary Taylor, for example, had a more basic explanation.

"They threw a zone at us in the first half and we didn't adjust quickly enough," he said. "We stuck at 22 points and they went to 37 and that hurt."

There was no question about that. Vikings rebounded with a solid second half and might have won their first game in three years against SFU with more consistent foul shooting in the late stages.

But Vikings missed six straight free thows in the closing five minutes to let their chances slip away.

"We've got a good shooting ball club, but we missed some key ones tonight," Taylor admitted. "But it was our first pressure game and we played well, especially in the second half."

UVic played its best under the boards, a marked change from last season when lack of height led to rebounding woes. Vikings outrebounded the visitors 31-21, grabbing 25 under their own board.

But the losers shot only 28 per cent from the foul line and 39 per cent from the floor, compared to 62 per cent on free throws and 41 per cent on field goals by SFU.

Turnovers hurt, too, as Vikings yielded possession 15 times. Clansmen, with a reputation for sure-handed play, coughed up the ball only seven times.

Jim Ciccone (45 per cent from the floor and a points total of 22) and Rick Kazanowski (48 per cent and 17 points) led the winners. Tops for the Vikings were Dave Mulcahy (50 per cent and 14 points) and Gord Hoshal (75 per cent and 12 points).

In a junior varsity preliminary, Simon Fraser downed UVic 62-51 with Scott Littlejohn, a freshman from Nanaimo, scoring 23 points for the winners. Dale McDonald counted 11 for UVic.

Three Units Go for Cats

Victoria Cougars will be back to three forward lines tonight for their Western Canada Hockey League game against Tigers in Medicine Hat.

Cougars, down to two lines for the last two periods of Tuesday's 8-3 loss to the Centennials in Calgary, sent flu-ridden Al McLaren home Wednesday.

But coach Ollie Dorohoy will have Brian Day, who sat out Tuesday with the flu, and Ron Poole, who received a game misconduct early in the second period of the Calgary encounter, working with Cal Kitching on a third line tonight and Friday in Edmonton against the Oil Kings.

McLaren might be back in action Saturday when Cougars take on Regina Pats at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial Arena.

In the only WCHL game Wednesday, league scoring leader Ron Chipperfield hammered in three goals and set up another to lead Brandon Wheat Kings to a 7-4 victory over visiting Saskatoon Blades.

Grant Jefferson (2), Jeff Sheardown and Gordie Cole also scored for Wheat Kings while Blair Chapman (2), Dan Arndt and Blair Federko replied for Blades.

Tax Bill Settled; Ali, Joe Set to Go

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali have settled a back tax bill with New York State, clearing the way for their 12-round rematch in New York City Jan. 28, it was announced Wednesday.

State tax commissioner Mario Procaccino said the two former heavyweight boxing champions agreed with the state tax commission that they are subject to state personal income tax on "100 per cent of their income derived from or connected with New York sources."

Procaccino said the commission and lawyers for Frazier and Ali worked out terms for determining back taxes due on Frazier's New York fights since 1967 and Ali's since 1970.

A spokesman for Procaccino said state law prohibits the disclosure of the amounts to be paid.

After Frazier won a unanimous 15-round decision in his first fight with Ali on March 8, 1971, the state issued a jeopardy tax assessment of $348,000 on each fighter's purse pending determination of back taxes and interest due, Procaccino said.

Riders Hide From Mice and Men

TORONTO (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders planned an open workout at CNE Stadium this afternoon but said they'll work out in secret in the next two days.

"If we have our way, not even a mouse will catch a peek," one Rider official said Wednesday night after the Eastern Football Conference champions checked into a motel about 10 miles from downtown Toronto.

Whether Ottawa will be able to maintain total security remains a question. But coach Jack Gotta apparently hopes to have a surprise or two for Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup game Sunday.

Gotta already has said he plans no bed check nor curfew for the players at least for their first two days here.

In an approach to a big game that differs widely from other coaches, Gotta said:

"We're not going to turn the whole thing into Stalag 25 or something."

Defensive end Wayne Smith, who suffered a broken arm last Sunday when Riders beat Montreal Alouettes in the EFC final, accompanied the team to Toronto.

He's wearing a cast and the Riders have said he won't be playing this week. Lineman Frank Reid of Ottawa has been added to the lineup to bring Riders to the full 32 they're allowed to carry.

The big question mark remains quarterback Jerry Keeling.

Keeling was a main factor responsible for the Riders winning nine of 10 games for the league title.

He also played what Goota called "a super game" against Alouettes before lifted early in the second quarter with a leg injury.

Both Gotta and Keeling say the veteran will be backup for starting quarterback Rick Cassata Sunday, although he won't be able to practise at least until Friday.

In the Eskimo camp, coach Ray Jauch said after a bumpy three-hour flight from Edmonton that the Eskimos have the flexibility to use either flanker George McGowan or running back Roy Bell as the main facet of their attack against the defensively-tough Riders.

"Our ground game helped us beat Saskatchewan in tthe final game of the regular season. They took our ground game away from us a little bit in the final last Sunday, so we went with the pass."

It was a pass to McGowan, his seventh reception of the game, that provided the winning margin for Edmonton against Saskatchewan Roughriders in the Western Conference final. Bell accounted for 94 yards rushing.

Bruce Lemmerman threw the winning pass to McGowan despite the heroics Lemmerman probably will not start the Grey Cup classic. It depends on whether he or Tom Wilkinson is in better physical condition.

Wilkinson pulled himself from the game Sunday when a blow in the back compounded problems caused by a sore arm.

Jauch said he was leaning toward Wilkinson because the doughty little scrambler apparently was more fit than Lemmerman at this stage.

Ottawa defeated Edmonton 32-20 as the Eskimos committed a series of costly turnovers during their CFL interlocking game earlier this season.

This is Edmonton's first trip to the Grey Cup final since 1960, and they faced Ottawa then, too. The Rough Riders gave them a 16-6 whipping in that game.

Ski Coach Low on Snow, High on Hopes for UVic

UNIVERSITY SCENE

By Max Low

Ken Brown is the nearest thing to a duck out of water.

He's a skier without snow. But he's hoping.

The 22-year-old Brown, a second-year geography student at the University of Victoria, has just taken over from Ken Greene as UVic ski coach.

Greene, brother of B.C.'s most famous skier Nancy Greene-Raine, is training hard at Rossland and hopes to make the Canadian team for this year's world university winter Olympics.

Snow, and plenty of it, has been a constant winter companion for Ken Brown. He's been able to ski almost as long as he's known how to walk. And, in his hometown of North Bay, 200 miles north of Toronto, Ken has been skiing in downhill, cross-country, slalom and jumping events since he was 8.

The bone dry road outside glistened in the weak winter sunlight and Ken gazed distantly through the window and confessed:

"We face the greatest disadvantage, skiing on the Island. We have to concentrate on dry-land training with actual training in snow only every second week or so, whereas most of the United States college teams practise on snow every week."

Still, Ken isn't disillusioned. He and his UVic team are off to train at Whistler Mountain this weekend; he has high hopes the squad will pick up a lot of valuable tips in a five-day training camp in Rossland just before Christmas, and he feels UVic "will definitely make its mark" in the Western Collegiate Ski Conference this year.

University of British Columbia is the only other Canadian school that competes in the conference against 10 U.S. colleges, mostly in Oregon and Washington. The first meet is on Alpental in the Snoqualmie Range east of Seattle Jan. 12 and 13.

The next two competitions, Jan. 19-20 and Feb. 9-10, are on Washington's Crystal Mountain and teams must qualify in these three meets for the conference final Mar. 1-3 on Mount Batchelor near Bend, Ore.

The conference meets consist of three events—slalom, giant slalom and cross-country—and a team must have three members finishing with a time in each event to qualify for the final.

A glance at the UVic team:

—Brent Baxter, 19, from Jasper; an experienced downhiller and giant slalom man but a "bit too heavy" for the slalom.

—Doug Turner, 22, a strong three-way performer who usually skis in all events and "always makes it down."

—Chris Stranger, 19, from Nelson, a first-year student who broke his leg skiing two years ago and is just returning to competition; right now, the "biggest hope," says coach Brown.

—Eric Dafoe, 23, a mountain man who hasn't yet done serious racing but, says Brown, "I'm sure he'll do well."

—Rick Shrieves, 19, from Nelson will be used mainly as the spare this year and will probably compete only in giant slalom.

—Bill Beattie, 22, raced for UVic two years ago and did some racing last year in Switzerland; could do well in all three events but is strongest in cross-country.

And there is Brown himself. Although more of a Nordic (jumper and cross-country) man rather than an Alpine skier, he will probably ski in two of the three events.

As well, UVic has three skiers—Sue Keckalo, Kelly Ballantine and Margo Pigelot on its women's team and, says Brown, there are several others who want to race. "It's just a matter of trying them out to see who is good enough."

At the moment, UVic skiers have no sponsors but Brown hopes to get firms to sponsor the individual racers by the start of next season.

"We have had a lot of help from Peetz Ski Shop, though," Brown admitted. "Manager Rob Hughes has backed us all the way and he's so keen he hopes to travel with us to the meets."

Until they make it to the "real stuff," it's on with the dry-land training. That consists of running, sprinting, a tough routine of calisthenics and weight machine training.

It's a lot of hard work but, as Brown tells it:

"This year, we're going to make it . . ."

Hawaiian Volleyballers Dominate at Reynolds

Punahou High School of Hawaii clearly dominated exhibition volleyball competition Wednesday night at Reynolds High School.

The visiting boys downed two Reynolds squads, beating the girls 11-3, 11-7, 11-3, 11-1 and the boys 15-3, 15-5, 11-2, 11-2, before topping a Victoria Volleyball Club senior men's team 15-6, 15-9 before about 450 spectators.

Punahou, which had a win streak of 44 games stretching over two years broken Sunday by Revelstoke, the reigning B.C. high school champion, left today for Maple Ridge and complete its' B.C. tour Saturday in North Vancouver.

Basketball

Harlem Clowns hammed it up to entertain a capacity crowd of 600 fans while cruising to an 86-70 exhibition basketball victory over host Victoria High Totems Wednesday night.

Tony Carlson topped Totem marksmen with 14 points.

Rugby

Tom Blades scored a try, kicked three conversions and booted a penalty goal to lead St. Michael's University School to a 21-6 victory over visiting Glenlyon in an under-14 independent schools exhibition rugby match.

Hockey

Stan Thomas fired two goals to lead Mount View to a 4-0 decision over Mt. Douglas in a Greater Victoria High School Hockey League game at Memorial Arena.

Mike Stewart and Don McPherson added single goals as goalie Eric Hawes registered the shutout.

Tickets for the dinner-dance can be obtained from either Dave Billingham (388-6424) or Bryan Rudgard (592-6722).

Aeros Respond With Good Deed

By The Canadian Press

Houston Aeros, humiliated by Quebec Nordiques Sunday night, turned around and did Quebec a favor Wednesday in one of two World Hockey Association games.

The Aeros defeated New England Whalers 4-1, spoiling New England's chance to move further ahead of Quebec in the battle for top spot in the WHA's East Division.

Meanwhile in Winnipeg, the Jets kept their one-point lead over Houston in the struggle for second spot in the West with a 6-2 win over Cleveland.

"They tell you to forget it, but how can you forget something like that," veteran forward Joe Szura said, referring to the Aeros' 8-3 loss to Quebec Sunday.

"But if we keep playing the way we have tonight, we won't have to look back."

Toronto Tenpinners Top Qualifiers

SINGAPORE (AP) — Glen Watson of Toronto won the qualifying rounds in the world tenpin bowling tournament today with a two-day, 24-game total of 4,888.

The defending champion, Ray Mitchell, Watson's teammate in a Toronto league, ran second, just five pins behind.

The only other man to average more than 200 was third-place Henry Tan of Singapore with 4,869.

Watson, 27, a forklift operator, was in third place Wednesday but he sprinted into the lead by shooting 2,492 for 12 games today.

Mitchell, dropped to the runner-up spot after scoring 2,433 today.

The top 20 scorers from a field of 36 men advanced to Friday's first section of the finals. The remaining 16 were eliminated.

TIE LIFTS ROYALS INTO LEAD

Mike Sails scored on a breakaway with 10 minutes left to play Wednesday night to give University of Victoria Vikings a 1-1 deadlock with Cosmopolitan Royals in a Premier Division match of the Vancouver Island Soccer League at Royal Athletic Park.

The result boosted Royals into sole possession of first place and moved Vikings into a tie for the fourth spot with Nanaimo.

Marty Taylor gave Royals the lead at the 20-minute mark of the first half with a hard shot into a top corner of the net.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Cracking pins for 245 tally in his second game, Doug Williams collected men's tenpin award in seventh week of annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest. Williams started three-game series with 200 and finished with 205 count for 650 total in Colonist Niteside League at Mayfair Lanes to earn award that qualifies him for Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs.

Upset Marks Doubles Play

Marathon matches and the defeat of a seeded duo were in the spotlight at Brentwood Community Hall Wednesday night during doubles competition in the annual Saanich open badminton tournament.

Bounced out of the running in mixed doubles were third-seeded Joan Maryhusa and Grant Hazelwood, who dropped a 15-5, 14-17, 15-9 decision to Pam Crisp and Dan Woods.

Brentwood's mother-daughter combination of Muriel Knott and Pat Kirk had a rugged struggle in women's doubles before downing Val Kent and Carol Meija 18-14, 10-15, 15-10.

Vern Pratt and Martin Horn also had a long battle to get by John Dewey and Harry Sadd in men's doubles, winning by a 15-11, 10-15, 15-12 count.

SFU Tops Grid Poll

TACOMA (AP) — Simon Fraser University, which barely lost the northwest small-college football championship in 1970, won it this year by a narrow margin in the final ballot of a 25-man panel of regional sports writers, sportscasters and collegiate sports information directors.

The clansmen, from Burnaby, were rated No. 1 by three ballot points over Puget Sound, which had been tops the last two years. SFU's 6-2 record includes a 7-6 nudging of UPS.

Bunning Named Mudhen Leader

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Jim Bunning, who pitched two no-hitters during a 16-year major league baseball career, has been named manager of Toledo Mudhens in the Class AAA International League.

Bunning, a right-hander who compiled a major league record of 224-184, was manager of Philadelphia Phillies' Eugene, Ore., farm club in 1973.

S. Africa Bans Games Between Blacks, Mulattos

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Apartheid in South Africa has been extended to athletic competition between black Africans and mulattos.

The two non-white groups, the government said, no longer will be allowed to play with, or compete against, each other without advance permission.

A circular received by the African Kwazakhele Rugby Union in Port Elizabeth says African sports administrators must seek approval in writing at least three weeks in advance if they wish to compete against a mulatto team.

"It is contrary to government policy to allow mixed sports between whites and non-whites and between various non-white groups," according to the notice from the department of Bantu administration and development.

The notice further advised that competition involving Bantu — the official name for black African — and non-Bantu races would be considered only in highly exceptional cases. If approval is granted, a permit would be issued under the Group Areas Act, which specifies where different races must live, work and play.

"The decision is purely political and we beg to be left alone to play our game in peace," said Mono Badela, president of the Kwazahele Rugby Union. "Playing sport with our fellow black brothers by permit is repugnant to the fundamentals of sports itself."

Liverpool Beats Champs

LONDON (Reuter) — Liverpool, English league soccer champions, beat Sunderland, last season's surprise Football Association cup winners, 2-0, in the third round of the League Cup play Wednesday.

Goals from Kevin Keegan and John Toskack brought Liverpool a fourth-round match at Hull City and inflicted Sunderland's first defeat in a cup-tie in Britain since Bob Stokoe took over as manager a year ago.

The match was watched by a crowd of 36,000.

In fourth-round games Wednesday, England under-23 International Bob Latchford scored a second-half hat-trick to give Birmingham a surprise 3-1 win at Ipswich while third-division York City held Manchester City to a goalless draw.

Another upset result was Norwich City's 2-0 victory at Southampton, ending a run of 10 games without defeat for the home side.

Datsun's new luxury number.

New power:
For 1974 our top-of-the line Datsun is equipped with a bigger overhead cam engine, and a 4-speed standard or optional 3-speed automatic transmission.

New interior comfort:
Fully reclining front bucket seats feature cloth inserts in sedan models for smart appearance and cool comfort in warm weather driving. For your convenience, we've added a clock to our dash. A new 610 option this year: Datsun's own air conditioning units.

New safety:
We've added an energy-absorbing bumper system to the 610's package of standard safety equipment that already includes power-assisted front disc brakes, independent rear suspension for better handling, tough unit body construction and fully retractable belts. Improved emission controls make the new 610 safer for the environment too. New continuous or intermittent operation windshield wipers improve rainy weather visibility.

New Datsun economy:
The 610's overhead cam engine was designed by the same team that enabled Datsun to claim better fuel economy than any other car sold in the United States, according to U.S. Government 1973 Environmental Protection Agency tests. Datsun saves.
Test drive a 610, Datsun's new luxury number. It comes as a 4-door sedan, a hardtop and a 5-door wagon.

Mental Hospital Patients Are 'Overlooked'—Lawyer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Patients at Riverview Mental Hospital who are committed by the provincial cabinet can remain there overlooked unless they have a friend on the outside, says a report by a Vancouver lawyer.

Dennis Murray, in a report to the Donner-Canadian Foundation by the Vancouver Community Legal Assistance Society, said that although an informal review board for such patients exists, "order-in-council patients are not in fact being reviewed on a regular basis."

Patients "who have someone on the outside to agitate on their behalf are obtaining review before the order in council review board," said Murray, and patients who have no advocates on the outside are "still suffering some prejudice in the board's falure to reveiw their case."

He said the review board should be incorporated into the federal criminal code, which allows, but does not insist upon, such a board. A review every six months is required under the federal legislation. Murray recommended a review every three months.

The report lists one man in Riverview who was charged with murder, declared not guilty by reason of insanity, who was admitted to the institution in 1934.

In an interview, Murray said judges are sometimes forced to send people to Riverview despite the fact they are legally sane at the time of trial.

FROZEN WAIT for long line of trucks takes place at Hope following closure of the Fraser Canyon Road as a result of two-foot snowfall Tuesday. The Trans-Canada Highway was ploughed and opened Wednesday.

Homicide Handling Lashed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Glen McDonald, chief coroner for British Columbia, said Wednesday he will order a full inquest into the stabbing death last April of taxi driver Muk Chee Tam.

McDonald also offered a $500 reward from his own pocket for the arrest of Tam's killer.

Donna Hutchison, 29, was acquitted Monday of the taxi driver's murder.

McDonald attacked the police department's handling of homicide investigations.

"We need a special detachment of detectives who deal only with homicides and are not assigned to look for stolen bicycles," he said.

McDonald said he has written the police commission urging creation of such a special detachment with up to half a dozen detectives assigned to it.

Deputy Police Chief Tom Stokes refused to comment on the chief coroner's charges.

McDonald said murders now average two a month with 26 reported so far this year in Vancouver. He said deaths from heroin overdoses are running about 90 a year and "without thorough investigation there is no way to tell if they were self-administered or homicide."

COMICS BAN NO JOKE

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Doug Martin has partially won a victory in his fight to be allowed to import underground comic books from the United States.

Martin has succeeded in convincing customs officials that comics such as Greaser Comics No. 1 have literary merit, but he still won't receive his copy of Mean Bitch Thrills or eight other similar titles from United States publisher Last Gasp Eco-Funnies.

Martin had ordered 21 comic books by mail but when his order arrived, it contained only five, with a note from the Canada Customs department that the other 16 had been seized as immoral or indecent.

He protested the decision and customs said he could pick up another 12 of the withheld comics. The other nine remain confiscated.

Martin has another 90 days to appeal the decision. He said Wednesday he will.

Landlady Faces Court Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A boarding house landlady has been charged with discriminating against an immigrant because of the color of his skin.

Mrs. L. R. Fisher of Vancouver is charged with refusing accommodation Oct. 29 to Bernard Anthony, an East Indian of Fijian nationality.

Mrs. Fisher is to appear in court Friday.

Anthony recently complained to the British Columbia Human Rights Commission that when he answered an advertisement for a room to rent, he was told by a woman she did not allow black people in her home.

He said he returned with a witness, and was refused again, also on the same grounds.

★

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Herring price negotiations between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union and the Fisheries Association of British Columbia were suspended Wednesday until some time next week.

Ray Gardiner, northern spokesman for the union, said the groups are bargaining on prices for the food and bait herring fishery. Gardiner said he can't disclose the stage price negotiations were at, but previously the company was offering $36 a ton. Fishermen were seeking five and a quarter cents a pound.

★

CASTLEGAR (CP) — A referendum on amalgamation of Castlegar and neighboring Kinnaird set for Dec. 8 has been given final approval by the deputy inspector of municipalities. He told the two town councils the referendum could be passed by a simple majority.

★

VANCOUVER (CP) — Future union action on an unsigned master agreement in the B.C. pulp and paper industry is to be determined at the membership level, it was announced after a meeting Wednesday between union and management representatives.

Stan Shewaga, chief negotiator for the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, said there were still points of disagreement after the meeting.

★

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ten persons were remanded Wednesday to Dec. 4 on charges of common assault which were laid after a sit-in at the office of the regional director of immigration.

The charges were laid following a demonstration protesting federal government policy toward the Chilean military junta.

From the Wizard of Avis: some practical magic for people who don't rent cars.

If you don't rent cars, chances are it's because you think you can't afford to. Well, that's where the Wizard of Avis comes in. He has a flat daily rate with no mileage charge. It's a little magic that turns car renting from something that's too expensive into practical, affordable transportation for everybody. Here's how you could experience a sparkling new Avis car.

Let's say you're a businessman who does a lot of flying. When you arrive at your destination, you use a limousine to get downtown, cabs to go from meeting to meeting, then when it's time to go home, you take another limousine back to the airport. This adds up to a lot of money so instead you rent a sparkling new Plymouth Fury III for a day, cover all your calls, drive 87 miles and pay just $17.00 plus gas. That's less than you'd probably pay for limousines and cabs.

$17 1 day and 87 miles for just $17.00 plus gas.

Or suppose you live in a big city high-rise. You don't own a car, but you do like to get away to the country at weekends. You used to take the bus or train to get to there until you heard about the Wizard's flat daily rate. So you pick up a new Plymouth Satellite on Friday noon, keep it until Monday 9 A.M. and drive all the miles you want for just $32.00 and gas. (That's 2½ days for the price of two—with no mileage charge in the bargain.)

$32 2½ days and 420 miles for just $32.00 plus gas.

Maybe you're a salesman. You have your own car which you normally drive on all sales calls. But then you hear about the Wizard's flat daily rate with no mileage charge. It doesn't take you too long to figure out that driving a new Avis car on long trips makes a lot more sense than using the family car. So you rent a new Plymouth Duster, make seven calls, do 410 miles and keep the car for two days for just $30.00 and gas. Aside from the extra convenience, you even find that your mileage covers the best part of the rental!

$30 2 days and 410 miles for just $30.00 plus gas.

The Wizard's Flat Daily Rate. So economical, it can make car renting practical for you. Shouldn't you phone the number at the base of this ad for a reservation?

Avis rents all makes of fine cars, features Plymouth and Dodge. These rates available in major centres across Canada.

Officials Huddle on Trap Menace

As urbanization takes over much of once-rural Saanich, officials are concerned about the danger to children and pets from traps laid to snare wild animals.

Mayor Hugh Curtis has had his third meeting with municipal officials in an attempt to solve the problem.

After a meeting with Chief Bob Peterson this week, Curtis said:

"The municipality doesn't have under the Municipal Act, according to our solicitors, the authority to prohibit trapping. But the chief is in discussion with the provincial fish and wildlife branch and others to determine if trapping could and should be banned in certain designated sections of the municipality."

Curtis said it is imperative that information on those laying traps must be readily available.

"The municipality and, or, the fish and wildlife branch must know beyond any shadow of a doubt who has traps and where they are located," he said. "Trapping licences are required but sometimes traps are loaned, some are not licensed or known about."

Curtis said he was aware that traps were needed in some cases:

"I recognize the problems on both sides," he said. "The legitimate livestock producer or farmer must have some protection from animals that are going to maraud their operation.

"But we must neutralize the irresponsible use of traps. That is what has to be done."

Residents in the Prospect Lake area are particularly concerned about trapping. Several householders have lost pets and suspect they've fallen victim to traps.

Feelings ran high earlier this year when one man found his dog dead in a spring-type trap.

Jack Whitehead, president of the Prospect Lake Community Association, was reluctant to discuss the issue of traps, which he said had split factions of the community and caused "hot blood" when the dead dog was found.

"These things work up an awful lot of feeling in the district," he said, "I'm generally against the use of traps. It's not a humane way of killing animals."

He said any type of spring trap should not be allowed and "trapping of any description should be done under licence and properly supervised".

He was particularly concerned about the possibility of children being injured if they stumble over a trap.

If traps had to be used they should be "live traps" that are baited but do not harm the entrapped.

"Live traps are the only humane way," he said.

Curtis is confident a solution can be found:

"It's a very serious problem and a matter of real concern to me that indiscriminate setting of traps might injure a child or an innocent domestic animal."

Labor Delegates Slam Second Saanich Vote

The second Saanich public works referendum was condemned Wednesday night by Victoria Labor Council.

Delegates said the second vote, expected Dec. 15 following defeat of a larger referendum last Saturday, was premature, an added expense and something that properly should be done by the new council.

"They're trying to push it through before the end of the year," said Owen Williams of the paint and varnish workers union.

The first referendum was for $4.1 million. The scaled-down referendum, if approved by council for submission to ratepayers Dec. 15, would be for $2.7 million. A major exclusion would be the ice arena.

Labor council delegates also voted to support time off work provisions for municipal elections and lifting of liquor purchasing restrictions during voting hours.

In other business, Gulf Oil was condemned by John Schibli of the carpenters union for employing non-union labor at lesser rates of pay on construction work.

He described Gulf Oil as "not exactly poor" having just declared nine-month profits up 91 per cent over the previous period. He said pickets would be at one Gulf site, Douglas near Hillside, today.

Williams reported that Bapco Paint will shut down Dec. 31 and 60 employees, 36 of them older people who will get some severance pay, are looking for work.

The council voted to write the Canadian Labor Congress asking that its annual course on shop stewards, trade union administration and parliamentary procedure be extended to include programs on human rights and the new labor code.

Council secretary Larry Ryan said there is "some tension" in B.C. regarding human rights. Schibli said the annual CLC courses in Parksville are so predictable "you don't need to open the circular from the CLC." He said there should be new courses and new ideas.

Daily Appoints Committee To Study Changes at BCIT

Education Minster Eileen Dailly continues to display her penchant for task forces and special committees.

She annoucned Wednesday the formation of a special committee to make recommendations for a system of governance for the B.C. Institute of Technology in Burnaby.

Dailly, who has set up a special education commission and numerous other task forces since the NDP government took office, said in a press release the committee will be chaired by Mrs. Dale Michaels of BCIT's marketing technology division.

The committee's recommendations, she said, will form the basis for a BCIT Act at the spring session of the legislature.

The committee will include representatives of the BCIT staff, students, alumni, management and two members of the department of education.

Dailly said she has requested a study of the future relations between the institute and the department of education when BCIT is placed under its own board of management.

NUDE DANCE CHARGE DROPPED

CALGARY (CP) — Charges against a dancer and a city cabaret operator involving an alleged nude dance performance in a downtown club in July, 1972, were dropped in provincial court.

The crown withdrew a charge of appearing in an immoral performance against Jean Chupa and a charge of allowing an immoral performance to take place against Guenter Marruhn.

Marruhn is the manager of Dino's Hideaway. The Supreme Court of Canada last month declared dancing in the nude in a public place is not necessarily an immoral act.

CP Hotels

$228,000 Tossed In For Decorating

MOSCOW (UPI) — A guest house built by the Georgian state forestry committee was the last word in luxury—marble floors and stairways, fancy baths and a billiard room larger than the average Soviet apartment.

Trouble was, it cost more than $180,000 in public funds to build, and neither foresters nor the public ever saw the plush interior.

"But numerous guests of the local leadership ate and drank there," after nearby hunting expeditions, wrote an investigative reporter for the Communist Party daily Pravda.

The case of the luxurious hunter's huts was only the latest example of scandals uncovered in the past year in the free-wheeling Georgian Republic.

There were other cases where Georgian ministries dropped all pretexts and "openly built their guest houses with funds allotted for housing and industrial construction.

"They popped up like mushrooms after rain," Pravda said.

The most blatant example involved the house repair and construction management committee.

"With the generosity of the Czars," according to the investigations, the committee spent $473,000 on a two-suite guest house for four persons, then tossed in another $228,000 for interior decorating.

A series of exposes on widespread corruptionn in Georgia has been published in the local and national press since Eduard Shevardnadze took over last year as party first secretary.

Shevardnadze has been trying to end the excesses that flourished under his predecessor, Vasily Mzhavanadze, who was appointed by Josef Stalin.

Mzhavanadze, pensioned "at his own request," has never been directly linked to the Georgian scandals. But Pravda all but named him in its article.

Watergate Jury Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed without debate a bill extending by six months the life of the original grand jury investigating the Watergate political espionage scandal.

The measure, passed earlier by the House of Representatives, goes to President Nixon for his approval.

Under present law, the grand jury's term expires Dec. 5, 18 months after it was appointed.

$250 Million Plant Going To Quebec

By JEFF CARRUTHERS
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Gentilly, Que. will get a federally-built, $250 million heavy water plant, the country's fourth such plant, according to reliable federal sources here.

But Defence Minister James Richardson probably won't have to consider quitting, as he threatened earlier in the month.

It is highly likely, at least based on technical and economic considerations, a fifth heavy water plant will be built in Richardson's home province of Manitoba.

Richardson had told reporters he wouldn't be able to live with a cabinet decision to locate the country's fourth heavy water plant in Quebec, unless the next heavy water plant was located in Manitoba.

Heavy water is an essential, expensive and, at present, scarce ingredient of the Candu nuclear system.

It is used to control the nuclear reaction and to transfer the heat from the reaction for power production.

The new Gentilly heavy water plant will produce up to 800 tons of heavy water, known chemically as deuterium oxide, each year.

A Liberal Backbencher Looks on Bright Side

OTTAWA (CP) — A Liberal backbencher combined economics and patriotism in the Commons Wednesday as he cautioned New Democrats against their "gloom and doom" analysis of Canada.

Ross Whicher (L — Bruce) painted a happy picture of Canada as he attempted to counter NDP arguments during third-reading debate of the government's foreign investment review bill.

"The average Canadian today never had it so good," despite NDP claims that foreign economic domination has left Canadians unhappy, he said.

"If the Canadian dead of the wars had the opportunity of coming back. . . . I suggest they'd be very happy."

Whicher said free enterprise, not NDP socialism, has given this country the world's best housing.

NDP members should "all go out in a quiet room and sing O Canada" to remind themselves that Canada was built on hard work by its citizens and investment by both big and small businesses, he added.

What tourist would not return here after visiting a poorer country and say "thank God I'm back in a free enterprise country?" Whicher asked.

NDP arguments that the proposed foreign investment controls lack teeth are sincere, he said — "sincerely wrong."

They had forgotten that Canada was built by hard work, not by the socialism of people looking for easy breaks.

David Orlikow (NDP — Winnipeg North) said Mr. Whicher's support of the bill was surprising after "the whole tenure of his speech . . . led me to believe he thinks we have no need for the kind of legislation his minister has introduced."

He said the bill is a beginning in the fight for domestic control of the economy but "I'm skeptical the government really wants to use the legislation."

Orlikow repeated the NDP argument that heavy foreign ownership could worsen any energy crisis. If the crunch came, United States companies would close their plants here before shutting factories at home.

Elmer MacKay (PC — Central Nova) reiterated his complaint that the bill takes a negative approach to foreign investment.

Despite their criticism, opposition parties have said they support the bill in principle and will not oppose it on final reading.

First introduced in January, it would establish a screening agency for foreign investment and restrict expansion of foreign-controlled firms already here.

The proposed legislation is a tougher version of a bill that died when Parliament dissolved for the October, 1972, general election.

Servants Sign Pacts

OTTAWA (CP) — Two separate collective agreements were signed Wednesday between the Treasury Board and 1,525 members of the Professional Institute of the Public Service.

About 1,000 employees in the Commerce group will receive total pay increases of 11.8 per cent in a two-year contract dating back to Sept. 24, and ending Sept. 21, 1975.

The agreement will raise minimum pay levels for those in the most numerous level of the group to $16,263 from $14,473. The employees are involved in planning and control of economic development, industry commerce and trade and corporate affairs programs.

About 525 employees in the Veterinary Science group will receive maximum pay increases of 15.5 per cent over a 30-month contract beginning July 2, 1973.

Maximum pay generally will rise to $19,449 from $16,752 during the term of the agreement.

Tax Shelters Cave-In Seen

MONTREAL (CP) — A Toronto accountant said Wednesday it won't be long before federal tax men start trimming away available "tax shelters" used by individuals and companies to minimize the amount of taxes they pay.

Tax sheltering transactions are under constant review by the department of national revenue, Martin L. O'Brien told the annual conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

"We will shortly be seeing a number of assessments issued disallowing claims for capital cost allowance or claims to deduct business or farming losses," he predicted.

There was a danger the federal government might go to extremes in introducing Income Tax Act amendments to curtail the use of such transactions.

Tax courts have approved tax minimization schemes such as tax shelters for years, he said. Recently, however, some interpretations had been based on a social theory that every man should pay his fair share of taxes.

"The ability of a taxpayer to use such a shelter is dependent on the tax courts' attitude toward tax minimization schemes," Mr. O'Brien said, adding that for a long time judicial permission leaned in favor of taxpayers arranging their affairs in such a manner as to pay the least amount of tax.

Accountant J. Kerr Gibson of Toronto said "tax avoidance is highly controversial and the problem of distinguishing between legitimate avoidance or tax planning arrangements and improper exploitation of loopholes cause all of us headaches almost daily."

Delegates to the three-day conference heard more than 50 papers by tax experts and economists.

83,610 Picked Up LIP Cash

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of 83,610 persons got jobs through Local Iniatives Program grants in 1972-73 at an average cost to the public purse of $1,961 a job.

This was disclosed in the Commons Wednesday in a written return prepared by the manpower department.

L.I.P. grants for the last fiscal year totalled $163,968,721.

Quebec received $64,220,807 and created 33,162 jobs on 1,722 projects.

Ontario received grants totalling $24,782,031 for an average cost of $1,886 for each of the 13,141 jobs on 1,247 projects.

British Columbia received $18,823,407. This created jobs for 8,885 persons on 911 projects at an average job cost of $2,118.

Grants in New Brunswick, where the average cost-per-job was $2,214 for each of 4,849 jobs on 408 projects, totalled $10,733,865.

The $163,968,721 in grants was for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1973, and was made up of an allocation of $80 million in September, 1972, and a further allocation of $84 million three months later.

Mining Only Key Industry Planning Cutbacks in '74

OTTAWA (CP) — Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie reported Wednesday a government survey showing prospects for strong economic growth in Canada next year, particularly in manufacturing, oil and gas production and commerce.

The survey, based on expansion plans of about 200 large corporations, showed plans to increase spending on construction, machinery and equipment by 21 per cent in 1974, and a 46-per-cent jump in manufacturing alone.

"Very large projects for new steel mills, chemical plants and pulp and paper facilities are features of the manufacturing program," Mr. Gillespie said.

"Above-average increases in spending are also planned by oil and gas companies and by those in the commercial sector," his report said.

"The only industry indicating a lower level of spending in 1974 is mining where several very large projects are nearing completion," it added.

Mr. Gillespie said the overall 21-per-cent planned expansion compared with 15 per cent this year, and would be in line with "the very rapid increases" of the mid-1960s.

"The expansion for 1974 is associated with strong current sales in Canada and abroad and rising profits as well as to a buoyant outlook for a continuation of favorable conditions," he added.

Mr. Gillespie said some firms were unable to carry out the full extent of their planned expansion this year because of shortages of both labor and materials, and effects of the railway strike.

Some of these frustrated expansion plans were being carried over into 1974.

He said recently enacted tax concessions for corporations has also contributed to the planned growth next year.

"Data from the survey suggests that the greatest increases in outlays for 1974 on new construction, machinery and equipment will likely occur in Ontario, the Prairies and British Columbia. Growth in Quebec and the Atlantic region will probably be less extensive in comparison."

In another cautionary note, he said the survey covered only major areas of private business investment and did not include agriculture, fishing, residential construction, governments and institutions which usually account for nearly half the total private and public investment in Canada.

"It would appear likely that capital spending in these areas would advance much more moderately," he said.

The report does not include possible spending on such major, but still tentative projects as northern and western oil and gas pipelines.

The 200 companies surveyed, accounting for about two-thirds of Canada's total non-farm business investment, cover manufacturing, mining, oil and gas including pipelines, electric utilities, transportation and communications, financial institutions, retailers, and real estate developers.

Inflation Rate Clash

OTTAWA (FP) — Canada now has a faster inflation rate than any country but Greece and Japan, James Gillies (PC —Don Valley) told the Commons Wednesday as he urged the government to introduce new anti-inflation measures.

Finance Minister John Turner accused the official opposition of being "selective in its statistics."

He said if the opposition would look over the long term it would see that Canada's record compared favorably with other industrial countries.

Gillies said a report was made public this week by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development showing that the rate of inflation in Canada — which was the 15th in the world during the period 1970-72 in the past three months has increased so rapidly that Canada now occupies third place.

The only countries ahead of Canada in the soaring rate of inflation are Greece and Japan, according to the OECD.

He warned that economists across Canada are predicting the inflation rate will continue next year. The government's energy policy will ensure that he claimed.

Chinese Bids In Mill

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration applications on behalf of about 6,000 residents of China are being processed by the government.

The processing of forms for prospective Chinese immigrants sponsored by relatives follows an agreement signed between Canada and China Oct. 24. The agreement was reached during prime minister Trudeau's trip to China in October.

Immigration minister Robert Andras said in a news release Wednesday that priority would be given to applications that would reunite immediate family members.

European N-Force Urged

PARIS (Reuter) — Western European members of parliament called on their government Wednesday to take the first steps towards creation of a European nuclear force in the face of growing Soviet power and diminishing United States superiority.

They urged the setting up of a Western European nuclear committee for target planning, as a step towards pooling British and French nuclear weapons in a new concept of defence within the Atlantic Alliance.

Red Secret Police Threats Sketched

MOSCOW (AP) — The wife of dissident physicist Andrei Sakharov said Wednesday the secret police have warned her she is "probably mentally ill" because she refuses to co-operate with them.

Yelena Sakhorov (shown at left) told a news conference the statement was made by a secret police official during an interrogation Tuesday, as pressure mounted to silence her outspoken husband.

Mrs. Sakharov also said interrogators had "threatened me with the fate of my children and told me that as a mother I should think of them."

Her son, daughter and son-in-law have already suffered official repression because of her husband's activities, she added.

She said she has been ordered to appear for a fourth session with the secret police Friday.

Melina Blames U.S. Tanks

PARIS (UPI) — Exiled Greek actress Melina Mercouri said Wednesday the United States was responsible for the death and injury of student demonstrators during recent distrubances in Athens.

Miss Mercouri read a telegram she sent to U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger saying: "It was your tanks that crushed the bodies of our young people. You are the enemy of the Greek people.

"This dictatorship in Greece is of your making. It carries the label Made In The U.S.A."

Miss Mercouri said she believed 400 persons were killed during the clashes.

The United States has said it will continue supplying arms to Greece, a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Miss Mercouri lost her Greek citizenship after criticizing the military takeover of the Greek government in April 1967.

A Shifty-Eyed Liar: Harry S On Nixon

TRUMAN

NIXON

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Harry Truman once described Richard Nixon as a "shifty-eyed, goddamned liar" according to a new book published today.

Truman gave the description 12 years ago, to Merle Miller — writer of the new book Plain Speaking — and said Nixon would be a pushover in any presidential election.

Asked why, Truman replied: "Because Nixon is a shifty-eyed goddamned lair, and people know it. I can't figure out how he came so close to getting elected president in 1960.

"They say young (John F.) Kennedy deserves a lot of credit for licking him, but I just can't see it. I can't see how the son of a bitch (Nixon) even carried one state."

Truman also said in the interview that Nixon was one of "only two men in the whole history of the country that I can't stand."

The other, he said, was former governor Lloyd Stark, a political rival in his home state of Missouri.

The former president also thought most generals were pretty dumb.

He ranked Dwight Eisenhower as a weak battlefield general and a cowardly politician.

Douglas MacArthur, Truman thought, was not "right in his head."

Truman described his difficulties with MacArthur, whom he dismissed from command.

"I fired him because he wouldn't respect the authority of the president," said Truman.

"I didn't fire him because he was a dumb son of a bitch, although he was, but that's not against the law for generals. If it was, half to three-quarters of them would be in jail. That's why when a good one comes along like Gen. (George) Marshall . . . why, you've got to hang onto them, and I did."

Further on MacArthur, Truman said:

"There was never anybody around him to keep him in line. He didn't have anybody on his staff that wasn't an ass-kisser. He just would not let anybody near him who wouldn't kiss his ass. So . . . there were times when he was . . . I think out of his head and didn't know what he was doing . . ."

Truman's wrath, however, was bipartisan.

When asked what was his biggest mistake as president, he replied:

"Tom Clark was my biggest mistake, no question about it. . . . That damn fool from Texas that I first made attorney-general and then put on the Supreme Court.

"I don't know what got into me. He was no damn good as attorney-general, and on the Supreme Court . . . it doesn't seem possible, but he's been even worse. He hasn't made one right decision that I can think of."

Spiro Lands a Job With Gabor's Hubby

BEVERLY HILLS — Former U.S. vice-president Spiro Agnew has been hired as a consultant on international trade by a firm owned by Eva Gabor's husband, Frank Jameson.

Agnew has been on the payroll of J-W Industries since shortly after he resigned from office, Jameson confirmed in a telephone interview Wednesday.

"Most people I have talked to think he got a raw deal," Jameson said. "I strongly support that feeling and I think he is a fine man."

He has known Agnew since 1968, when they met at Republican funds raising functions, Jameson added.

COCOA BEACH, Fla. — A flap over missing car keys never reached the ears of Skylab 3 commander Gerald Carr. Last Friday, Carr soared off into space for 84 days without telling his wife, Joann, where he had put the keys to the family car. She asked NASA to set up a special conversation with Skylab so she could ask her husband about the keys.

The space agency agreed and scheduled the talks last Monday. As it turned out, they weren't necessary. The day after the launch, Mrs. Carr found the keys in an envelope under some papers on her husband's desk.

LOS ANGELES — The energy crisis may lead to a nightly entertainment crisis, what with no lights or television, city councilman Donald Lorenzen said Wednesday. And that, he warned, could lead to a people crisis.

"I know what happened in New York when they had the blackout," he said "Everybody went to bed and population zero went to hell."

MADRID — Jose Herraiz was riding in a city bus when he noticed his wallet was missing. The driver took everyone to a police station — and a search of the bus turned up Herraiz's wallet. Inside the wallet were sheets of illegal political propaganda. Herraiz, 25, ended up in jail.

ROME — A Rome newspaper today received five photographs purporting to show J Paul Getty III, grandson of the U.S. oil billionaire, without the ear that kidnappers are supposed to have cut off. The photographs were accompanied by a "final appeal" from persons who identified themselves as the abductors and a long handwritten letter which is supposed to have been written by Paul and calling on his relatives to pay a ransom. The letter said he feared further mutilations and then death.

TEL AVIV — Israeli elder stateman David Ben-Gurion, 87, had a quiet night Wednesday and his doctors said today they believe the crisis has padded. He was admitted to the hospital five days ago after suffering a cerebal hemorhage.

Grand Duke. One of the world's 3 great vodkas.

We challenged two world famous vodkas with our Grand Duke. The judges were panels of taste testers, people like you who enjoy good vodka.

They tasted and told us: "Grand Duke's as smooth and light as the world's best."

Victoria Times THIRD SECTION family

For a Cushy Life . . .

PARIS (AP) — Some people sleep in two drops of French perfume. Mijanou Bachau can hardly wait to snore away inside her very own crocodile.

It's actually a sleeping bag. Five years ago, Mrs. Bauchau and her husband Patrick plunged into cushions through force of circumstance. The apartment in which they lived was so low-ceilinged "that you practically have to sit on the floor, anyway."

So they made cushions. Actually, Bachau said, they have ideas together and Mijanou sews the cushions.

They began with squashy poufs—the kind big enough to house a family. Then, said Mrs. Bachau, "I thought I might as well do real animals."

First there was the tortoise, which comes in all dimensions from turtle-soup size to the specimens no one hopes to meet on the beach. Then there are snakes in liberty print flowers, black and white chevrons, printed camels and birds. Next to be converted into a cushion is the camel, kneeling with its hump as a headrest.

Mrs. Bachau, whose maiden name was Bardot, made a plain queen-size pouf for her sister, Brigitte. For Salvador Dali, she created a fire-spitting winged dragon.

The big snake is almost 60 feet long and, when coiled, seats four. The squeamish might think twice before ordering it in copper lame scales.

"It's amazing," says Mrs. Bauchau, "how many people are afraid of snakes. I can literally see their hair rising as they look at the cushions."

FOUR-YEAR-OLD Kristina Dolan of Whitpain, Pa., made it quite clear she doesn't want to part with Satan and Shakespeare, two German shepherd pups for sale at the Dolan home: "I don't want to sell them," she said. Whitpain is near Norristown.

Romance Rental 'Strictly Platonic'

CALGARY (CP) — Hal Schultz is in the romance-for-rent business.

Mr. Schultz operates an escort agency that specializes in one-night dates, not permanent relationships.

For $30, the male or female client gets an escort for the night and then must fork out the cash for the evening's entertainment.

Police officers were a bit wary of the operation when it began in February, Mr. Schultz recounts, but he has nothing to hide. "We wouldn't last five minutes if we were selling anything but companionship."

He says most of the clients are strangers in town who just want someone to talk to.

"We talk or we listen . . . and sometimes we are just a shoulder for a lonely guy to cry on," says Janice, one of 20 women escorts employed at the agency. "They talk about their business problems, or their girl problems and sometimes they trot out the 'my wife doesn't understand me' line, but that's all right. It's their night out and they are paying enough for it."

When Janice meets her date for the night they swap ideas about where to go or what to do, but the client makes the decision.

One night she may dine at the top of the Calgary Tower and dance at the best nightspots in town. The next night she may be at the ballet or a cocktail party for visiting dignitaries.

"I get a kick out of clients who talk about the places they have been because I was born in Calgary and I like to hear about other places.

"I don't do it for the money, because there isn't much money in it and most of the girls have jobs during the day. We do it to get out on the town with a minimum of complications. This way, your date knows the terms of the arrangement—platonic— and you can both relax and enjoy a night out."

CLOCKWATCHER EATS TOO MUCH

TORONTO (CP) — Fat people tend to be clock watchers, says Patricia Pliner, a researcher on obesity.

She says that when the clock says it is meal time, fat people eat. Those of normal weight, on the other hand, respond to normal appetite.

Mrs. Pliner, assistant professor of psychology at the University of Toronto's Erindale College, said "obese people were stimulated by specific times rather than by body mechanisms that denote hunger."

Experiments also indicated those attempting to diet should keep food out of sight.

One study showed the obese, defined as those 15 per cent above ideal body weight, ate more in a well-lighted room than in a dimly-lit one.

Another aspect of Mrs. Pliner's research indicated liquids might make a fat person's appetite more normal.

Dieters should have soup or a hot beverage at the beginning of a meal.

Other diet suggestions for fat people prompted by her research:

—Avoid convenience foods and easy-to-eat items.

—Keep fully occupied with activities and projects.

—Have as a table companion a normal-weight person who has little interest in food.

The last suggestion results from experiments indicating an obese person eats less if a guest has a small appetite.

But no matter how successful a fat person may be at dieting the world seems full of food traps.

"Now we wonder if there isn't a fat mentality," said Mrs. Pliner. "Even though a person loses weight, it seems they still think fat and have to control themselves the rest of their lives."

Drink Law Unbending

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP) — The organizers of the Commonwealth Games here next year have failed in an attempt to get extended drinking hours for the period of the Games.

And they fear that Christchurch will get the reputation of an unfriendly city as a result.

The organizers applied to a royal commission on liquor that is sitting in New Zealand asking for the 10 p.m. closing to be extended to midnight in Christchurch.

But the royal commission declined to do so and the hotels and taverns will be closing as usual — half an hour before the evening sessions at the Games finish.

The royal commisssion said it would be possibly setting an undesirable and dangerous precedent if it allowed Christchurch's liquor outlets to remain open when the rest of the country had to observe normal hours.

Workers Losing Pants To Fashion-Mad Youth

By WAYNE HARDING
Times Staff

The working man is losing his denim pants because of the jean fad among young people, according to spokesmen for the clothing industry.

"A lot of it has to do with the kids wanting all those jeans," said Larry Chiclo of Greater Western Garments, explaining why the traditional blue denim is hard to find in men's working clothes.

The huge demand for jeans and jean jackets — which must be dyed indigo to create the fashionably correct fading after a wash or two has created shortages of the cloth and the dye. As a result manufacturers have turned to other cloths and dyes to make work clothes, he said.

Cottons dyed with other processes don't fade to the chic "off-blue" of indigo, but that does not seem to matter to people wanting work clothes.

Despite the change-over at the manufacturing level however, shortages in work-clothes, such as bib overalls and coveralls, are reported in Vancouver and Victoria.

While manufacturers are obviously pleased with the popularity of what was once a minor clothing specialty, they are now faced with severe shortages of material and with higher prices which will have to be passed onto the consumers.

Monty Greenfield, production manager of Gault Brothers of Vancouver, estimated that jeans now selling for $10 a pair will be at least $14 a pair in the next five months.

He blames poor cotton crops and speculators in the world market for creating the shortages.

In the meantime, "the demand for jeans is going to far exceed the supply for a long time," he predicted.

Men Change Role

TORONTO (CP) — An increasing number of men are employed as day-care workers, nurses, primary school teachers and social workers, a conference discussing the training of visiting homemakers was told.

Suzanne Veit, a Vancouver social worker and social development consultant, said the federal government is unintentionally helping men move into the field of homemaking.

Two government programs—opportunities for youth (OFY) and Local Initiatives—have sponsored homemaker-type projects in which men work.

The four-day conference was told that homemakers in Europe willingly do housework as part of their job but in North America they don't want to.

Brahna Trager, a health service consultant in San Geronomo, Calif., said "more and more we hear of unwillingness to do housework and the devaluation of all household tasks."

There seems to be a cultural attitude toward housework which devalues it, she said. But this is not so in countries like France.

Trager said that in England she saw homemakers get a sense of satisfaction by making someone comfortable.

Pediatrician Gives Warning

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Andre L'Archeveque, vice-president of the Quebec Pediatricians Association, has warned parents against purchasing a toy which produces a balloon when children blow through a tube filled with plastic substance.

L'Archeveque said the toy consists of a tube filled with a plastic substance that is squeezed onto the end of a straw, through which a child blows.

The toy contains certain amounts of acetone and polyvinyl acetate, the same ingredients found in airplane glue, he said.

L'Archeveque said these could produce the same dangerous results as glue fumes when inhaled. The plastic could be mistaken for chewing gum and be chewed or swallowed, resulting in vomiting and serious stomach problems, he said.

Although the toy carries a warning prohibiting its sale to children under age eight, Dr. L'Archeveque said that "it's unlikely that anyone pays attention to that."

JELLY SIDE DOWN

nancy stahl

I find that as I'm growing older all sorts of little things on my body are Going Wrong. I have no drastic affliction; I'm just sort of falling apart by bits and pieces.

My latest complaint is a type of leprous jungle rot sprouting on my palms and between my fingers.

"Yetch!" grimaced my husband in bed last night. "What in heaven's name is THAT?"

"It's the terminal portion of my upper appendages, multi-jointed and manipulative in nature. I call them 'hands' for short."

"But what's that crud all over them?" he persisted.

"I think it's what's known as the heartbreak of psoriasis," I admitted.

"Look, promise me you'll stop believing television commercials and go to see the doctor tomorrow."

The next thing I knew I was staring at a door with the words WELBY, MARCUS, MD, PhD, LS-MFT inscribed on it in gold. As I entered his office, Dr. Welby was busy shaking a feathered rattle and scrutinizing the entrails of a chicken.

"I have this scrofulus grunge on my hands," I explained. He examined me thoroughly through a fluoroscope, microscope and a pair of German field glasses.

"That's scrofulus grunge, all right," he announced. "Don't see it too often on Caucasian females."

"What DO you usually see it on?" I asked.

"Pretty common sight on quarter horses and elm trees."

"What can you do for it?"

"First we'll try cortisone. Then maybe antibiotics and weekly X-ray treatments. If that doesn't work, we'll try burying a chocolate macaroon at midnight. Had pretty good luck with that one once."

At that point, I awoke.

"Remember," my husband admonished. "You're going to the doctor today."

"Tell you what," I replied. "I'll go tomorrow instead. There's a surefire remedy I want to try first. If you haven't finished all the chocolate macaroons."

Beef Roll Dish Worth Repeating

By MARY MOORE

"A while ago you had a recipe called Rouladen . . . Jane K."

"A while ago" was 10 years Jane. Since this is considered a stretcher and a favourite by some of my transplanted, mid-Euopean friends I am repeating it here. It makes one pound of boneless round stretch a long way for four.

ROULADEN
(stuffed Beef Rolls

1 lb. boneless rib or round steak, cut ¼" thick.
4 slices bacon, diced.
¼ c. finely chopped onion.
½ c. finely chopped celery.
4 oz. fresh mushrooms, scrubbed and chopped.
½ c. chopped whole sweet pickle (or green relish, drained).
¼ c. catsup.
1½ c. water.
1 chicken boullion cube.
½ tsp. salt.
4 tbsp. flour.
4 tbsp. water.

Cut steak into four equal rectangular portions. Pound steaks with meat hammer or rolling pin until very thin, about 7x4" each. Fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from drippings; save drippings. Gently saute onion, celery and mushrooms in 2 tablespoons drippings until onion is tender but not brown, about 5 minutes. Add pickle and bacon and mix. Spread equal amounts of mixture over steak pieces. Roll up and tie securely with string. Brown meat rolls in remaining bacon drippings. Mix together catsup, water, bouillon cube and salt and pour over rolls and cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 3 hours, turning rolls several times. OR bake, covered, at 275 deg. Fahr. for 3 hours.

Lift rolls to large hot platter. Snip off string. Mix together flour and remining 4 tablespoons water to a smooth paste. Stir into remainig gravy in pan until thick. Pour over rolls on platter. Have ready hot boiled noodles or fluffy boiled rice and arrange in border around rolls. Garnish with sliced sweet pickles. The gravy is rich and delicious on the rice or noodles.

Very popular.

PROPOSALS SEE LIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Recommendations of the 1970 Royal Commission on the Status of Women are being implemented, says Dr. Katie Cooke.

"Fifty-two of the commission's 167 recommendations have already been implemented," Cooke, chairman of the federal advisory council on the status of women said.

After two days of closed sessions, the council called for the creation of a federal human rights commission and said the council is beginning its own study of such a commission's terms of reference.

The council also recommended that federal and provincial governments take immediate action "to provide for equitable division of assets acquired during a marriage when it is dissolved by divorce or legal separation."

She said the council is shocked by a recent Supreme Court decision rejecting the right of a farm wife to share in the property she had helped her husband acquire.

dear abby

Shower Plans Nixed

DEAR ABBY: I have two daughters who are pregnant and not married. One is 15, and the other is 18. The 15 year old is just entering 10th grade, and I don't want her to marry so young. I think she should finish high school first. The boy is 18, and plans on going to college. I spoke with his mother, and she said after the baby comes, if it looks like her son, MAYBE he will marry my daughter.

The 18 year old is expecting first. Her boy friend said he didn't have any plans for marriage right now because he has five more car payments to make, but when he is free and clear he will pay something toward the baby's support. Meanwhile, he hardly ever comes around anymore, but he's been seen out with other girls. My daughter is so dumb, she thinks he will marry her when he's out of debt.

Now that you have the facts, here is my question: Do you think I should give my daughters baby showers?—Undecided.

DEAR UNDECIDED: It isn't proper for a close member of the family to give showers. They are usually given by friends.

DEAR ABBY: My mother was a young widow with three children when she remarried. Abby, not all men can accept stepchildren as their own. My stepfather has been good to me (the only girl) but he's been awfully hard on the boys. One ran away years ago, but the other is sticking it out until he finishes school. Mom and I have always tried to give the boys lots of love to make up for the lack of fatherly love.

However, Mom is now destroying the child she's trying to protect. He can't get up in the morning himself, so she wakes him four or five times and has breakfast waiting for him. She drives him to and from work, otherwise he'd be late. He's refinanced when he overspends, and Mom runs all his errands — the latest being payment of a traffic ticket. (He didn't even say "thank you.")

I am seven years older than this brother, self-supporting, and live in the same town. I would like to see the kid allowed to mature. I know he would, if Mom would only let him. Watching her wait on him constantly infuriates my stepfather. If I say anything to Mom, she says I'm jealous. I don't think I am. I am only concerned because the boy will be 20 next month and he's incredibly immature and irresponsible. I'd do anything to get my mother off his neck. Should I talk to a friend she respects? We have no clergyman. — Big Sister.

DEAR SIS: Yes! If the friend makes as much sense as you do.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and her husband have a French poodle they call "Zsa Zsa." They have no children, but they treat this dog just like a child. Zsa Zsa eats at the same table with them, and they even had a furrier make her a mink coat and bow to match.

They take Zsa Zsa everywhere with them. (If a place doesn't allow dogs, they won't go there.)

Abby, they even SPELL in front of this dog because they insist she is so smart she "understands" every word they say.

Well, I just had a baby girl. We named her Karen Sue, and the last straw was their sending a baby gift with a card saying: "With love to my COUSIN, Karen Sue, from Zsa Zsa."

Just imagine, putting our child in the same class with their dog! Are they sick, or what? Sick of Zsa Zsa.

DEAR SICK: No. As a former poodle owner, I can understand their feelings. Don't judge them too harshly. Some poodles are almost human.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR

There is no need to put on weight once you have stopped smoking.

The 8-page folder "You, the ex-smoker and food" helps you win the battle of the bulge. It suggests you get used to smaller servings and choose the right foods. It also warns about the calories that sneak into your body unnoticed. The worst culprits are alcoholic drinks and sweetened beverages.

The folder also explains that the perfect complement of a sensible diet is moderate exercise. This will not only burn up those extra calories, it will also reduce nervous tension.

The folder contains a fascinating table which lists the number of minutes required to "wear off" certain foods. For instance, the average milkshake has 400 calories. This will be burnt up in 120 minutes of bowling, 80 minutes of mopping the floor, 77 minutes of walking, 49 minutes of cycling, 36 minutes of swimming and 21 minutes of running.

On the other hand a snack like a medium-sized dill pickle has only 10 calories. These can be burnt up in two minutes of bowling, ironing, mopping or walking, or in one minute of cycling, swimming or running.

But don't worry too much about your girth, a few extra pounds are less of a health hazard than smoking!

Sagging Birthrates Tighten Abortion Laws

VIENNA (Reuter) — Soviet-bloc states in southeast Europe are tightening once liberal aborition laws to halt declining birth rates and offering financial incentives to persuade couples to produce more children.

Abortion is one of the most frequently performed operations in this region, but authorities now are worried that this might lead to economic disaster.

Communist media warn that over-all population figures may begin to shrink unless present trends are reversed. East-bloc governments also clearly fear economic progress could be seriously impeded by "an aging society."

East European couples, attacked for attaching more importance to a car than a child, are urged to think in terms of two to three children or more and forgo the material luxuries enjoyed by smaller family groups.

As compensation, governments are increasing family allowances and payments made to mothers forced to give up regular work during pregnancy and the post-natal period.

But there is also widespread concern over the health dangers caused by aborition.

Bulgarian health authorities have released a statistical survey which shows between 25 to 30 per cent of woman undergoing the operation suffered damage to their health.

In many cases, they said, this meant the women's ability to have children was impaired.

Abortion laws in Bulgaria have a liberal tradition and women could in the past practically decide the question for themselves. But now the situation has changed.

Women form an important power base in Bulgaria where about one-fifth of the national parliament is female. They also provide a sizable percentage of the skilled work force.

Staunch opposition from these quarters was reported to have helped quash even stiffer restrictions on abortion laws.

Women with no children or just one child now are forbidden to interrupt pregnancy Exceptions are made for girls under 18, women over 45 and in cases of grave illness, rape or incest.

Abortion is allowed for women with two or more children, but only if the pregnancy is less than 10 weeks advanced.

Last year there were an estimated 120,000 abortions "on demand," which contributed to a significant reduction in the national birth rate. Between 1969 and 1972, the rate dropped from 17 to 15.4 per thousand people.

Statisticians calculate that when it dips to around 12 the population level is stagnant with deaths cancelling out births.

WHILE SOME of the 5,000 Ugandan refugees who came to Canada a year ago are having trouble getting jobs where they can use their specialized skills, many are successful in their new homeland. One is Mahendra Purohit who says he has found satisfaction in his job with a Montreal pharmaceutical firm.

Healthy Hearts Form in Youth

By JANE BRODY

NEW YORK (NYT) — The State of Arizona is now working with 10,000 families of preschool children in an effort to prevent heart disease when it really starts—in early childhood. The program, which focuses on diet, exercise, blood pressure, obesity and cigarette smoking, will be expanded to 13,000 additional families next year, at a cost of $10 to $13 a family.

The program, described here to a recent symposium on childhood obesity, is based on a cardiovascular intervention study that Dr. Glenn Friedman and his collegues established in their private pediatric practice in Scottsdale, Ariz., three years ago.

Friedman's prescription includes a reduction in the amount of protein foods consumed each day to the level recommended by the National Academy of Sciences (the average North American currently consumes twice the recommended daily allowance for protein). Friedman emphasizes a decrease in animal proteins, since all of these are high in cholesterol and saturated fats, the substances that promote atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries.

The pediatrician also encourages families to pry themselves and their children away from the television set and instead spend the time exercising. He favors activities like bicycle riding and swimming that can be enjoyed by the whole family and by the child for the rest of his life.

Although there is no established proof that such a program will have the desired effect of preventing premature death and disability from heart and blood vessel diseases, doctors participating in the symposium, sponsored by Columbia University's Institute of Human Nutrition, agreed that the program could do no harm and could well do a great deal of good.

Friedman told the more than 1,000 physicians and dieticians attending the symposium that cardiovascular disease, which kills more than one million North Americans a year—25 per cent of them before the age of 65—is like "an iceberg."

"The disease process and risk factors have their inception in the pediatric age group where there is presently no significant screening or intervention," he noted. "It is only when the problem emerges from the sea with the onset of a coronary or a stroke that we seem to get concerned. By then, it is too late."

Charles Glueck, a director of clinical research at the University of Cincinnati, remarked that "since this country is facing an extraordinary episode of heart disease, we need to face approaches to this problem, and one approach is in the diet of children."

Glueck said that the average baby consumes 400 to 500 milligrams of cholesterol a day—nearly twice the amount that the American Heart Association recommends for adults.

Friedman summarized current prospects for the North American infant, "There is a 50 per cent chance or greater of him developing an increased blood cholesterol, a greater than 30 per cent chance he will smoke a 10 to 20 per cent chance of, being obese, and perhaps a 45 per cent chance that he will become sedentary" — all of which gives him a better than 50 per cent chance of developing a coronary or stroke.

Noting that living patterns are established in childhood and that "the family lives together, eats together, exercises together and perhaps even smokes together," Friedman concluded that a family-oriented prevention program is needed. He said that the 3,400 families his group has been following in Scottsdale, a middle-class community near Phoenix, has shown that parents are willing and able to follow his prescriptions.

Periodically, the children's and the parents' cholesterol levels and blood pressure are checked the parents are questioned about smoking patterns and the children's exercise tolerance is tested on a stationary bicycle. Parents are told the results of all the tests as a means of reinforcing their efforts.

Girls Given Train Pitch

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The feminist movement claimed a small victory today when a television campaign was launched to sell Lionel trains to girls.

Mike Alber of David Alber Associates advertising agency, handling the campaign, said it is the first time in the 73-year history of the firm that a pitch is being made to girls.

"HAIRY" QUESTIONS I'M ASKED

Q. Barber Syrt, why must hair be pre-shampooed before styling?

A. For two reasons: 1) Because clean hair shows its true nature. No problems are hidden by dressings or otherwise. 2) It is hopeless trying to give a fine finish with the razor when the hair is not thoroughly clean.

Learn what Barbie's® special world means to your daughter

Barbie®, the world's most famous doll, means something special to each little girl. Here are some hints on how to make your daughter's play experience with Barbie® even more special.

Barbie® and her friends are especially appealing to little girls from age 4 to 10, and they will invent as many different "Barbie® Worlds" to play in as there are facets to a child's imagination.

Parents — mothers in particular — may want to personalize their child's play experience by casually suggesting, "Why not invite Barbie® and her friends to Uncle Joe's cottage?" or "Have you taken Barbie® to the zoo, like Daddy took you?"

Relating her real world to her play world will expand your little girl's imagination — and, equally important, add to her fun!

BARBIE'S® FRIEND SHIP
An airplane that opens out almost 5' long, to fly all the people in Barbie's® world to whatever adventures your daughter dreams up. Comes with mobile serving cart, 10 serving accessories, stewardess smock, 2 cupboards with swinging doors, cabin door that opens and closes, closet with hanger rack, sturdy lounge, game table and seats. And the whole plane with all its accessories folds into a handy, durable 14" flight bag. Dolls not included.

QUICK CURL™ DOLLS
These little ladies have magic hair that your daughter can curl into her favourite styles easily and with no setting, wetting or waiting. And it's easy to change from one style to another. Quick Curl™ Barbie®, Kelley™, Francie® and Skipper® come dressed in beautiful gowns, have twistable waists, bendable legs and posable arms. Dolls come individually, with brush, comb, curler, 4 ribbons, rubberbands, bobby pins and Barbie® booklet.

MOD HAIR™ KEN®
Your little girl can change Ken's® look again and again, add a beard or sideburns or moustache. Ken® is 12" tall, has bendable legs and posable arms and comes with his own "Mod" outfit.

THE BARBIE® COMMUNITY
Barbie® and her friends—and the interaction which their play situations suggest—teach children basic social skills, as well as individual skills such as grooming and fashion coordination.

BARBIE® GOIN' CAMPING™ SET
Barbie® and her friends use this breezy buggy and its sturdy tent-trailer for weekends in the wilds. The set comes with sleeping bag, camp stool, campfire with grill, picnic table, 2 cooking pots, supper dishes, frying pan, coffee pot, decals, antenna, pennants. Dolls not included.

COUNTRY LIVING™ HOME
An away-from-it-all cottage that is designed to suggest dozens of play situations. This big, 3-room rustic doll house has doors that open and close and molded furniture for bedroom, kitchen and living room. Realistic detailing inside and out. Closes neatly into a strong, vinyl carrying case.
Dolls not included.

THE BARBIE®-AGE GIRL
The Barbie®-age is one of fantasy-play where putting groups of toys into fairly complex group situations becomes more important than fixation on any one toy. At this age, a child may resent heavy-handed adult intrusion into her play world, but will often welcome gentle suggestions on how to expand her play activity.

BARBIE® COUNTRY CAMPER® AND SUN SET® DOLLS
Barbie's® Country Camper® is a favourite with the 5 sunny, tanned personalities who use it on their surf and sand expeditions. Camper has pop-out tent, slideout door, working steering wheel, front windshield that opens, tent, fold-out table, 2 camp chairs, 2 sleeping bags, luggage rack, customizing decals. Dolls sold separately.

BARBIE® CAMP-OUT TENT
Your daughter can take Barbie® and her friends "roughing it" in style in this sturdy vinyl tent. Kit includes 2 sleeping bags, 2 camp stools, picnic table, bar-b-cue and 6 cooking utensils. Dolls not included.

Last-Ditch Accord Keeps Edmonton Buses Rolling

EDMONTON (CP) — Agreement was reached early today only hours after picket lines were set up by electricians and other Edmonton Power employees in a dispute that had threatened to halt public transportation.

The electrical workers who man city power stations and the non-tradesmen returned to their jobs and the picket lines were disbanded. Public transportation service was not affected.

Details of the agreement reached with the more than 600 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers were not released. The workers are scheduled to vote on it Friday.

The union members, who include electricians, meter readers and water plant operators, had planned to set up picket lines at all facilities where they work. These include garages of the Edmonton Transit System and its bus drivers had agreed not to cross picket lines.

The transit drivers have their own contract dispute with the city and have voted in favor of a strike. A union spokesman however, said his group wants to keep negotiating and for the present, the buses will continue rolling.

The transit drivers have rejected a city wage offer of just over $5 an hour and are seeking $5.68.

Outlook: Favorable

EDMONTON (CP) — Exceptional growth in Alberta's economy during 1972 sustained expansion in 1973 and should result in even greater gains next year, the industry and commerce department says in a mid-year forecast.

The favorable outlook for the remainder of 1973 and to the end of 1974 is the result of expansion of production capacity, resource development and employment growth, the department's economic research and analysis branch says in the 58-page document.

WCB Called Unfair

CALGARY (CP) — Bill Broad, president of the Civil Service Association of Alberta, said Wednesday the Workmen's Compensation Board of Alberta has by "unfair practices" obstructed the CSA's attempts to organize employees of the board.

He said the board announced pay increases of 8.5 per cent for 1974 for the board's employees while the CSA was on the verge of organizing them.

Opportunity Seen

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta has an immediate chance to move to the forefront of the international petrochemical industry, the Canadian Society for Chemical Engineers was told Wednesday.

But continued exports of ethane-rich natural gas could kill the possibility of establishing an important secondary processing and manufacturing industry in the province, said Harold Page, former vice-president of Great Canadian Oil Sands and now president of Hydrocarb Consultants Ltd.

Page said Alberta has a major opportunity to capitalize on the world situation by setting up an ethane-based petrochemical industry of "global proportions."

Rural MDs Supported

SASKATOON (CP) — The government will spend $385,000 in a year to keep doctors in rural Saskatchewan, Health Minister Walter Smishek said Wednesday.

He told the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Hospital Administrators' Association that the sum has been budgeted for a new bursary and incentive program for physicians in rural Saskatchewan.

The program would be increased to $460,000 next year. Smishek said 580 doctors were graduated in Saskatchewan, but only slightly more than 100 are still practising in the province.

Study Set Of Banff

CALGARY (CP) — The future of the town of Banff will be the subject of a study to be carried out by officials of the Banff Advisory Council and Parks Canada representatives, Parks Canada announced Wednesday.

The study is aimed at developing a system of administration for the town that will satisfy both the needs of the national park and the wishes of residents to have more say in the town's administration.

Land leases and land rental systems will be examined and the study will indentify alternative systems of townsite financing and administration, a Parks Canada spokesman said.

The study team will make its final report and recommendations by April 30, 1974.

Jail Scene Chaos, Probe Shows

CALGARY (CP) — A depressing picture of overcrowding, poor staff morale, drug abuse and confrontation at Calgary's Spy Hill jail was painted during the 17-day Harradence commission hearing into alleged guard brutality at the correctional institute.

The inquiry was prompted by allegations that guards had beaten prisoners on four separate occasions during the summer of 1973. But as it progressed, the conditions that might have led to the staff-prisoner confrontations were brought out.

Testimony from the guards, prisoners and other prison officials indicated the jail was understaffed, guards were inadequately paid and educated, prison regulations were ill-defined, there was overcrowding and a drug problem had spread.

Charles Broughton, a senior prison guard, said the staff shortage has caused many officers to book off sick, creating double duty and work on their days off for other officers.

The transferring of guards from one prison wing to another, partly due to the staff shortage, does not permit them to get acquainted with the prisoners, he said.

"There is no real set of rules . . . sometimes you don't know what to tell an inmate because you don't know whether a particular rule is in effect."

He said the three-week training course for corrections officers is inadequate.

Training in unarmed combat and use of gas would "give officers more confidence in themselves and result in less violence."

Gary Spooner, a former prisoner, confirmed Broughton's observation that there was little communication between staff and prisoner.

"If they (prisoners) want something, they have to strike — nobody listens otherwise," he said. "If I wanted a day pass, I would have to rat on somebody or talk nice to certain senior jail staff."

Dr. Theodore Winston, the institute's medical officer, agreed that conditions at the jail were having a bad effect on both the prisoners and staff.

Many jail staff members suffer from depression and nervous tension due to the working conditions at the jail and its physical layout. Improved pay, working conditions and job security would remedy the situation.

The province must become involved in corrections and rehabilitation as the present institutes were intended only to keep people behind bars, he said.

"Society can't expect men to learn how to support their families and live normal lives if this is the way they are to be kept."

The present poor situation at the jail could be traced back to the relatively recent influx of drug addicts, he said.

B.C. 'Feared Mafia Control'

EDMONTON (CP) — The former president of Cosmopolitan Life Assurance Co., Albert Jaasma of Vancouver, testified Wednesday that the British Columbia Securities Commission withdrew approval of a stock purchase in 1970 because "government officials were afraid the Mafia would take control," of a B.C. firm.

Jaasma made the comment during the third day of a public inquiry into the failure of Cosmopolitan and its parent company, P.A.P. Holdings Ltd.

The inquiry was called by the provincial attorney-general after shareholders' representatives alleged a $5-million stock swindle affecting 33,000 Western Canadian shareholders.

Jaasma said B.C. government officials were concerned about possible Mafia involvement in North West Life Financial Corp. However he gave no evidence for the claim.

The Mafia was mentioned after H. M. Liknaitzky, a government-appointed liquidator for Cosmopolitan, asked Jaasma why he had said earlier that the Alberta and B.C. securities commissions were responsible for the companies' failure.

Jaasma said the P.A.P., which he founded in 1962, bought 204,000 escrow shares in Columbia Beneficial Holdings Ltd., in 1970, and that the purchase was initially approved by the B.C. Securities Commission.

But Jaasma said, Columbia refused to transfer the stock to P.A.P. and instead transferred the stock to North West Life.

The commission's approval of P.A.P.'s purchase was subsequently withdrawn and the company lost money it had invested, said Jaasma,. He said P.A.P. applied for an injunctiin against Columbia, but was refused.

After Jaasma mentioned the mafia, District Court Judge Kerans, who is presiding over the inquiry, directed Jaasma to return to the original question asked by Liknaitzky.

The president of North West Financial, Peter Ropchan, was scheduled to appear before the inquiry today.

At the beginning of Wednesday's 2½-hour session, Edward Duncan, an Edmonton lawyer appointed by the crown to represent shareholders, said Jaasma objected to being cross-examined by Liknaitzky.

Duncan said Liknaitzky worked for McDonald Currie and Co., which was appointed liquidator for Cosmopolitan by the Alberta Supreme Court in 1972.

But McDonald Currie also had been auditor for P.A.P. and Cosmopolitan for two years, and could have "special knowledge" which would prejudice the inquiry, said Duncan.

Judge Kerans said his job was not to decide on the fitness of the liquidator and while "Mr. Liknaitzky might be armed with informatioin which would embarrass Mr. Jaasma ... so long as his questions are relevant, I won't keep his questions from being asked."

ALASKA JOB HUNTERS DRAWING A BLANK

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska oil rush is on but workers heading north to prospect for jobs may well end up panning for their fortune on the unemployment line.

Alaska, which had its last large influx of fortune hunters in a turn-of-the-century gold rush, is bracing for another immigration of job seekers for the trans-Alaska oil pipeline project. But this time it's different.

Alaska already has a high unemployment rate, and able-bodies natives are on the scene ready to work.

About 13,000 persons will be employed on the pipeline a the height of construction in 1975-76, says public relations chief Robert Miller of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. The firm will build the pipeline through contractors.

"Only 450 of those will remain in Alaska on a permanent basis after the pipeline is completed," Miller said, "100 in Anchorage, 100 in Fairbanks, 150 at the tankers' terminal in Valdez and 100 strung along the route."

Miller said the spinoff for related services will add an additional 10,000 jobs for a total work force of 20,000 to 25,000 jobs.

"Alaska already has a near-10-per-cent unemployment rate," said employment centre manager Arthur Zillig. "The state could fill up to 15,000 of those jobs at the drop of a hat."

Alyeska is negotiating with the Alaska Federation of Natives to hire at least 2,200 and perhaps 3,000 Indians for the project. "The state could provide all the workers needed," Miller reported.

State officials and Alyeska are worried. Health and social services officers say 300 new persons are arriving in the state monthly, looking for jobs and applying for welfare.

Frederick McGinnis, commissioner of the department of social services, said 220 persons have applied for food stamps in Anchorage in the last six weeks, all of them out-of-state arrivals seeking pipeline or pipeline-related jobs.

One day recently a string of 70 applicants began arriving at his office at 2 a.m. in frigid temperatures in an effort to be one of the 20 to 25 cases the office can process each day.

Miller said his office in Anchorage is averaging 50 letters and 30 long-distance phone calls a day inquiring about pipeline jobs, "and our Houston, Tex., Bellevue, Wash., Washington, D.C., and Fairbanks offices are taking the same load."

Sharp Honors Russian War Dead, Meets Ukrainian Premier

KIEV, U.S.S.R. (CP) — In bright, frigid sunlight, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp placed a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier on a high hill overlooking the Dneiper River here today.

After the wreath-placing, which followed a one-hour meeting with Ukrainian Premier A. P. Lyashko, Sharp visited an ancient monastery and a museum before flying to Leningrad in northern Russia.

Sharp's spokesman said the minister did not raise the issue of Soviet treatment of Ukrainian nationalists in the meeting with Lyashko, or the prospect of continued emigration of Ukrainian families to join relatives in Canada.

Instead, most of the session involved a description by Lyashko of the Ukrainian economy — its heavy industry and grain and sugarbeet production.

Sharp mentioned he had many boyhood Ukrainian friends when he lived in Winnipeg.

Sharp flew here Wednesday night from the Black Sea resort of Pitsunda, after a full day with Premier Alexei Kosygin described by an official as "200 per cent better than expected."

Instead of the anticipated courtesy call, Sharp had a two-hour discussion of Soviet-Canadian economic relations with Kosygin.

Then he spent another three hours toasting, joking and laughing with Kosygin at an afternoon dinner held by the premier of Georgia.

Price Freeze Seen Causing Beef Rise

SASKATOON (CP) — Charles Leask, director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool livestock division, says that within a year consumers will be paying higher prices for beef than they would have if a price freeze had not been imposed.

He said in an interview that the American government's intervention in freezing the price of meat last March will be partly to blame for the future boost in prices.

He said the freeze probably was the greatest factor in beef price fluctuations during the summer and fall. He said feeder cattle had gone out of the industry, prices were depressed, production has been cut back, and confidence in the beef industry has been impaired.

Leask said the eventual result would be higher prices, unless the government steps in on behalf of the consumer.

He also said the consumer is going to be the loser in the long-term because of the short-term break from higher prices.

'WRITE-IN' SEMINAR SET

Some 25 Greater Victoria high school students, armed with their attempts at creative writing, will attend a "write-in" seminar sponsored by University of Victoria's creative writing department Saturday.

Department head Robin Skelton said lectures and discussion are planned to continue all day.

"Students may be terrible writers at this age," said Skelton, "but their interest should be rewarded."

Scheduled to start at 10 a.m. in Room 167 of the Elliot Building, the seminar will include a lecture by Skelton on the business of writing, inspiration and techniques and an afternoon lecture by Lawrence Russell, also of the creative writing department.

Poetry readings and a series of short films are scheduled for the evening.

Supreme Challenge Is Southwest Face

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Mount Everest has become a battleground again, pitting frail men against the harshest mountain environment on earth.

Seven expeditions have been booked for Everest by Nepalese authorities through 1978.

The world's highest point, at 29,028 feet, has been reached at least seven times since 1953.

Even climbing the "ordinary route" pioneered by Sir Edmund Hillary still is considered an alluring mountaineering goal.

But the supreme challenge of big Himalayan expeditions now is the direct ascent of the 7,000-foot Southwest Face of Everest.

Since 1970, five major attempts have failed in the face of bitter cold, hurricane-force winds sweeping the upper slopes of the Himalyan giant and the agony of difficult rock climbing in the thin air.

The latest rebuff came late last month when a well-organized Japanese expedition was turned back at an elevation of 27,486 feet—1,542 feet from the summit of the world.

The same expedition earlier became the first to climb Everest by the South Col route in the fall season. An Italian expedition succeeded by the regular route last spring.

But on the Southwest Face, the climbers were stymied each time by a rock band 500 to 800 feet high barring the way to the final summit.

After the failure of a British expedition a year ago, leader Chris Bonington wrote, "We had been beaten by a combination of high winds and extreme cold. I had never before experienced such a combination of savage wind and intense cold over a sustained period."

Bonington is a veteran of some of the most difficult climbs in the Alps and Himalayas.

Everest climbers spend weeks adjusting their bodies to the altitude but still must use oxygen in limited quantities for climbing and sleeping as they approach the summit.

The only other route up Everest is the West Ridge line established by the American Mt. Everest expedition a decade ago.

It has not been repeated.

The upcoming expeditions include two teams from France, one from Spain, New Zealand, Austria and Canada and a women's expedition from Japan.

None is from the United States which has fielded an Everest expedition just one, in 1963.

"This queue is a tribute to the never-ending fascination of Everest," bonington said.

Gun Show On Sunday At Empress

The unifications of Canadian Armed forces has increased the popularity of Second World War firearms among gun collectors, a Vancouver Island Arms Collectors' Association spokesman said Wednesday.

"People are trying to hang on to little bits of memories before unification crushed all the tradition," said Jim Goguen.

Some 85 tables of firearms, swords, military badges and uniforms will be displayed at the 11th annual Gun Show sponsored by the association at the Empress Saturday from noon until 10 p.m. and from 9 until 5 Sunday.

The show staged in the Crystal Ballroom will also feature collectors' items from the U.S. and across Canada.

Canadian Jets May Fly Globe

OTTAWA (CP) — A new international air policy that would open the door to round-the-world trips on Canadian airlines will likely be submitted to cabinet soon.

Announcement of the new policy should clear the way for negotiations with other countries on new air routes.

The proposed air statement would make it possible for CP Air and Air Canada, the two Canadian international airlines, to operate round the world for the first time, sources say. Neither airline is able to do so under the current policy introduced in 1965.

Transport Minister Jean Marchand said in an interview that the proposed statement is "more comprehensive" than the existing one. New areas of the world would be allocated to the two airlines.

Mr. Marchand reiterated that he would like to see Air Canada remain the dominant Canadian airline internationally as it is domestically. But it would be up to his cabinet colleagues to decide.

The government announced its overseas air policy in June, 1965, dividing the world into areas which were handed out to CP Air and Air Canada.

CP Air was given the Pacific region, Asia, Australia and New Zealand, southern and southeastern Europe and Latin America. Air Canada was assigned the United Kingdom, western, northern and eastern Europe and the Caribbean.

The only exception was the CP Air route to Amsterdam. This remained in CP Air hands though it was in Air Canada territory.

Africa was left untouched but it is likely to be parcelled out this time to allow the airlines to travel round the world.

The United States has been considered a separate case, the only country receiving both Canadian airlines. Discussions are under way aimed at reaching a new air agreement with the U.S.

The federal government has concluded new air agreements with Germany, Italy and China in the last two years. And other countries such as Spain, the Netherlands, Lebanon, Switzerland and Yugoslavia are waiting to discuss new routes.

The review has held up announcement of the airline that will be awarded the new route to Milan, Italy. The agreement with Italy was reached about 18 months ago but no carrier has yet been assigned the route.

Fighting Fierce In Mekong

SAIGON (UPI) — Government militiamen battled Communist forces in the Mekong Delta in the second day of fierce fighting for control of the region's fall rice harvest, the Saigon military command reported today.

In Cambodia, rebel gunners fired a salvo of mortar rounds into the besieged provincial capital of Takeo, 40 miles south of Phnom Penh.

The South Vietnamese command said government militiamen killed 11 Communists Wednesday in Mekong Delta clashes near the town of Tieu Can, 68 miles southwest of Saigon.

A command spokesman said one militiaman was wounded and one was missing in the harvest season fighting in the delta, the rice bowl of South Vietnam. A total of 75 Communists and 17 government soldiers were reported slain in delta fighting the day before.

The command also reported more fighting Wednesday in the two and one-half week battle for control of the southern central highlands.

ARCTIC 'LANDLORDS' VOW TO STAY

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The Indians, Eskimos and Lapps of the entire Arctic region outside the Soviet Union sat down together today to demonstrate unity in efforts to gain a bigger say over their own lands, resources and affairs.

Opening a four-day Arctic people's conference, James Wah-shee, president of Canada's Indian Brotherhood of the Northwest Territories, told 30 delegates from Canada, Greenland, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark that time has come for "the landlords of the Arctic area" to join forces and decide how to handle "our tenants."

Wah-shee warned that the worldwide energy crisis has added to the urgency of consultations among the natives of the Arctic region.

"The sudden scramble for new resources poses a clear threat to our lifestyle," he said.

Listening to the opening address were Canadian Indians and Eskimos, Greenland Eskimos and Lapps from Sweden, Norway and Finland.

Missing were representatives of Alaska who had to stay home because of negotiations on land claims, conference spokesmen said.

The Indians, Eskimos and Lapps are to define their own identities, and then compare notes on political activities in their respective areas, discuss successes and failures in opposing exploitation of Arctic resources and efforts to claim ownership of their land and its resources.

"I would like to think that this conference is but the beginning of a future of co-operation and unity," Wah-shee, the conference president, said in his opening address.

He said the objective of all Arctic people must be to secure legal and financial means that will enable them to control their own destiny—by settling land claims and winning recognition of their right to a say in extraction of natural resources.

"We have been in the Arctic for thousands of years despite the threat from outsiders, even despite cultural destruction and genocide," Wah-shee said. "We intend to remain here for thousands of years to come."

U.S. Air Fare Up 5%

WASHINGTON (WP) — U.S. airlines can increase their domestic air fares by five per cent on Dec. 1, a three-man Civil Aeronautics Board ruled unanimously Wednesday.

The C.A.B. approved the fare boost on the basis of airline contentions that their costs have significantly outpaced revenues in the last year.

The board said it saw "little likelihood" that recent airline flight cutbacks made as a result of the fuel crisis and increased numbers of passengers per flight would, together with the fare increase, "result in excessive profits for the industry."

While the C.A.B. conceded "load factors will almost certainly rise materially, creating at least a short-run impetus toward improved profitability," the "uncertainty" of the impact of the fuel shortage on the airlines in the next few months made it "premature" to investigate its effect on airline profits.

(Airlines have cut back about 500 of approximately 14,000 daily flights in recent weeks because of fuel shortages.)

Two Rescued Off Deadman I.

TOFINO — Two persons were rescued by the Tofino lifeboat Tuesday after their 38-foot fishing boat, Clipper, hit a rock and sank off Deadman Island.

Robert Adams of Ahousat and an unidentified companion were picked up from a dinghy they used after their boat sank.

Gas Guzzlers Replaced

WASHINGTON (WP) — Bad news for Detroit's gasoline guzzlers.

Uncle Sam, the major cash buyer of cars plans to replace most of the sedans and 10-mile-per gallon dreadnaughts in the federal fleet with 4 and 6 cylinder compacts which cost less and run cheaper.

The strategy calls for relatively rapid replacement of government automobile, with 8 of every 10 new cars purchased being of the compact variety.

General services administration (GSA), which manages 68,000 cars used by and assigned to other non-defence federal agencies, has advertised for bids on 4,518 compacts as replacements over the next year for larger older model cars.

The defence department, which has even more cars and small trucks, also will be buying and leasing a larger proportion of cars although a ration has not yet been worked out.

Limousine-type vehicles will become more scarce in federal motor pools, but there will still be enough to squire around VIPs.

In past years the government has generally bought massive lots of cars, picking them generally from among the best bulk-price offers it gets.

In some cases auto manufacturers managed to unload huge quanities of vehicles that weren't doing so well in sales to the general public.

If the government sticks to its new program, the fuel economy of vehicles will become as important to buyers as the bulk price of cars.

The question is, will the government be able to carry out its "buy small" program, part of the president's overall plan to preserve dwindling gasoline supplies?

Federal operations such as FSA and the Pctagon will come under heavy pressure from car manufacturers who have heavy investments in production equipment used to crank out big cars. With the public demand for compacts growing, manufacturers could be faced with relatively large stockpiles of big cars which nobody wants.

Congressmen from auto manufacturing areas are already hearing from their corporate constitutents, and union leaders, who fear the government shift to smaller cars will hurt or cripple business.

Policeman Wounded

SEATTLE (AP) — One man was killed and an off-duty Seattle police detective received minor wounds during an exchange of shots in a parking lot Tuesday evening.

Police Det. David T. Smith was taken to a hospital for treatment of superficial wounds in his left hand and left side.

Police said a third person was arrested at the scene and booked on suspicion of assault.

Two Rescued Off Deadman I.

TOFINO — Two persons were rescued by the Tofino lifeboat Tuesday after their 38-foot fishing boat, Clipper, hit a rock and sank off Deadman Island.

Robert Adams of Ahousat and an unidentified companion were picked up from a dinghy they used after their boat sank.

Gas Guzzlers Replaced

WASHINGTON (WP) — Bad news for Detroit's gasoline guzzlers.

Uncle Sam, the major cash buyer of cars plans to replace most of the sedans and 10-mile-per gallon dreadnaughts in the federal fleet with 4 and 6 cylinder compacts which cost less and run cheaper.

The strategy calls for relatively rapid replacement of government automobile, with 8 of every 10 new cars purchased being of the compact variety.

General services administration (GSA), which manages 68,000 cars used by and assigned to other non-defence federal agencies, has advertised for bids on 4,518 compacts as replacements over the next year for larger older model cars.

The defence department, which has even more cars and small trucks, also will be buying and leasing a larger proportion of cars although a ration has not yet been worked out.

Limousine-type vehicles will become more scarce in federal motor pools, but there will still be enough to squire around VIPs.

In past years the government has generally bought massive lots of cars, picking them generally from among the best bulk-price offers it gets.

In some cases auto manufacturers managed to unload huge quanities of vehicles that weren't doing so well in sales to the general public.

If the government sticks to its new program, the fuel economy of vehicles will become as important to buyers as the bulk price of cars.

The question is, will the government be able to carry out its "buy small" program, part of the president's overall plan to preserve dwindling gasoline supplies?

Federal operations such as FSA and the Petagon will come under heavy pressure from car manufacturers who have heavy investments in production equipment used to crank out big cars. With the public demand for compacts growing, manufacturers could be faced with relatively large stockpiles of big cars which nobody wants.

Congressmen from auto manufacturing areas are already hearing from their corporate constitutents, and union leaders, who fear the government shift to smaller cars will hurt or cripple business.

Policeman Wounded

SEATTLE (AP) — One man was killed and an off-duty Seattle police detective received minor wounds during an exchange of shots in a parking lot Tuesday evening.

Police Det. David T. Smith was taken to a hospital for treatment of superficial wounds in his left hand and left side.

Police said a third person was arrested at the scene and booked on suspicion of assault.

'LOVE' TALK FRIDAY

Premier Dave Barrett embarks today on a curious mission to Quebec, where he will meet with Rene Levesque and attempt to convert the Parti Quebecois leader to the cause of democratic socialism.

The premier is to sit down Friday in Montreal with Levesque and try to woo him from his commitment to separatism and have him join the New Democratic Party.

When he first announced his intention earlier this month to meet with Levesque, Barrett said the only difference between the NDP and PQ is language and "language never stopped people from making love.

"I say, let's make love politically."

But it seems doubtful that the first date between the two leaders will be very productive as Levesque has made it perfectly clear that although he likes the B.C. premier he is not about to abandon the cause of separatism for him.

Barrett was cautious when asked what results he expected from the meeting. "What kind of concrete results can you expect out of an initial meeting between politicians?"

However, he said he hoped the meeting would produce something positive and added that by making the overtures to Levesque he felt he had made an "open effort for Canada's future."

Tax Spending 'Horrors' Related

CALGARY (CP) — Canadians are rapidly losing control of the public purse in one of the most grossly overgoverned countries in the world, a former auditor-general of Canada said Wednesday.

Maxwell Henderson, speaking to the Mens' and Womens' Canadian clubs, related a "tale of horrors" about inefficient government spending.

During his term as auditor-general from 1960-1973, Henderson said government spending increased to more than $20 billion from $5.7 billion.

"I have noticed a trend towards serious erosion of parliamentary control of government spending. More and more governments are tending to circumvent Parliament in spending public money."

Since 1968 there have been "strenuous efforts" by the Liberal government to handicap the work of the auditor-general, re said.

"I consider this an insult to Canadian electorate."

Unless Canadians stir out of their apathy there will never be any change, he said.

"The government's policy is to hope that whatever publicity we give to cases of mismanagement will just go away.

"I have been accused of trespassing into government policy, but my function is to comment on the financial consequence of policies, to point out errors so, hopefully, they can be corrected."

Rather than muzzle the department, he said, the government has chosen to ignore its reports.

"If the government is unable to reply to criticisms, it is not the fault of the department."

Two reports are "still awaiting" the attention of the public accounts committee, he said. One documents 118 cases where $22 million has been spent on projects of no value and the other is a draft act which would maake the auditor-general free and independent of the government.

The major method used to weaken parliamentary control over the purse is to put aside money in a kitty, he said.

"As of March 31, 1972, there was $280 million set aside for future spending.

"There were appropriations during the 1971-72 fiscal year."

A contingency fund, used in the past for such things a purchasing royal wedding presents, "today is used to pay retroactive salary adjustments to civil servants, he said. In 1971-72, there was more than $37 million in the fund which should have lapsed into the general revenue fund, but instead remained available to the government.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has been advanced more than $175 million for the purchase of the capital equipment, he said. The government then had to advance them more money to service the debt.

Reporter Chosen New Barrett Aide

Peter McNelly, 28, a reporter for the Vancouver Province since April, 1972, has been appointed administrative assistant to the provincial minister of finance, Premier Barrett.

McNelly leaves his job at the morning newspaper on Friday and starts his new job with Premier and Finance Minister Dave Barrett in January. Before working for the province, McNelly was a reporter for the Victoria Times.

As administrative assistant to Barrett, he will receive a salary of $21,000.

Born and educated in California, McNelly is an applicant for Canadian citizenship.

Palestine Guerrillas Feared

KHIAM, Lebanon (WP) — Villages like this one along Lebanon's southern border have lost between 30 and 70 per cent of their populations since the October War, according to the chief political officer for the region.

Henri Lahoud, governor of Southern Lebanon, said people left originally to get a safe distance from the shooting between Syrian and Israeli forces. (Now that aceasefire is in effect, some have stayed away for fear of Palestinian guerrilla activities.

In the past, Palestinian guerrillas have used towns along the Lebanese-Israeli border to launch rockets at Israeli villages. This has often brought Israeli retaliation, in the form of shelling or commando raids, on those villages.

"We told them," Lahoud said of the guerrillas, to do their business outside Lebanon, not to make trouble for us. If they want to do something against Israel, they should go to Israel to do it."

Neither Lahoud nor anybody else is sure that the guerrillas can resist lobbing a few rockets across the line at Israel to gain the spotlight during the promised peace talks.

These worries have led Lebanese officials to discuss the possibility of putting a buffer of UN troops between Lebanon and Israel. But the officials who discuss this refuse to let their names be mentioned in print for fear the Lebanese public would rebel at the idea of such an international intrusion.

The threat of another war or of more guerrilla activity heightens tensions along the border in villages like Khiam.

Khiam is a cluster of stone houses on a ridge between Maryayoun and Hilta, about 25 miles south of Beirut. It looks to the southeast across a valley to the back of Mount Hermon and the soaring Golan Heights. Israeli villages are clearly visible.

One farmer said that about half of Khiam's 20,000 people left when the fighting started on Mount Hermon. Because of the uncertainty about what will happen next only half of those who went away have returned. Other border villages are also believed to have lost between 10 and 25 per cent.

One of Khiam's landmarks is the place where an Israeli Phantom jet crashed, knocking down half a dozen houses and killing several people, according to the villagers. But even that was not enough to scare away some of the villagers.

One farmer who remained through the fighting asked indignantly: "Why shouldn't I be able to die in my own village?" And, in that peculiar Arab humor so hard to project, he added with a laugh: "Maybe the plane crashed here because it got a flat tire."

If a cross-section of interviews like those in Khiam are a true indication, villagers on Lebanon's southern frontier have no use for the Palestinian guerrillas or their rockets.

"They just make trouble for us," said one woman holding a baby. Neither she nor anybody else interviewed liked the idea of being hostage to Israeli retaliation for guerrilla attacks.

Some Arab analysts contend the depopulation of southern Lebanon is just what Israel wants to widen the buffer zone below the Golan Heights. Others charge Israel has its eyes set on the Hassbani and Litani rivers in Southern Lebanon, whose water would be useful for crop irrigation.

Work Aplenty

MONTREAL (CP) — The current construction boom will continue beyond 1974 despite material shortages, energy scarcities and higher energy prices, the third annual conference on Institutional Investing in Canada was told.

Three speakers predicted construction activity will surpass the boom period of 1964-66.

S. C. Cooper, president of C. A. Pitts Engineering Construction Ltd., Toronto, said "I haven't seen so much work on deck in the last 25 years," and projected that the industry will be working at or beyond capacity until 1980.

Both Cooper and Taylor Kennedy, president of Canada Cement Lafarge Ltee., Montreal, said supply problems can be overcome by careful planning.

David Slater, director of economic analysis with the federal finance department, said the strain on the construction industry's capacity could be eased somewhat by mid-1974 when housing starts and government investment should decline.

Deficit Up

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — Israel's balance of payments deficit in 1973 will be more than $2.5 billion because of the October war, says Ephraim Dovrat, adviser to the finance minister.

Dovrat says in the latest issue of the ruling Labor party's bulletin the expected deficit for the current year before the war was $1.36 billion.

Exquisite Gems Brighten Drab Winter Months

Houseplants assume more importance as daylight hours grow less, for many favorites from other climates will bloom here during our winter months.

One large genus, Crassula, has several members with exquisite jewel-like blossoms from chalk white to rosy carmine to startle us with their beauty.

Often the buds are unexpected, for we think of the crassulas as ornamental mainly for the diversity of their leaf form and coloring.

Most familiar is probably Crassula argente, the so-called Chinese-jade-tree. This is handsome when well grown as a stalwart tree, two to three feet tall in a six or seven-inch pot, branches well spaced and well leaved.

The thick, glossy dark green leaves are finely dotted with silver, a sort of glandular exudation, only seen when the plants are in good daylight and not overwatered.

Crassulas are all succulent plants capable of storing moisture in leaves, stems and the trunk.

This is a necessary function carried over from their adaptation to long periods of natural drought experienced in their native environment, South Africa.

It is after a period of early fall dryness that we notice flower buds appear on several species. On the Chinese-jade, clusters form at the tip of each branch, opening into a flat umbel of many half-inch wide flowers each on its own tiny stem.

White, tinged with pink, the cluster opens gradually and slowly, maintaining a display over six to eight weeks — usually from late December.

The varigated form, Crassula argentea variegata, is not so robust, as is often the case with variegated forms.

With the limited cholorphyll coloring, they cannot manufacture a great amount of food. I have never seen flowers on a variegated crassula.

Another one which blooms even more freely than the jade is a prostrate species called Crassula lactea. Handsome flower heads are cone-shaped, five or six inches long, crowded with chalky white starry flowers. Leaves are a "dry" green, not shiny. A real beauty, it was a favorite plant here a few years ago though I haven't seen any lately. Some must surely survive, for the crassulas are easy enough to grow and propagate.

As mentioned before, these plants must never be waterlogged, nor grown for long in a spot without direct daylight.

Sunlight, without scorching through glass on hot summer days, is necessary for good foliage and for bud formation.

The Chinese-jade can go outdoors with pot buried in a sunny border all summer, but it must not receive regular sprinkling or other scheduled garden watering. It needs only a thorough watering perhaps twice all summer when its pot is buried in soil.

Indoors in winter, about four ounces water once weekly to a five inch pot filled with roots will be enough. Don't give even that much if you find the soil still damp. Hold for another few days. Leaves fall if too much water is given, and if light is too poor in winter.

No plant food (fertilizer) is needed. Keep in a pot just large enough for its roots.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

A conventional bid which has great practical significance at the bridge table is the double of either a three notrump or a slam contract by the defender sitting over the dummy. The double says: "Partner, lead the first suit bid by dummy."

This type of double is a categoric one, and eliminates the application of judgment by the doubler's partner. Even if the doubler himself has a bid suit, his double says: "Don't lead my suit. Lead the first suit bid by the dummy." As a matter of fact, the double of a three notrump or a slam contract is very often made to make sure that partner will not lead the doubler's bid suit (which, without the double, would normally be made).

An example of this type of double can be observed in today's deal. The hand came up in the Masters Pairs Championship of 1965.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♠	3 ◇	Pass
4 ◇	4 ♡	7 ◇	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♣.

Had East not doubled South's seven diamond contract, West would have led either a spade or a heart, East's bid suits, at trick one. As is evident, South would have won either opening lead, drawn trumps, and chalked up the score for a grand slam bid and made.

But with the double by East, West was commanded to lead a club, dummy's first bid suit. And with the club lead, declarer was down one, since East ruffed this lead. In retrospect, had either North or South had the clairvoyance to have bid the grand slam in clubs, this contract would have been fulfilled with no difficulty.

This deal illustrates why the expert has such a tremendous advantage over the non-expert: the expert knows dozens of conventional codes such as the one displayed above, but the non-expert frequently has to guess what to do in specialized situations.

Taking this deal as an example, what would a non-expert do in the East seat after South has bid seven diamonds? If he doubled (for penalties) an unknowing West would lead a spade or a heart — and rue the day.

Gov't Awards Contracts

Public Works Minister Bill Hartley today announced the awarding of more than $230,000 worth of construction contracts for work on government buildings in the Greater Victoria area.

Largest of the contracts goes to W. Campbell Ltd. for renovation work at the Harbor Towers building at the corner of Quebec and Pendray streets so that lands and forests department staff can move from the Legislative Buildings. The contract is worth $109,409.

E. J. Hunter and Sons Ltd. has been awarded a $66,222 contract for alteration work at the government data centre on Menzies Street.

A $35,150 contract goes to Australian Construction Ltd. of Victoria for panelling work on the third floor of the Legislative Buildings, and a contract worth $19,773 is awarded to H. E. Fowler and Sons Ltd. for structural roof repairs at the transport department's hangar at Victoria International Airport.

Other contracts in the Vancouver Island area include one worth $24,990 to Australian Construction Ltd. for renovation work at the government building and court room in Ganges and another worth $50,990 for fire alarm work at Malaspina College in Nanaimo.

U.S. May Not Be Able To Fill Wheat Contracts

WINNIPEG (CP) — For the first time in years, wheat supplies in the United States may be virtually depleted as a result of increased world demands, Canadian grain officials say.

Statistics from both the U.S. and Canada indicate that North American stocks could come under heavy pressure by early 1974 and even suggest the U.S. may not be able to meet existing export commitments.

C. W. Gibbings, commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board, says U.S. wheat stocks probably will be "very tight" by the end of March if export clearances continue at their present rate.

"We know that the United States, by their own figures is already fully committed, on wheat exports this year," he said in a recent speech.

While wheat board officials have not said flatly that the U.S. has more export commitments than it can meet this year, a spokesman for the board suggests that a prediction of this nature is possible on the basis of figures from the U.S. department of agriculture.

The department reported total wheat stocks of 2.158 billion bushels at the beginning of the crop year July 1. Subtracting domestic requirements ofroughly 800 million bushels, exports to date of more than 500 million bushels, and minimum carry-over stocks of about 200 million bushels, this figure is reduced to about 660 million bushels.

The spokesman notes that U.S. export commitments still stand at between 800 and 850 million bushels.

The situation predicted for Canada is slightly better, but the wheat board had said carry-over stocks of grain likely will be reduced to their lowest levels in years by the end of the current crop year.

G. N. Vogel, the board's chief commissioner, has warned that exports of prairie wheat may be down 50 million bushels or more from last year's level, depending on how much reserve stocks are drawn down.

A large portion of available wheat supplies for this year have already been committed, he says.

The shortages of exportable grain in north America would likely have the effect of driving up prices further, although it is still too early to predict major increases in price.

Wheat prices soared to their highest levels in years last year when crop failures in several parts of the world led to a dramatic and sudden increase in demand.

Top grades of export wheat were selling this week at nearly $5.60 a bushel, basis Thunder Bay.

As a result, prairie farmers enjoyed their highest payments for wheat since the Second World War, and this year's estimated final payments are at an all-time record.

On the other hand, the wheat board has not increased its estimates of final payments since they were first announced last month.

Ex-City Woman Killed in Reno

A former Victoria resident was killed in Reno, Nev., Wednesday when a two-and-a-half storey brick wall fell on her as she walked through the downtown section.

Mrs. Jeannie Day, 47, now of New Westminster, was pronounced dead on arrival at Washoe Medical Centre after the wall workmen were tearing down collapsed.

ROBBERS HIT JEWELRY

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Bandits shot open jewelry cases in Tiffany's Wednesday, wounded a guard and escaped with pillowcases of loot that police said could be worth $50,000.

The men, dressed in 'blue jeans and floppy hats," clerks said, entered the west coast branch of the famed New York jewelers and, acting as customers, browsed through expensive watches and rings.

After about 10 minutes, one of the bandits drew a revolver, fired a shot, and shouted "everyone drop to the floor."

Police said there were three to five men involved, including the driver of a getaway car that was sitting in front of the store with its engine running. Clerks who talked to newsmen said they saw only two bandits in the store.

The gumen blasted open jewelry cases with pistol fire, police Capt. Jose Paez said, scooping rings and watches into pillowcases.

9 IN MEMORIAM

KENNEDY—In memory of John Fitzgerald Kennedy—a true son and lifelong friend of all Ireland. May 29, 1917—November 22, 1963.
'Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain'.
—The Friends of Ireland of Victoria.

MCCALL — In loving memory of a dear Husband and Father, George F. McCall, who passed away November 22nd, 1955.
Dearer still as years depart,
His memory lives within my heart;
A cheery smile, a heart of gold
One of the best this world could hold.
And when old times we do recall,
'Tis when we miss him most of all.
—Always missed by his loving wife Bessie; and family, Jean and Joe; Venturin grandchildren, Paul and Maria.

MOORE — In cherished memory of my beloved husband
Lieut.-Col. Thomas Moore, E.D., Winnipeg Grenadiers. Died Nov. 22, 1972.
Soldier—Gentleman—a gentle man

Get Yourself a Piece of Oak Bay Before It's All Gone

This could be your last chance to own an apartment by the ocean, right on Beach Drive and within walking distance of the world famous Oak Bay Marina and Restaurant, the Windsor Park rose gardens and just about anything else you could want at the Oak Bay Village.

Yes, there will be resales in Oak Bay. But one thing is almost certain . . . You'll pay a lot more for it than a new one of your choice at the ROYAL ALEXANDRA. So, it stands to reason, if you're remotely interested in having a place in Oak Bay it would be worth your while to come see the ROYAL ALEXANDRA.

1-Bedroom Apartments
From $31,500

2-Bedroom Apartments
From $39,900

Almost every extra luxury has been provided . . . like a sauna, a therapeutic pool, exercise pavilion, hobby room, freezer room, underground parking with owner operated electronically controlled gates.

Each apartment is larger and more luxuriously appointed than you would expect at these prices.

If you've ever wanted a place in Oak Bay now is the time to get it before they're all gone.

HOW TO WRITE
A GOOD
CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you information you give are the have to offer; the details and most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call:

Overboard Women Identified

RCMP have released the names of two women who went overboard while travelling on different ferries between Tsawwassen and Swartz Bay Tuesday afternoon.

They are Mrs. Joan Alexandra Millard, 47, of Langley and Irene Chamberland, 26, of 3994 Sentry, Saanich.

Mrs. Millard went missing from the Queen of Saanich that left Tsawwassen at 5 p.m. Police in Ganges are searching off Prevost Island.

The other woman was aboard the Queen of Victoria and went overboard shortly before the boat docked at Swartz Bay at 5 p.m.

She was seen by a passenger and rescued by crew members but not before she had spent 22 minutes in the water.

INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION
Canada and the United States
Notice of Public Hearings on Possible Solutions to Certain Problems Facing Point Roberts

The International Joint Commission, a permanent Canada and United States body established by Treaty in 1909, will hold public hearings at the times and places noted below on possible solutions to certain problems facing the residents of Point Roberts.

In 1971 the Governments of the United States and Canada requested the International Joint Commission to investigate and recommend measures to alleviate certain conditions of life of residents of Point Roberts, Washington, existing by reason of the fact that the only connection by land between Point Roberts and other territory of the United States is through Canada. The Commission appointed the International Point Roberts Board to undertake the necessary investigations and to advise the Commission thereon. The Board has recently completed its studies and has submitted its report to the Commission entitled "Report to the International Joint Commission on Solutions to the Problems Facing the Residents of Point Roberts." The report is being distributed to interested individuals, organizations and government agencies. Copies may be obtained upon request by writing to the International Joint Commission in either Washington or Ottawa at the addresses noted below. Also, the Report and Appendix 'B' thereto "An Inventory of International Park Possibilities" are being made available for inspection in Canada at the following locations:

History and Government Division,
Vancouver Public Library,
751 Burrard Street,
Vancouver, B.C.

Fraser Valley Regional Libraries,
Richmond, Delta, Surrey and White Rock, B.C.

Water Survey of Canada,
Room 502,
1001 West Pender Street,
Vancouver, B.C.

Greater Victoria Public Library,
Victoria, B.C.

The purpose of these hearings is to receive testimony and evidence relating to the report of the International Point Roberts Board. The Commission's hearings are international in nature and irrespective of the location in which they are being held, the citizens of both the United States and Canada are invited to attend and participate. Opportunity will be given to anyone, either on his own behalf or in a representative capacity, to offer pertinent information which may assist the Commission in the preparation of its report to the Governments of the United States and Canada on solutions to the problems facing Point Roberts.

At the hearings, statements may be presented orally or in writing. If written statements are submitted, it is requested that, if possible, thirty (30) copies be provided for the Commission's use. Additional copies may be deposited with the Secretaries at the hearings for the use of the news media and others present.

TIMES AND PLACES OF HEARINGS

Engine Alternatives Studied

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) — Ford Motor Co., the world's second largest automaker, has announced a $500,000 grant for an independent study of alternative systems to the internal combustion engine.

Ford said it was awarding the grant to the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory for a 14-month study which will be independent of Ford control.

"The twin concerns over clean air standards and the availability of petroleum give added significance to the launching of this study by an independent and respected research organization," Herbert L. Misch, Ford vice-president for environmental and safety engineering said in a statement.

The scientists will estimate the effect of alternaive engines on the environment, probable use of natural and synthetic fuel supplies, and the economic and social impact of large-scale conversion to a new power system.

Dr. William Pickering, director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, stressed the work would be conducted "independent of Ford Motor Co. interests," and said the results would be made public.

Public Hearing

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia School Trustees Association said a public conference on teacher training will be held Feb. 8 and 9 in Richmond. The conference is to report its recommendations to provincial education commissioner John Bremer.

U.S. Boycott Urged To Protect Whales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Wildlife Federation has urged a boycott of Japanese and Soviet goods in the United States because, it said, unrestricted commercial whaling by Japan and the U.S.S.R. threatens the extinction of the last great whales.

In a letter to President Nixon, the private conservation organization's executive vie-president, Thomas Kimball, expressed "concern and outrage at the callous refusal of the governments of Japan and the U.S.S.R. to adequately limit their commercial whaling activities."

He urged that the U.S. government use all feasible diplomatic and economic means to influence Tokyo and Moscow to modify their whaling practices.

Kimball said the best scientific information available "points toward the extinction of at least some of the eight species of great whales unless all whaling nations are willing to revise their practices to the degree necessary to ensure the survival of these great marine mammals."

Kimball contended that the amount of protein whale meat contributes to the Japanese and Russian diets is insigsificant. He told a news conference that satisfactory substitutes have been found for all whale products including lubricants, cosmetics, soap, paint, shoe polish and margarine.

The Russians are said to use sperm oil in their missiles because it resists heat.

In his letter to Nixon, Kimball noted that at the 25th annual meeting of the International Whaling Commission in London last June, both Japan and Russia declared they were unwilling to abide by earlier decisions to strengthen conservation efforts.

Japan and the Soviet Union are the only countries still engaged in large-scale whale killing.

SETTLEMENT EMBARRASSES COLLEGE

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Testimony about misuse of funds and inducement from suppliers unfolded in Ontario Supreme Court during a lawsuit against Confederation College of Applied Arts and Technology.

But the suit ended abruptly following an out-of-court settlement between the college and the plaintiff, Sherwood Agress, the institution's former dean of arts.

Agress was dismissed in 1971 although the reasons for the firing were not made public. In his suit, Agress claimed he was wrongfully dismissed and has been unsuccessful in gaining new employment because of the stigma.

A subordinate to Agress confessed to purchasing, for personal use, equipment with college funds.

Claude Buffett, former director of the audio-visual department, also told the court that he had accepted bribes while he was employed by the college.

Agress testified that he, too, had been offered bribes but had refused all of them.

Agress declined to reveal the amount of money he received from the college in the settlement which also inclurled an apology and a letter of recommendation.

He said the amount of money was enough to be a source of embarrassment to the college.

Before leaving the courtroom, Mr. Justice D. A. Keith said:

"My only regret is that the members of the board of governors of Confederation College who are responsible for the terrible two years the plaintiff has suffered since his dismissal, were not here to hear all this."

SPACE REPAIR STARTS

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two Skylab 3 astronauts floated out of the giant space station today and began an ambitious Thanksgiving Day spacewalk to repair an antenna and load fresh film in their solar observatory.

Edward Gibson and William Pogue opened the hatch at 9:43 a.m. PST, an hour and 33 minutes behind schedule, to start the planned walk that could easily last eight hours.

PHILIP

ON THE CHEAP

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Philip caused some red faces among dignitaries attending the opening of a London sports centre Wednesday.

He arrived at the site in a Vauxhall while other officials drove up in Rolls Royces.

A palace spokesman said today Philip left his Rolls, which does eight miles to the gallon, in the garage and took the Vauxhall, which does 34 miles, as a personal gesture in the fuel crisis.

Prince Charles followed his father's example when he flew to Spain aboard a scheduled airliner Tuesday instead of using the Queen's private plane, which had been laid on for him, the spokesman said.

News of the young prince's mode of transport came as a political controversy flared over a company executive jet being flown empty to Italy to pick up a British businessman and bring him home.

Macdonald To Seek Crisis Power

Times News Services

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald will ask Parliament on Monday for emergency powers to deal with the possibility of a fuel shortage in Canada this winter, according to a Toronto report today.

Quoting Parliamentary sources, the Globe and Mail said these powers would give Ottawa tighter control on the supply of gasoline, home heating oils and other petroleum fuels.

The powers Macdonald will ask for are said to be along the lines of those being proposed in the United States and would enable the federal government to act immediately in a crisis, even though they would not necessarily mean Ottawa will move immediately to curtail the distribution and sale of petroleum products.

Prime Minister Trudeau, meanwhile, plans a nationwide address at 6:30 PST tonight on energy policy, an issue which could cost the government the crucial support of the New Democratic Party.

Asked why he selected tonight as the time for the report, since Energy Minister Macdonald will be discussing the issue with his provincial counterparts Friday, the prime minister said that "it is as good a time as any."

He was also asked by reporters whether new government policies would be announced.

"A situational report is a good way of describing it," he replied.

In Montreal, Tory leader Stanfield said today home heating oil product prices should be controlled throughout Canada for the duration of the winter.

"This controlled price should take effect immediately and should be maintained throughout the winter while industry and the government negotiate a voluntary price freeze on Canadian crude oil," he said.

Stanfield said the lifting of the government's price freeze on Feb. 1 would create two types of Canadians, those in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces paying higher prices, and those in the rest of Canada," he said.

Once the freeze was listed, he said, the government should adopt a policy permitting only gradual increases, in consultation with provincial governments.

In another energy crisis development U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger may meet with West European foreign ministers early next month to discuss united action that can be taken on the Middle East stiuation and the oil shortage.

There has been no evidence what action he and the ministers might take in response to production cuts and embargos by Arab oil countries, but the subject of economic sanctions has been raised.

In the next three to four weeks the Arab boycott against the Netherlands and its huge oil terminals is expected to be cutting deep into Western Europe's oil supplies.

Kissinger is due in Brussels Dec. 10 to join foreign ministers from 14 allied countries at the annual meeting of the

Food Chain Fined

Times News Services

TORONTO — Dominion Stores Ltd., an eastern food store chain, was fined $10,000 in provincial court today for false advertising in connection with a newspaper advertisement last Aug. 4.

The advertisement, which appeared in a Toronto newspaper and was signed by company President Thomas Bolton, promised Dominion would not raise their price of goods already on the shelves.

But two witnesses testified during a three-day trial that they saw store employees repricing shelf goods on the day the advertisement appeared. Other witnesses said they saw the same practice being carried out by employees of other stores Aug. 6 and 7.

Meanwhile Consumer Affairs Minister Herb Gray told the Commons Wednesday that further charges are expected to be laid over the next few weeks as a result of food prices review board criticism of grocery stores for devious selling practices.

Answering questions about the board's report, made public earlier in the day, Gray told James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) that some charges were laid last week and more can be expected.

Russia Sends Superjet

Times News Services

CAIRO — The Soviet Union has delivered a new, advanced model of the MiG-21 fighter-bomber to Egypt as part of a continuing flow of sophisticated weapons that leaves Egypt more heavily-armed than before the October war with Israel, reliable Western informants reported Wednesday.

Thirty-five to 40 of the new "Super-MiGs" arrived in Egypt in the past week, these sources said. They declined to give specifications of the new plane.

There is also a report here — which western sources stress is still unconfirmed — that the Russians have turned over one or two squadrons of MiG-23 fighters, modified for combat at lower altitudes, to Egyptian pilots within the past three weeks.

The Russians reportedly had one or two squadrons of MiG-23s in Egypt on reconnaisance duty before President Anwar Sadat ousted 15,000 to 20,000 Russian military advisers in July, 1972.

Perhaps more significant for the prospects of resumption of warfare in the Middle East — a fear expressed by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir Wednesday — is the rebuilding of Egypt's ground forces that has taken place since the Oct. ceasefire went into effect.

Egyptian and foreign sources report that the Egyptians have reformed two armored divisions with the 600 or more new tanks delivered by the Russians since the ceasefire.

Most of this armor has gone to the regrouped Egyptian Third Army on the West Bank of the Suez Canal, which has taken up positions in front of the Israeli line stretching between the towns of Ismailia and Suez, military experts here say.

Court Lifts Project Ban

MONTREAL (CP) — The Court of Appeal suspended today a Quebec Superior Court injunction granted last week which halted work on the $6-billion James Bay hydroelectric project in northwestern Quebec.

In a unanimous decision, a panel of three Court of Appeal justices ruled that the bill setting up the James Bay Development Corp. (JBDC) was constitutional until ruled unconstitutional or repealed.

The court ruled that the legislation was passed in the general and public interest of Quebec and that this public interest outweighs the interest of what the courts said were 2,000 native peoples in the James Bay region.

In the judgment read by Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay of the Court of Appeal, the court said the temporary injunction should remain suspended until the appeal is decided or until the court orders otherwise.

A lawyer for the native peoples said they will take the decision to the Supreme Court of Canada immediately.

James O'Reilly said they could go before the Supreme Court to ask leave to appeal as early as next week.

Mr. O'Reilly, who appeared downcast as he spoke to reporters after the ruling, said that if the Supreme Court grants leave to appeal, all proceedings in Quebec courts would be suspended. Today's ruling, he said, would be suspended and the injunction issued a week ago by Mr. Justice Albert Malouf of Quebec Superior Court would go back into effect.

Indian leaders attending the court hearing also expressed disappointment.

Chief Andrew Delisle, president of the Indians of Quebec Association, said "we feel the evidence we presented was not looked into completely."

He also said there have been some preliminary contacts with the provincial government and negotiations on

Tearful Tribute For WAC

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

VANCOUVER — Party officials struggled to hold back an already-frantic Bill Bennett campaign band this morning as it marched its way through the halls of the Hotel Vancouver less than an hour after the opening of the Social Credit convention.

In that short time, delegates were already worked up to something just short of a fever pitch as they began their rally with a farewell to "the old chief," W. A. C. Bennett.

It was the women's auxiliary of the Social Credit Party which actually opened the three-day convention today and more than 200 women and a scattering of men, averaging somewhwere over 50 years of age, gathered under the massive chandeliers of the hotel's Pacific Ballroom to pay a tearful homage to Bennett.

More than 1,500 Social Crediters from around the province have registered for the convention so far.

Girls in white blouses and green felt skirts ushered the party faithful into the ballroom where they waited patiently, entertained by a woman in a black pillbox hat who played vaguely familiar tunes on a piano.

Bennett finally appeared with a small entourage and was bagpiped into the room.

While outside campaign workers for the leadership candidates scurried about organizing razzle-dazzle displays of power, the old party members inside the ballroom sang O Canada, recited the Social Credit creed and the Social Credit prayer.

Agnes Kripps, former MLA and now women's auxiliary president, began the proceedings with a warning that the party must not make a mistake when choosing a new leader Saturday.

She and other platform speakers carefully avoided discussing the six candidates vying for the office and only the slightest hint of tension flowed through the seated delegates as she mentioned the race which will be the focal point of the convention.

Mrs. Kripps moved quickly to the favorite topic of growing Socred memberships.

"Organize, organize, organize," she said, beseeching the delegates to join with her in a chant: "We can do it, we must do it, we will do it."

Bennett himself, dried the tears from his eyes as he took the podium after listening to a multitude of tributes from MLA Pat Jordan, who said the old premier would be remembered in history "as the single most successful politician in Canada."

"And perhaps as the most successful social reformer in Canada," she added.

During his 20 years in office, Mrs. Jordan said the Socred leader had made B.C. "an example to the whole free world."

"We love him," she said.

In between standing ovations, Bennett was every bit his old self as he called for a "holy crusade" of non-socialists in B.C. to defeat the NDP government.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission has re-implemented under new guides the use of garnishees to collect unemployment insurance overpayments after the practice was stopped in mid-July.

Boycott Talks Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senator Ed Lawson, Teamsters Union international vice-president and president of Joint Council 36 in British Columbia, said Wednesday he will meet the B.C. Premier Dave Barrett and Health Minister Dennis Cocke in Victoria next Tuesday to discuss Lawson's allegation that Cocke "knowingly deceived" him about a California grapes boycott at provincially-operated health facilities.

Decision Upheld

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba court of appeal Wednesday declined to reverse a lower court decision allowing the transfer of $4 million and assets of Churchill Forest Industries to a newly created provincial crown corporation.

Torture Alleged

LAHORE (AP) — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto is "mounting a campaign of terror" against his political opponents, says the leader of one of Pakistan's major opposition parties. Asgar Khan, head of the Tehrik-I-Istiklal party, said Wednesday in an interview there have been widespread arrests and torture of opposition party workers.

OUR MAN IN CAIRO RECALLED

OTTAWA (CP) — A foreign service officer who committed a "grave breach of discipline" by writing a letter to a newspaper criticizing Canadian Middle East policy is being recalled.

A spokesman for the immigration department said Pierre Brisson, third secretary of the Canadian embassy in Cairo, will not be punished but will undergo further training.

He said Brisson, an employee of the foreign service of the immigration department, committed a "grave breach of discipline" when he wrote the letter to the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir.

The letter, appearing in the Nov. 10 edition, said Canada is prejudiced toward Israel.

Among other things, the letter asks why Canada supports the existence of Israel and closes its eyes to the occupation of Arab lands by Israel.

"Could the real reason for the 'incoherence' of the 'politicians' be that it pays to support Israel at election time?

"This would be to admit that Jewish capital controls Canadian external policy and evidently makes it qualify as racist, or Nazi."

The immigration spokesman said the letter was a clear infraction of regulations forbidding foreign service officers from involving themselves in political discussions.

Meanwhile, the external affairs department said Canadian Ambassador Andrew Ross in Chile is not being recalled, despite demands from New Democratic Party MPs last week.

Ross has been a centre of controversy since letters he sent to the external affairs department were leaked.

Germ Threat Made

BONN (Reuter) — The spectre of a mad scientist or sinister organization holding the country to ransom with phials of deadly bacteria hangs over West Germany.

The mass-circulation newspaper Bild says threats to spread the bacteria of anthrax and botulism through the mail or plant them in factories, hotels, shopping centres or the public water supplies of several large cities were contained in four letters sent to Chancellor Willy Brandt's office.

The letters demanded a $8.7-million ransom to stop the threats, which also included bomb attacks on public buildings and the kinapping of government members, the newspaper says.

Bild says authorities responded by placing a brief "We accept" message in the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel.

Police, security officials and a government spokesman in Bonn all declined to comment on the extortion story or on the cryptic message in Der Spiegel.

HE WAS RICH . . . FOR A FEW BLOCKS

VANCOUVER (CP)—William Wood doesn't remember it very well but hce was rich for a few minutes Oct. 17.

The 62-year-old man was sentenced to six months Tuesday after he was convicted of robbing a branch of the Royal Bank of $1,588.

Judge A. J. Carmichael said Wood had "sufficient liquor in him to make a lot of people pass out."

Wood had a blood alcohol reading of .19 shortly after his arrest. Legal driving impairment is .08 per cent blood alcohol.

"I remember coming out of the bank," Wood told the court, "but I don't recall being in there.

"I'm a born loser, but at least I was rich for a few blocks."

AUTO PLANT MANAGER KILLED IN ARGENTINE

CORDOBA (AP) — Terrorists early today shot and killed the American manager of an automobile plant, killed one of his bodyguards and wounded two others in a machine-gun attack, Argentine police said.

The American was identified as John Albert Swint. He headed Transax, an automobile parts factory which is a subsidiary of the Ford auto company.

Police said Swint was on his way to his officen when his chauffeur-driven car slowed for a large truck parked across the road. As the car eased around the truck, shooting broke out from all sides.

Police said the attackers apparently were members of the Marxist-led People's Revolutionary Army, known as the ERP.

Bank Profit Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Bank of British Columbia had a profit increase of 35.9 per cent for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1973, compared with the previous year.

Assets rose 30.2 per cent to $317,866,195 from $244,175,618. Deposits rose 33.3 per cent to $295,304,818 from $221,616,341 and loans outstanding at the year end were up 31 per cent at $235,066,995 from $179,451,571.

Securities held by the bank were valued at $16,242,237, down 25.1 per cent from $21,684,657 at the previous year end.

The bank's balance of revenue was up 63.3 per cent at $1,313,808 compared with $804,545.

Balance of profits was $413,808, up 35.9 per cent from $304,545 in the previous year.

Dividends of 50 cents a share were paid in fiscal 1973 compared with 20 cents in fiscal 1972.

The bank has 23 branches, all in B.C.

Tot's Welfare Comes First

OTTAWA (CP) — A child's welfare has been placed above the rights of natural parents in custody cases in a trend-reversing decision today by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court agreed with an August Ontario Court of Appeal decision that four-year-old Lisa Moores of Toronto, also known as Carrie Feldstein, should remain with the people who have raised her rather than return to her natural mother.

Three high court judges have dismissed a motion to appeal the Ontario court decision made earlier this week by lawyers for Carrie's natural mother.

In the past, other major cases have tended to favor natural parents as the proper ones to decide the destiny of a child.

But the Ontario court followed a British precedent and ruled that paramount consideration in custody cases should be the welfare of the child.

Carrie was born July 1, 1969, to Jane Louise Moores but began living with Carl and Mary Feldstein 10 days later.

Mrs. Moores then asked the Supreme Court for permission to review the Ontario decision, and three judges — Mr. Justices Roland Ritchie, Wilfred Judson and Wishart Spence — considered the request in a small courtroom earlier this week.

During the hearing, the lawyer for Mrs. Moores, Joseph Lewis, argued that the Ontario court had not followed legal principles on custody outlined in a number of recent Supreme Court decisions. The Ontario court had wrongly applied the British case, he said.

New Policy Rates 'Severe Shake Up' To Errant Drivers

By BRIAN BUTTERS
Times Staff

B.C. drivers with numerous demerit points on their records should prepare for a financial shock when they buy their government car insurance later this winter.

The reason: insurance premium rates under the Insurance Corporation of B.C. will be tied directly to the individual driver's computerized record of driving offences.

In some ways, this relationship between car insurance rates and driving record becomes yet another good news-bad news joke.

The good news is that each driver will start out on government insurance with a clean slate as far as accidents are concerned, since the private insurance industry has not furnished the ICBC with the pertinent accident information.

The bad news is the "substantial increase" in premiums which will be felt by drivers with poor records.

Motor vehicles superintendent Ray Hadfield says the new insurance rates, which are expected to be revealed by the insurance corporation in a matter of days, "are going to shake some drivers quite severely."

Hadfield said drivers will face double jeopardy if they pile up a significant number of points from offences against the Motor Vehicle Act, its regulations and the Canadian Criminal Code.

HADFIELD
. . . double jeopardy

The first danger is a licence suspension, which can be imposed any time after a driver accumulates 10 or more demerit points. The second is the prospect of sky-high insurance rates because of a high point total.

Just how high the insurance rates will climb for bad drivers remains the exclusive knowledge of ICBC officials, who are tight-lipped. But indications from Transport Minister Robert Strachan are that the monetary penalty for poor driving will be severe.

With government insurance being split into separate policies — one for each car in the province and one for each individual driver — bad drivers will see their personal policies climb in direct relation to the number of points on their record.

However, it could be worse.

Hadfield said it appears the demerit point system, brought in by the provincial government as a pilot project in Victoria in 1968 and made province-wide in 1970, will be used in its present form as a basis for insurance rates under the government plan.

This means, he said, that only convictions within the last three years will count and offences committed more than three years ago, although they may show up in the five-year memory bank of the motor vehicle branch's computer, will not be counted.

The point system itself is simple enough. Each year three points are dropped from an individual's total, regardless of the number of offences.

Take for example the case of one anonymous driver.

The MVB computer reveals no less than seven separate convictions, but spread out reasonably far apart, over the last six years.

The total number of demerit points adds up to 22. But when the government insurance plan comes into effect on March 1, 1974, only one point will remain on the official record, thanks to the three points per year subtraction and the fact that only the most recent three years are used.

Gone are the 15 points accumulated more than three years ago. They are still on the computer's file, to be erased as the computer's five-year memory is revised from time to time.

Once a driver accumulates 10 points on his record, he must pay an assessment of $25.

Many drivers, according to motor vehicle branch spokesman John Furmston, think their slates are wiped clean when they pay their $25. This is not the case. The 10 points remain on the record and can only be eliminated in the routine manner, that is, at a maximum rate of three points per year.

The usual procedure for a person with 10 or more points is that the motor-vehicle branch gives him an opportunity to show cause why his licence should not be suspended. It may be suggested that the driver take a defensive driving course, with an option of a suspension ranging from 30 days to an indefinite period.

Each case is treated individually. There is no guarantee of a six-month suspension, for example, the instant a driver hits the 15-point level. Such factors as attitude and working conditions are taken into consideration.

Hadfield says there is no provision for a deduction of demerit points for drivers who complete a defensive driving course. But he said the government "may look hard" at the possibility of doing so in the future.

The motor-vehicle branch likens its demerit point system to a department store's charge account system. A driving offence, like a purchase, goes on the record.

However, for the B.C. car driver, a new kind of interest charge on his account is now only months away. The bigger the account — that is, the greater the demerit point total — the larger the interest charge in the form of insurance premium.

It could be a lean year for carelessness.

Pollen Promises Thaw Of Hearings Freeze

Deferred public hearings on Victoria's six-stage rezoning plan for James Bay will resume soon, Mayor Peter Pollen said Wednesday.

The city last month imposed a temporary "freeze" on all scheduled public hearings in hopes that uncertainties surrounding notification procedures would be cleared up by the provincial government.

But the fall session of the legislature ended without the ituation being reolved, and Pollen said city council now feels the hearings should proceed — even at the risk of having rezoning decisions challenged on grounds of improper notification.

The city's doubts stemmed from legislation passed earlier this year, which required municipalities to inform all property owners and occupiers of zoning changes that potentially could affect their areas.

Victoria was concerned because the physical difficulty of keeping track of frequently-moving tenants, and ensuring mail notification, posed the possibility that any citizen could institute proceedings to quash a bylaw on grounds he had not been informed of a public hearing.

In the city's opinion, amendments to the Municipal Act passed at the recently-ended session only compounded the problem, by omitting the previous requirement to notify property owners and leaving "occupiers" as the only designated category.

Pollen said Wednesday, hoever, he is hopeful that in the event of a contested decision, the city's position would be upheld on grounds it had acted in good faith and made a sincere attempt to ensure the widest-possible notification of a public hearing.

He said he was not overly concerned that aggrieved James Bay residents might decide to make a test case of a particular rezoning decision.

City Women Cleared For Buses

A B.C. Hydro spokesman said today the transit system would accept applications from any woman who wants to drive a bus in the Victoria area.

There has never been a female Hydro driver in Victoria even though no regulation preventing one exists.

In Vancouver there have been three women driving Hydro buses for more than 25 years.

Hydro was contacted here after Helga Kaiser, 30, recently became the Vancouver system's fourth woman driver.

Hydro "assesses all applications on merit," said the spokesman, and starting pay for drivers is $4.98 hourly — for both males and females.

$1,000 TAKEN IN MOTEL THEFT

More than $1,000 was stolen from the Craigflower Motel early this morning, Esquimalt police said today.

A spokesman said $314 cash and $795 in cheques were taken from a desk drawer in the manager's office.

Police said there was no sign of forced entry, adding the thief or thieves may have entered through a rear door.

A metal box containing keys to washers, dryers and pop-machine coin boxes was also taken.

Committee Enlarged In Hunt for President

The University of Victoria board of governors has approved a senate recommendation that an additional four faculty members should sit on a committee to find a new president.

President Dr. Hugh Farquhar has announced his intention to resign.

Additional faculty members on the committte are: Dr. D. J. Chabassol, Dr. J. L. Climenhaga, Dr. C. B. Daniels and Dr. Alfred Fischer.

The total committee membership stands at 14 and also includes officials and student representatives.

Ketch Overdue

A Canadian-registered 41-foot ketch, which left Yokahama, bound for Seattle Sept. 16 is overdue.

Freighters and other vessels using the Pacific shipping lanes have been asked to keep a lookout for the Pacific Mariner, recently completed in Taiwan.

A Pacific Rescue Co-ordinate Centre spokesman said four men are believed to be aboard the Pacific Mariner. Names are not available but at least one man is known to be a Canadian.

He said storms may have delayed the Pacific Mariner, which hasn't been heard from since she left port.

Sidney Rec Centre Facing Second Vote

By BRUCE OBEE
Times Staff

Sidney voters will likely be asked to vote again next year on a proposed $1.3 million recreation complex, Ald. Peter Malcolm said today.

Under amendments to the Municipal Act, effective Jan. 1, a referendum on the complex will need only 50 per cent to pass instead of the current 60 per cent.

Malcolm said the referendum's defeat Saturday indicated there was "obviously a segment of Sidney that didn't want it."

More than 57 per cent of Sidney's eligible voters turned out Saturday and the referendum, supported by 919 voters, fell 180 votes short of the required 60 per cent.

The provincial government had offered $333,333 toward the centre and the town would have needed to borrow $967,000, he said.

The provincial government's offer will likely stand in spite of the referendum's defeat, he added, and there is a further possibility of acquiring federal funds.

But a federal grant is not available until the plans are drawn and construction is about to begin, said Malcolm, so that money con't be promised to the voters before a referendum.

During council meetings before the referendum, the possibility of eliminating the curling rink was discussed. A pool and skating rink would cost $700,000, he said.

However, said Malcolm, it would be uneconomical to drop the curling rink because, generally curling rinks are the only money-makers in recreation complexes.

Outside Help Surveyed

Skating rinks normally break even and pools usually lose, he said.

Mayor Stan Dear had indicated earlier this week that another referendum could be held by next May, but Malcolm believes more time would be needed to explore the possibility of support from North Saanich and Central Saanich and a referendum could be held in the fall of 1974.

It would be senseless to approach Central Saanich at this point, he said, because a private company is in the midst of planning a complex in that municipality.

But "you've got a totally different outlook on that North Saanich council now," said Malcolm.

Central Saanich Mayor Archie Galbraith agrees his municipality's hands are tied until Western Recreational Resources Ltd., the company planning the privately-operated complex, decides whether to go ahead with the plan.

North Saanich mayor-elect Paul Grieve is doubtful North Saanich residents would offer support.

"I know that there're a lot of pro-recreation people have been elected,' said Grieve, "and I am worried about what the kids have to do out there."

But a number of older people in the municipality are trying to hang on to their homes by keeping their taxes down, he said, and North Saanich residents don't see the children congregating on the Sidney streets.

Isherwoods Fined $100

Former Saanich alderman and victoria' lawyer Foster Isherwood and his three brothers were each fined $100 when they pleaded guilty in Victoria provincial court Wednesday to violating the conditions of a pollution control permit.

The four—Foster, John, Joseph and George Isherwood — co-owners of the Royal Oak Inn on Elk Lake Road in Saanich had been charged by the B.C. Pollution Control Board with allowing effluent to discharge on their property intermittently between Sept. 13 and Nov. 8.

In passing sentence Judge William Ostler said it was "an offence of strict liability."

However, he said, it was "of utmost importance that the conditions of a permit be exactly complied with."

A technician with the pollution control branch, Kenneth Austin, testified he saw treated domestic wastes being discharged from a lagoon" directly to the ground" on Sept. 13.

The discharge was a contravention of a pollution order which specified that between September and May the effluent must be discharged by spray irrigation.

Austin said the spray irrigation equipment was not in use at the time and added he had been told it was "non-operative" awaiting a spare part.

Joseph Isherwood testifed the effluent had escaped into a field after a maintenance man had inadvertently opened the valve to the bottom lagoon in the three lagoon oxidization treatment system. The wastes ran into a 12-acre field at the back of the property.

"Ordinarily it would have been contained in the boundaries of the field," he said. "But years ago a farmer installed underground tiles there which we didn't know existed. The effluent collected under the tiles and ran onto a neighbor's property."

He said when that happened he hired a backhoe to dig up the tiles.

Power Squadron Picks Islanders

Two local boatsmen have been elected to top posts in tre nation-wide Canadian Power Squadrons.

Jack Simpson of Sidney is the chief commander and Oliver Summers, of 3680 Cadboro Bay, is vice-commander and national training officer.

They were elected at the CPS's 25th national conference in Saint John, N.B.

Simpson had completed a two-year term as vice-commander and national executive officer.

Before that he held a number of positions in the Victoria Power Squadron, which he joined in 1961, and later commanded. He was district commander of the Vancouver Island District from 1964 to 1966.

Still active in teaching local students in boating knowledge, Simpson is now a member of the Saanich Peninsula Power Squadron, which he helped found five years ago.

This is the first time in CPS history that a westerner has headed the organization.

Summers made boating history in 1972 when he became the first skipper of a power cruiser to accompany yachts in the Victoria-Maui race in his boat — Summer Star.

He is also a former commander of the Victoria Power Squadron and Vancouver Island District and has been active in local training since 1966.

A non-profit organization, CPS is dedicated to promote safe boating through education. Its volunteer members teach safe boat handling, navigation and other advanced courses from October to March each year.

More than 30,000 students have graduated from the basic boating course.

There are more than 14,000 active and associate members in 122 squadrons, grouped in 13 districts across Canada.

Save-Shoreline Plan Drawn Up

A proposal for the preservation of shoreline on Vancouver Island and the mainland will be submitted to the provincial government next month by the island section of the B.C. Wildlife Federation.

The federation at its Dec. 8 general meeting in Parksville will submit to members a brief urging the government to set up a Provincial Coastal Zone Authority.

The major function would be to provide British Columbia with a comprehensive program for the conservation and restoration of shoreline along the seasore, lakes and rivers.

"I believe this is the first concrete grassroot proposal made to the government to put an end to a system which alienates the shoreline to the general public," said Ed Mankelow, president.

"A typical example of the lack of planning existing today is the Reid centre on Wharf Street," he said. "The capital region has about 200 miles of shoreline, but only about nine miles is usable public waterfront property."

The brief says extensive waterfront subdivisions in prime areas, ineffective patchwork defences against erosion and the disturbance of wildlife habitats around estuaries all point to the need for a provincial authority.

It notes that most of the present waterfront developments benefit only a minority of British Columbians.

"Jurisdictions concerning the government of our waterfront are so divided among local, municipal, regional, provincial and federal authorities that they frustrate any attempts at comprehensive coastal management," the brief states.

It notes that as migration into British Columbia coastal zone continues, more land will be required for housing at the sea's edge and in from the immediate shoreline.

"The piecemeal, unplanned, uncontrolled, unregulated system that has been used in many areas cannot continue," it states.

The brief said the function of a Provincial Coastal Zone Authority would be:

—Defining the coastal zone and dividing it into suitably homogenous regions.

—Setting up and supporting Regional Coastal Zone Authorities to interpret the provincial program in terms of local conditions.

—Creating coastal area preserves in exceptionally scenic or ecological fragile areas.

—Restricting and regulating strip development of the coastline.

—Locating and controlling public accesses.

—Researching and innovating ways of improving the uses of coastal zone as a complete natural system regardless of local political boundaries.

Get Yourself a Piece of Oak Bay Before It's All Gone

This could be your last chance to own an apartment by the ocean, right on Beach Drive and within walking distance of the world famous Oak Bay Marina and Restaurant, the Windsor Park rose gardens and just about anything else you could want at the Oak Bay Village.

Yes, there will be resales in Oak Bay. But one thing is almost certain. You'll pay a lot more for it than a new one of your choice at the ROYAL ALEXANDRA. So, if stands to reason, if you're remotely interested in having a place in Oak Bay it would be worth your while to come see the ROYAL ALEXANDRA.

1-Bedroom Apartments
From $31,500

2-Bedroom Apartments
From $39,900

Almost every extra luxury has been provided ... like a sauna, a therapeutic pool, exercise pavilion, hobby room, freezer room, underground parking with owner operated electronically controlled gates.

Each apartment is larger and more luxuriously appointed than you would expect at these prices.

If you've ever wanted a place in Oak Bay now is the time to get it before they're all gone.

HOW TO WRITE
A GOOD
CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you information you give are the have to offer: the details and most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call:

SPACE REPAIR STARTS

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two Skylab 3 astronauts floated out of the giant space station today and began an ambitious Thanksgiving Day spacewalk to repair an antenna and load fresh film in their solar observatory.

Edward Gibson and William Pogue opened the hatch at 9:43 a.m. PST, an hour and 33 minutes behind schedule, to start the planned walk that could easily last eight hours.

PHILIP

ON THE CHEAP

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Philip caused some red faces among dignitaries attending the opening of a London sports centre Wednesday.

He arrived at the site in a Vauxhall while other officials drove up in Rolls Royces.

A palace spokesman said today Philip left his Rolls, which does eight miles to the gallon, in the garage and took the Vauxhall, which does 34 miles, as a personal gesture in the fuel crisis.

Prince Charles followed his father's example when he flew to Spain aboard a scheduled airliner Tuesday instead of using the Queen's private plane, which had been laid on for him, the spokesman said.

News of the young prince's mode of transport came as a political controversy flared over a company executive jet being flown empty to Italy to pick up a British businessman and bring him home.

Macdonald To Seek Crisis Power

Times News Services

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald will ask Parliament on Monday for emergency powers to deal with the possibility of a fuel shortage in Canada this winter, according to a Toronto report today.

Quoting Parliamentary sources, the Globe and Mail said these powers would give Ottawa tighter control on the supply of gasoline, home heating oils and other petroleum fuels.

The powers Macdonald will ask for are said to be along the lines of those being proposed in the United States and would enable the federal government to act immediately in a crisis, even though they would not necessarily mean Ottawa will move immediately to curtail the distribution and sale of petroleum products.

Prime Minister Trudeau, meanwhile, plans a nationwide address at 6:30 PST tonight on energy policy, an issue which could cost the government the crucial support of the New Democratic Party.

Asked why he selected tonight as the time for the report, since Energy Minister Macdonald will be discussing the issue with his provincial counterparts Friday, the prime minister said that "it is as good a time as any."

He was also asked by reporters whether new government policies would be announced.

"A situational report is a good way of describing it," he replied.

In Montreal, Tory leader Stanfield said today home heating oil product prices should be controlled throughout Canada for the duration of the winter.

"This controlled price should take effect immediately and should be maintained throughout the winter while industry and the government negotiate a voluntary price freeze on Canadian crude oil," he said.

Stanfield said the lifting of the government's price freeze on Feb. 1 would create two types of Canadians, those in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces paying higher prices, and those in the rest of Canada," he said.

Once the freeze was listed, he said, the government should adopt a policy permitting only gradual increases, in consultation with provincial governments.

In another energy crisis development U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger may meet with West European foreign ministers early next month to discuss united action that can be taken on the Middle East stiuation and the oil shortage.

There has been no evidence what action he and the ministers might take in response to production cuts and embargos by Arab oil countries, but the subject of economic sanctions has been raised.

In the next three to four weeks the Arab boycott against the Netherlands and its huge oil terminals is expected to be cutting deep into Western Europe's oil supplies.

Kissinger is due in Brussels Dec. 10 to join foreign ministers from 14 allied countries at the annual meeting of the

Food Chain Fined

Times News Services

TORONTO — Dominion Stores Ltd., an eastern food store chain, was fined $10,000 in provincial court today for false advertising in connection with a newspaper advertisement last Aug. 4.

The advertisement, which appeared in a Toronto newspaper and was signed by company President Thomas Bolton, promised Dominion would not raise their price of goods already on the shelves.

But two witnesses testified during a three-day trial that they saw store employees repricing shelf goods on the day the advertisement appeared. Other witnesses said they saw the same practice being carried out by employees of other stores Aug. 6 and 7.

Meanwhile Consumer Affairs Minister Herb Gray told the Commons Wednesday that further charges are expected to be laid over the next few weeks as a result of food prices review board criticism of grocery stores for devious selling practices.

Answering questions about the board's report, made public earlier in the day, Gray told James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) that some charges were laid last week and more can be expected.

Russia Sends Superjet

CAIRO — The Soviet Union has delivered a new, advanced model of the MiG-21 fighter-bomber to Egypt as part of a continuing flow of sophisticated weapons that leaves Egypt more heavily-armed than before the October war with Israel, reliable Western informants reported Wednesday.

Thirty-five to 40 of the new "Super-MiGs" arrived in Egypt in the past week, these sources said. They declined to give specifications of the new plane.

There is also a report here — which western sources stress is still unconfirmed — that the Russians have turned over one or two squadrons of MiG-23 fighters, modified for combat at lower altitudes, to Egyptian pilots within the past three weeks.

The Russians reportedly had one or two squadrons of MiG-23s in Egypt on reconnaisance duty before President Anwar Sadat ousted 15,000 to 20,000 Russian military advisers in July, 1972.

Perhaps more significant for the prospects of resumption of warfare in the Middle East — a fear expressed by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir Wednesday — is the rebuilding of Egypt's ground forces that has taken place since the Oct. ceasefire went into effect.

Egyptian and foreign sources report that the Egyptians have reformed two armored divisions with the 600 or more new tanks delivered by the Russians since the ceasefire.

Most of this armor has gone to the regrouped Egyptian Third Army on the West Bank of the Suez Canal, which has taken up positions in front of the Israeli line stretching between the towns of Ismailia and Suez, military experts here say.

Tearful Tribute For WAC

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

VANCOUVER — Party officials struggled to hold back an already-frantic Bill Bennett campaign band this morning as it marched its way through the halls of the Hotel Vancouver less than an hour after the opening of the Social Credit convention.

In that short time, delegates were already worked up to something just short of a fever pitch as they began their rally with a farewell to "the old chief," W. A. C. Bennett.

It was the women's auxiliary of the Social Credit Party which actually opened the three-day convention today and more than 200 women and a scattering of men, averaging somewhere over 50 years of age, gathered under the massive chandeliers of the hotel's Pacific Ballroom to pay a tearful homage to Bennett.

More than 1,500 Social Crediters from around the province have registered for the convention so far.

Girls in white blouses and green felt skirts ushered the party faithful into the ballroom where they waited patiently, entertained by a woman in a black pillbox hat who played vaguely familiar tunes on a piano.

Bennett finally appeared with a small entourage and was bagpiped into the room.

While outside campaign workers for the leadership candidates scurried about organizing razzle-dazzle displays of power, the old party members inside the ballroom sang O Canada, recited the Social Credit creed and the Social Credit prayer.

Agnes Kripps, former MLA and now women's auxiliary president, began the proceedings with a warning that the party must not make a mistake when choosing a new leader Saturday.

She and other platform speakers carefully avoided discussing the six candidates vying for the office and only the slightest hint of tension flowed through the seated delegates as she mentioned the race which will be the focal point of the convention.

Mrs. Kripps moved quickly to the favorite topic of growing Socred memberships.

"Organize, organize, organize," she said, beseeching the delegates to join with her in a chant: "We can do it, we must do it, we will do it."

Bennett himself, dried the tears from his eyes as he took the podium after listening to a multitude of tributes from MLA Pat Jordan, who said the old premier would be remembered in history "as the single most successful politician in Canada."

"And perhaps as the most successful social reformer in Canada," she added.

During his 20 years in office, Mrs. Jordan said the Socred leader had made B.C. "an example to the whole free world."

"We love him," she said.

In between standing ovations, Bennett was every bit his old self as he called for a "holy crusade" of non-socialists in B.C. to defeat the NDP government.

Garnishees Revived

OTTAWA (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission has re-implemented under new guides the use of garnishees to collect unemployment insurance overpayments after the practice was stopped in mid-July.

Boycott Talks Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senator Ed Lawson, Teamsters Union international vice-president and president of Joint Council 36 in British Columbia, said Wednesday he will meet the B.C. Premier Dave Barrett and Health Minister Dennis Cocke in Victoria next Tuesday to discuss Lawson's allegation that Cocke "knowingly deceived" him about a California grapes boycott at provincially-operated health facilities.

Decision Upheld

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba court of appeal Wednesday declined to reverse a lower court decision allowing the transfer of $4 million and assets of Churchill Forest Industries to a newly created provincial crown corporation.

Torture Alleged

LAHORE (AP) — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto is "mounting a campaign of terror" against his political opponents, says the leader of one of Pakistan's major opposition parties. Asgar Khan, head of the Tehrik-I-Istiklal party, said Wednesday in an interview there have been widespread arrests and torture of opposition party workers.

OUR MAN IN CAIRO RECALLED

OTTAWA (CP) — A foreign service officer who committed a "grave breach of discipline" by writing a letter to a newspaper criticizing Canadian Middle East policy is being recalled.

A spokesman for the immigration department said Pierre Brisson, third secretary of the Canadian embassy in Cairo, will not be punished but will undergo further training.

He said Brisson, an employee of the foreign service of the immigration department, committed a "grave breach of discipline" when he wrote the letter to the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir.

The letter, appearing in the Nov. 10 edition, said Canada is prejudiced toward Israel.

Among other things, the letter asks why Canada supports the existence of Israel and closes its eyes to the occupation of Arab lands by Israel.

"Could the real reason for the 'incoherence' of the 'politicians' be that it pays to support Israel at election time?

"This would be to admit that Jewish capital controls Canadian external policy and evidently makes it qualify as racist, or Nazi."

The immigration spokesman said the letter was a clear infraction of regulations forbidding foreign service officers from involving themselves in political discussions.

Meanwhile, the external affairs department said Canadian Ambassador Andrew Ross in Chile is not being recalled, despite demands from New Democratic Party MPs last week.

Ross has been a centre of controversy since letters he sent to the external affairs department were leaked.

Court Lifts Project Ban

MONTREAL (CP) — The Court of Appeal suspended today a Quebec Superior Court injunction granted last week which halted work on the $6-billion James Bay hydro-electric project in northwestern Quebec.

In a unanimous decision, a panel of three Court of Appeal justices ruled that the bill setting up the James Bay Development Corp. (JBDC) was constitutional until ruled unconstitutional or repealed.

The court ruled that the legislation was passed in the general and public interest of Quebec and that this public interest outweighs the interest of what the courts said were 2,000 native peoples in the James Bay region.

In the judgment read by Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay of the Court of Appeal, the court said the temporary injunction should remain suspended until the appeal is decided or until the court orders otherwise.

A lawyer for the native peoples said they will take the decision to the Supreme Court of Canada immediately.

James O'Reilly said they could go before the Supreme Court to ask leave to appeal as early as next week.

Mr. O'Reilly, who appeared downcast as he spoke to reporters after the ruling, said that if the Supreme Court grants leave to appeal, all proceedings in Quebec courts would be suspended. Today's ruling, he said, would be suspended and the injunction issued a week ago by Mr. Justice Albert Malouf of Quebec Superior Court would go back into effect.

Indian leaders attending the court hearing also expressed disappointment.

Chief Andrew Delisle, president of the Indians of Quebec Association, said "we feel the evidence we presented was not looked into completely."

He also said there have been some preliminary contacts with the provincial government and negotiations on

Germ Threat Made

BONN (Reuter) — The spectre of a mad scientist or sinister organization holding the country to ransom with phials of deadly bacteria hangs over West Germany.

The mass-circulation newspaper Bild says threats to spread the bacteria of anthrax and botulism through the mail or plant them in factories, hotels, shopping centres or the public water supplies of several large cities were contained in four letters sent to Chancellor Willy Brandt's office.

The letters demanded a $8.7-million ransom to stop the threats, which also included bomb attacks on public buildings and the kinapping of government members, the newspaper says.

Bild says authorities responded by placing a brief "We accept" message in the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel.

Police, security officials and a government spokesman in Bonn all declined to comment on the extortion story or on the cryptic message in Der Spiegel.

HE WAS RICH . . . FOR A FEW BLOCKS

VANCOUVER (CP)—William Wood doesn't remember it very well but once was rich for a few minutes Oct. 17.

The 62-year-old man was sentenced to six months Tuesday after he was convicted of robbing a branch of the Royal Bank of $1,588.

Judge A. J. Carmichael said Wood had "sufficient liquor in him to make a lot of people pass out."

Wood had a blood alcohol reading of .19 shortly after his arrest. Legal driving impairment is .08 per cent blood alcohol.

"I remember coming out of the bank," Wood told the court, "but I don't recall being in there.

"I'm a born loser, but at least I was rich for a few blocks."

AUTO PLANT MANAGER KILLED IN ARGENTINE

CORDOBA (AP) — Terrorists early today shot and killed the American manager of an automobile plant, killed one of his bodyguards and wounded two others in a machine-gun attack, Argentine police said.

The American was identified as John Albert Swint. He headed Transax, an automobile parts factory which is a subsidiary of the Ford auto company.

Police said Swint was on his way to his office when his chauffeur-driven car slowed for a large truck parked across the road. As the car eased around the truck, shooting broke out from all sides.

Police said the attackers apparently were members of the Marxist-led People's Revolutionary Army, known as the ERP.

Bank Profit Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Bank of British Columbia had a profit increase of 35.9 per cent for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1973, compared with the previous year.

Assets rose 30.2 per cent to $317,866,195 from $244,175,618. Deposits rose 33.3 per cent to $295,304,818 from $221,616,341 and loans outstanding at the year end were up 31 per cent at $235,066,995 from $179,451,571.

Securities held by the bank were valued at $16,242,237, down 25.1 per cent from $21,684,657 at the previous year end.

The bank's balance of revenue was up 63.3 per cent at $1,313,808 compared with $804,545.

Balance of profits was $413,808, up 35.9 per cent from $304,545 in the previous year.

Dividends of 50 cents a share were paid in fiscal 1973 compared with 20 cents in fiscal 1972.

The bank has 23 branches, all in B.C.

Tot's Welfare Comes First

OTTAWA (CP) — A child's welfare has been placed above the rights of natural parents in custody cases in a trend-reversing decision today by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court agreed with an August Ontario Court of Appeal decision that four-year-old Lisa Moores of Toronto, also known as Carrie Feldstein, should remain with the people who have raised her rather than return to her natural mother.

Three high court judges have dismissed a motion to appeal the Ontario court decision made earlier this week by lawyers for Carrie's natural mother.

In the past, other major cases have tended to favor natural parents as the proper ones to decide the destiny of a child.

But the Ontario court followed a British precedent and ruled that paramount consideration in custody cases should be the welfare of the child.

Carrie was born July 1, 1969, to Jane Louise Moores but began living with Carl and Mary Feldstein 10 days later.

Mrs. Moores then asked the Supreme Court for permission to review the Ontario decision, and three judges — Mr. Justices Roland Ritchie, Wilfred Judson and Wishart Spence — considered the request in a small courtroom earlier this week.

During the hearing, the lawyer for Mrs. Moores, Joseph Lewis, argued that the Ontario court had not followed legal principles on custody outlined in a number of recent Supreme Court decisions. The Ontario court had wrongly applied the British case, he said.
